BULL MARKET FOR STOCKS MEETS SALES LATE IN DAY

Close Is Irregularly Higher —Several Utilities and Oils Make Tops for Day in Afternoon.

BROKERS LOANS UP $26,000,000

the Associated Press.

EW YORK, April 10.—Heavy it taking, influenced in part the possibility of a large in- ease in brokers' loans, checked sharp rally in prices in the last our of trading today, although nal quotations were irregularly igher and several of the public tilities and oils made their top rices of the day in the closing ealings. Trading, which started ff at a terrific pace, slowed down ter, the day's sales of nearly 5,- 000 shares falling about 300,- shares below the recent high ecord for the year.

Loans to brokers and dealers eld by New York Federal Re- rve member banks for the week nding April 9, were anonunced by e Federal Reserve Board after e close of the market as $3,- ,000,000 representing an in- ease of $26,000,000 as compared ith the preceding week.

Analysis of the report shows ans for own account decreased 6,000,000 while loans for ac- unt of out of town banks in- eased $80,000,000 and loans for count of others rose $23,000,- 0.

The New York Stock Exchange nounced that the ratio of total rrowings by members to the to- value of all listed stocks on ril 1 was 6.12 per cent, an in- e of 0.23 per cent. This, how- r, compared favorably with ril 1 of 1929, when the ratio ood at the high level of 9.75.

The rapidity of the advance also to heavy realizing from con- rvative commission houses, who vised their customers that the arket was entitled to a further action on purely technical ounds. For the first time in sev- l days, bull forces were favored a series of constructive trade elopments.

Coppers Are Reactionary.

The continued aloofness of heavy pper consumers from the red etal market, except for current quirements was a source of un- siness to some. Coppers were ain reactionary, although the eclines were moderate in charac- r.

Despite the fact that some of all street's largest "bear" traders e reported to have taken large ses in their unsuccessful at- mpts to break some of the spe- alty shares, short selling was ain conducted on a fairly large ale in today's session. United rcraft, which has been a favorite lling target, dipped more than 3 ints to 89⅛, and Johns-Manville s hampered down more than 5 ints. General Electric, which crossed 95 to a new 1930 high in the session, sold down to , off 1¼ net, at the close.

Time Money Eases.

With the exception of an easier e in the shorter maturities, 30 d 60 day time loans being quot- at 3¾ to 4 per cent, as against to 4¼ per cent yesterday, there s no material change in credit nditions. Call money renewed changed at 4 per cent, but was ered to 3½ per cent around when a fresh supply of funds tered the market, as was the case sterday. Money was available in e "outside market" at 3 per cent hen the official rate was lowered.

The reduction in the call money e an unexpected increase of 90,- 5 tons in the March unfilled or- rs of the United States Steel Cor- ration, and an increase of about cents a barrel in Mid-Continent de oil prices, helped to generate llish enthusiasm. Blocks of 5000 35,000 shares appeared on the e at frequent intervals early.

Foreign exchanges were firm, flecting maintenance of the 3½ r cent Bank of England rate. erling Cables rallied ¼ of a cent $4.86⅝, and other European rrencies were firm with the ex- ption of the Spanish paseta, hich sagged slightly.

Stock prices, with other ta- s and market news, will be ound on pages 13C, 14C and 15C.

DAWES IN LONDON RADIOS SPEECH TO CHICAGO BANQUET

Tells Business Men Gangsters Are "But Hornets on Flank of Lion."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, speaking from London over a radio-telephone hookup, told 2000 Chicago business men last night that gangsters were "but hornets on the flank of a lion."

The banquet was a part of a campaign to stress Chicago's civic virtues rather than its gang murders and lawlessness.

Dawes, whose home is in Evanston, a suburb of Chicago, said the city "needs no defense. This generation may fail to do its duty to her and contribute to her onward step, but the advance of Chicago, inexorable, irresistible and imperial, goes on and will go on through the centuries."

The Ambassador briefly sketched the cultural and industrial growth of the city and continued:

"Consider all this, you who are obsessed by the fear that the organization of a few contemptible un-American gangsters cannot be mastered and stamped out by this generation of Chicagoans. Once it is aroused, they are but hornets on the flank of a lion. Yet, they are stinging the lion into action. Their buzzing, while it may interfere with perspective at home, does not do so abroad."

FLINT, MICH., FOR DRY REPEAL IN LITERARY DIGEST'S POLL

Independence, Mo., Favors Enforcement, but Hannibal Votes Wet.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 10. — Flint, Mich., home of a great automobile industry, shows fewer votes for enforcement of the prohibition laws than for either modification or repeal, in the Literary Digest prohibition poll. SENATE GROUP APPROVES COUZENS POWER BOARD BILL Measure Provides for Appointed Citizens Instead of Ex-Officio Members of Cabinet.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10. — The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today ordered a favorable report to the Senate on the Couzens bill to reorganize the Federal Power Commission, setting up an independent group of appointed citizens in place of the three ex-officio members from the President's Cabinet.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, chairman of the committee, said after the meeting he would report the measure today or tomorrow. He expressed the hope the bill would become law "in time for the President to send the names of the nominees for confirmation before the Senate adjourns.

The bill would take all executive power from the office of executive secretary of the Power Commission. F. E. Bonner, incumbent, was criticised on the floor of the Senate while the investigation was in progress.

DEWEY GOEBEL IS ACQUITTED OF HOLDUP OF BANK

He Offered Suprise Alibi Alleging He Was in Jail When Hamilton State Depository Was Robbed.

STATE WITNESS ATTACKED IT

Former Maplewood Chief Testified That Police Record Cited by Defense Was Forged.

Dewey Goebel was acquitted by a jury in Circuit Judge Hamilton's court at 4 o'clock this afternoon of participation in the $10,000 Hamilton State Bank robbery of March 5, 1926.

A surprise alibi had been introduced in Goebel's defense during trial of the case today in the form of a Maplewood Police Department record which showed that he was in the holdover there from the night before until four hours after the holdup.

The State, in rebuttal, countered with another surprise in the person of Thomas J. Caldwell, former Chief of Police at Maplewood, who repudiated the record, pronounced the signature of the arresting officer a forgery and declared that Goebel never had been arrested in Maplewood during his four-year-term which ended in 1927.

The case consisted mainly of Goebel's doubted alibi against the story of Frank Silsby, former St. Louis gangster, who traded his testimony for immunity. Lester Barth convicted last month on Silsby's testimony, stood on a simple denial and a plea that he did not remember where he was when the bank was robbed.

Goebel's Elaborate Defense.

Goebel's defense was elaborate. It opened with the introduction of the Maplewood department's 1926 report book, which was taken into court by Patrolman Arthur E. Mann, who pointed out an item signed "Officer Hall," which related that Goebel was arrested at 11:30 p. m., March 4, at the Maplewood loop as a suspect and that he had been held until 2 p. m., March 5.

Though taken by surprise, Assistant Circuit Attorney Hennings immediately rose to question the authenticity of the record. Mann testified Special Officer A. B. Hall died two years ago and that the record might have been written by someone else who signed Hall's name for him. No one on the force now, he said, was on duty during the period covered by the entry.

While Goebel gave a detailed account of his movements before and after his alleged arrest, Hennings sent out a hurry call for the former Chief, Caldwell, who arrived in time to appear in rebuttal without delaying the proceedings.

"Would Not Use 'Officer.'"

Caldwell bluntly declared that the handwriting of the notation was not that of Hall. Occasionally, he said, entries were made for an arresting officer by others on the force, but no one would have used the title "Officer" for a man who was a special officer or patrolman.

Caldwell would not venture an opinion as to how the entry got into the record, but explained that the record book had been kept in an open desk in order that any member of the force might have access to it. Frequently, he added, the office was deserted and anyone might have walked in and inspected the book.

He looked at Goebel and declared he had never seen him before and was positive in refuting Goebel's testimony that he had asked Caldwell to let him use the telephone while in custody and had been refused.

Asked if he ordered Goebel's release at 2 p .m., March 5. Caldwell replied: "I did not; he was not in the jail."

"Never Saw Silsby Before."

Goebel declared the first time he saw Silsby was when Silsby took the stand yesterday and declared they were accomplices in the bank robbery. He admitted he was at the home of Mrs. Marie Payton, 2633 January avenue, the evening before the robbery, as State's witnesses have said, but declared he was arrested in Maplewood on his way home and could not possibly have been there the next morning.

Living in Florissant, St. Louis County, he was bootlegging for a living at the time and went to Mrs. Payton's home to buy beer. There were 10 or 15 men in the house but none he knew, he said, so he sat alone in the kitchen. Crank five or six quarts of beer at 30 cents each and talked to Mrs. Payton and her husband "about alcohol." Barth, his friend and associate, was not there, he said, and

Coolidge Has No Intention Of Returning to Public Life

To Have Former President in Washington Exercising Political Power Would Cause Complications, He Writes.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Former President Calvin Coolidge, in a copyrighted article in the May issue of Hearst's International and Cosmopolitan, writes that he has no intention of returning to public life.

The former President gives his views on prohibition, the tariff, playing the market, the suggestion that he run for Senator, the talk of another term and "minding one's own business."

"When I left Washington I left public office," Coolidge says. "It is an incomprehensible relief and I have no intention of returning to it.

"If I were in the Senate," he adds, "it would not be agreeable to many of my colleagues, and with all my desires to be helpful it would probably often times be an embarrassment to the Administration. To have a former President in Washington exercising political power would result in all kinds of uncomfortable complications. Only the necessity of serving in some national crisis, so great as to subordinate all other considerations, would warrant it.

"Nor," he says further, "do I have any sympathy with those who are discussing again making me President. The service that I could give to the people in that office I feel is done."

Coolidge discusses prohibition at some length and in connection therewith the editor of the Cosmopolitan has singled out for prominent presentation this sentence:

"Considering that people have differed most radically on the best method of regulating the sale of liquor for generations, it is not likely to be settled for a long time to come."

Built at an estimated cost of $2,500,000, the Corsair has a cruising range of 25,000 miles.

25 CUSTOMS AGENTS UNDER INVESTIGATION

NEW YORK, April 10.—About 25 customs inspectors, approximately one-half of 1 per cent of the total number employed in New York, are under suspicion of graft and other irregularities, Commissioner of Customs Frank X. Eble of Washington told the Committee of Twenty-Five yesterday.

A meeting of the committee, appointed to inquire into customs conditions and recommend changes to improve the service at New York piers, was attended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, and Eble and 23 members.

Eble said that 22,000, not 200,000, questionnaires had been sent to persons who had passed through New York customs and had their baggage inspected by the suspected 25 inspectors. The evidence that might be turned up by these questionnaires was all needed, he said, to clinch cases against the men, and if this evidence is forthcoming all will be dismissed from the service. Eble said that out of a total of nearly $603,000,000 collected by customs in 1929, $300,000,000 had been collected in New York. Only $4,000,000 of this, he said, represented duty paid by travelers on baggage and personal purchases made in foreign lands.

The amount of graft or other irregular transactions which might have been involved in the examination of this $4,000,000 worth of baggage he could not guess, but he was sure that if only 25 out of a total of 775 men were suspected the graft or gratuities involved could not amount to any great sum.

$3,000,000 TO FIGHT LOCUSTS

Credit Sought by Egyptian Government; Situation Serious.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, April 10.—The Egyptian Government is asking for a credit of more than $3,000,000 to fight locusts. The insect hordes are imperiling the cotton crop and the situation is regarded as grave.

A swarm of locusts appeared over Cairo last evening. Other dense swarms descended on Sinai and the migration is continuing in the direction of the Nile Delta. The Government has already purchased 63 motor cars for patrol service and is mobilizing men to combat the insects.

By the Associated Press.

AMMAN, Palestine, April 10.—One-third of the population of this city was engaged today in warfare against a plague of locusts, which has become a serious menace to agriculture and property.

SAYS POSTMASTER GENERAL TRIED TO MISLEAD SENATE

ATTACKS STATEMENT ISSUED BY BROWN

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10. — A formal statement charging Postmaster-General Brown with "deliberately attempting to mislead the Senate" with respect to the leasing of a postoffice building at St. Paul was issued today by Representative Maas (Rep.), Minnesota.

Discussion of the St. Paul postoffice lease in the Senate resulted in a resolution by Senator Blaine (Rep.), Wisconsin, for a general investigation of postoffice leases. Blaine and Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, charged that there were evidences of "collusion and fraud." Previously Maas had assailed the St. Paul lease in the House.

The Senate today voted to retain the provision in the postoffice appropriation bill stipulating that no funds shall be paid during the forthcoming fiscal year for upkeep of the commercial postoffice station in St. Paul. The vote was 35 to 25. After failure to get immediate consideration of his resolution for investigation of Post Office leases, Blaine served notice he would make another attempt in a day or two.

Maas' statement was in answer, it said, to Brown's statement issued yesterday that his only connection with the leasing of the building was that of insuring that it was safe for occupancy.

"As a matter of fact," Maas said, "the Postmaster-General's connection with the lease was far more intimate."

The statement continued that Brown sent Assistant Postmaster-General Coleman to make an investigation of the condition of the building last October, while the Government was attempting to condemn the building and vacate the lease.

"Coleman, with Brown's knowledge, held an ex parte hearing in the postoffice in St. Paul, calling in only witnesses for the owners," Maas' statement said, adding that this evidence alone was given out. "It was a strange way for a client —the Postoffice Department—to assist his counsel, the attorneys in the condemnation proceeding," Maas added, "and every other bit of help the Postoffice Department has given has been just as strange."

Grossly Fraudulent, Says Glass.

Glass (Dem.) Virginia, expressed the view in the Senate that the lease for the commercial station in St. Paul was "grossly fraudulent."

Phipps, (Rep.), Colorado, explained that the Government had not paid any money on this lease since March, 1928, when a grand jury reported the lease was "tainted with fraud."

Administration forces opposed the House provision on the ground that it was unnecessary and might prejudice the case involving the St. Paul lease now before the courts.

There is still before the Senate the resolution by Blaine (Rep.), calling for a Senate inquiry into all Government leases of temporary Postoffice buildings,

The statement continued that Brown permitted the insertion in the appropriation bill of an item of $120,000 for rent on the St. Paul building, "though the St. Paul authorities had already condemned the building."

Maas said later Brown appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee and asked that the amendment be stricken out.

Occupied Condemned Building.

"Several weeks ago the Postmaster-General asked the Treasury Department to make still further investigation of the condition of the site," the statement said.

Although the property had been condemned, Maas said, the Postoffice Department occupied it until two weeks before final action by the court.

Then, he added, a report on the Treasury Department's investigation, was issued, declaring the building 99 per cent sound. This report stated, he said, that the building adjoining the postoffice sub-station was in danger of collapse. The two buildings had one wall in common, the statement said, and the report recommended piling furniture in the postoffice

BANK EMBEZZLER

MARVIN E. PHILLIPS.

Marvin E. Phillips, Assistant Cashier at Vandervoort's Bank Says He Began Two Years Ago.

Ups and downs at roulette wheels and dice tables, with the downs predominating, led Marvin E. Phillips, 26-year-old confessed embezzler, to steal $31,600 from the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Bank in two years. About $20,000 had been stolen in the last 90 days.

Until recently assistant cashier in the bank at $36 a week, Phillips is in City Jail today in default of $10,000 bond, charged in a Federal warrant with embezzling funds of a bank of the Federal Reserve System. The bank is protected by a fidelity bond of $100,000.

Phillips was arrested Tuesday after information that he was losing heavily in East Side gambling resorts had caused the bank executives to order an audit, which disclosed the shortage.

Punctuating his recital with nervous laughter, Phillips, modishly dressed and wearing silver-rimmed spectacles, told reporters how he began frequenting a gambling house in Wellston about two years ago after overhearing bank customers describe the place.

"I'd go out there early in the evening, always alone," he said, "telling my wife I had to work overtime. At first I used my own and borrowed money, but after a few months, when I began to get behind, I started taking money from the bank. I took $80 the first time. I was making $30.50 a week as head teller then.

Wanted Wife to Quit Work.

"I wanted to get enough money so my wife could quit work, although she was perfectly satisfied to help out, and I wanted to get a $150 loan off my mind before she found out about it.

"I got in deeper and deeper. When the Wellston place was closed, I think it was Tony Foley's, I started going to the Hyde Park, in Venice, and the Southern Club, in East St. Louis. They gave me credit up to about $500. If I lost a couple of hundred one night I'd take it from the cash on hand at the bank, padding the cash figures on my teller's book, so the postings in the bank ledger would balance, and pay up at the club the next night. I won as much as $1000 or $1500 at a crack, but still I'd be behind.

"When I was made assistant cashier recently and my pay was raised to $36 a week, I was in too far to quit. I thought I'd make a comeback and then confess. But I didn't get the breaks. I tell you it was sickening after I got in. Tell the boys to stay within their means. Getting into mischief is like getting into quicksand.

"I'm sorry, but it's of no use to say so, because it doesn't mean anything. The money's gone. I'm through with all that. This is a sure cure."

Deceived Bank Examiner.

Phillips said he juggled accounts several times to deceive bank examiners and that he delayed entering records of deposits from the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Dry

U.S. PROPOSES COMPROMISE FIVE-POWER AGREEMENT

Pact, Including 3-Power Treaty, Would Omit Problems of France and Italy — 6-Year Capital Ship Holiday Suggested.

TONNAGE QUESTION OPEN TO ADHERENCE

America, Britain and Japan Approve Treaty Reducing England's Fleet to 15, With U. S. at Same Level and 9 for Tokio.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1930, by the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, April 10.—The American delegation proposed today to the others that the naval conference be wound up as speedily as possible, with the conclusion of single treaty that all five Powers could sign on the basis of agreements already reached.

This action says in effect that the delegation has surrendered the last hope of bringing France and Italy into an auxiliary tonnage limitation agreement.

The proposed pact would run to 1936, and would be in three parts. The first would provide for a capital ship holiday among all five Powers and would extend aircraft carrier limitation to ships under 10,000 tons according to the definition agreed upon yesterday. This would bring small aircraft carriers, as well as large ones, within the total tonnage limitation of 135,000 fixed for the United States and Britain at the Washington conference.

The second part would contain a submarine humanization agreement. The tonnage limitation on submarines, however, would go by the board because of the failure of the five Powers to agree on total tonnage limitation.

Embraces 3-Power Treaty.

The third and most important section would embrace a firm agreement which has been reached among the United States, Britain and Japan, to limit their auxiliary tonnage to specified figures in all categories.

The pact as outlined by the delegation would not contain a general consultative clause. Negotiation of this was contingent on the fulfillment of two conditions, namely, a security arrangement between Britain and France, and a consequent material reduction in French tonnage demands. Neither of these conditions has been met.

The pact would contain a so-called "escape clause," permitting the tonnage agreement among Britain, the United States and Japan to be reopened if any of them during the life of the treaty should feel itself menaced by outside building programs.

Briand Reported Favorable.

The idea of treating along the foregoing lines was taken up today by Secretary of State Stimson and Ambassador Morrow, with Foreign Minister Briand. He is understood to have given a favorable response.

The American delegation, in suggesting a treaty that all could sign, was moved by a desire not to slam the door against France and Italy. The hope was expressed that these two might later find it possible to come into the auxiliary tonnage agreement, which will be so drawn as to leave the latch string outside. In the closing days of the conference the Americans will continue their effort to wind up negotiations in such a manner as to leave a spirit of good will.

Stimson is still hoping the end will be reached in time to permit departure on the Leviathan April 22.

The Americans, British and Japanese have settled the last remaining point of difference arising out of the Japanese reservations and have finally and definitely cleared the way to a conclusion of a three-Power treaty, it was officially announced today.

This result was accomplished at a meeting of the heads of the three delegations this morning at St. James's Palace. Under the agreement there reached, Japan will not be required to scrap the Kongo as originally contemplated in the battleship scrapping program of the three Powers, but will be allowed to retain this ship for training purposes. Britain and the

ACTION EXPECTED AT THIS SESSION

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Wagner bill, providing for the establishment of a nation-wide system of Federal employment agencies, was favorably reported to the Senate today by the Commerce Committee, and action on it may be expected before the present session of Congress expires.

The measure is one of three prepared and offered by Senator Robert Wagner (Dem.), New York, for the purpose of improving employment conditions. The other two, one of which proposes the stabilization of employment conditions during hard times by a program of public works, and the other of which proposes the collection and publication of complete statistics on economic and employment conditions, were favorably reported a week ago. All three were introduced more than two years ago, and were pigeon-holed because of unwillingness on the part of administration Senators to allow a New York Democrat to have the credit for relieving unemployment.

What Bill Provides.

The bill reported today proposes the establishment of a United States employment service, under a director-general to be appointed by the President and to receive $10,000 a year salary. A woman assistant director would be appointed. The bill contemplates a policy of co-operation between the Federal and State Governments, whereby each would contribute in equal amounts to the placement of persons seeking jobs. It would authorize the appropriation of $4,000,000 for the year beginning July 1 next, of which 75 per cent would be apportioned among the states.

The director-general, in his discretion, would be empowered during the next three years to make apportionments to states having no employment bureaus, that period being allowed to enable them to establish bureaus and make appropriations.

Strenuous opposition to the bill has come from the National Association of Manufacturers, represented by its lobbyist, James A. Emery, and its president, John E. Edgerton. They objected to the bill before the committee on the ground that its operation would infringe the rights of the states, and that it would establish a Federal bureaucracy.

Wagner Answers Objections.

They also cited, as an additional argument against the bill, the fact that a similar proposal was condemned by President Harding in 1921. Finally, they doubt whether the measure would be constitutional.

Commenting on these objections today, Senator Wagner told the Post-Dispatch correspondent that "the spectacle of the National Association of Manufacturers appearing as the champion of states' rights and the Constitution is irresistibly comical. The fact is that they represent a class of employers who seek to take advantage of unemployment by reducing wages and lengthening hours of work. They feel that a permanent reservoir of hungry men and women is an economic necessity. I don't.

"The constitutional questions raised by them have been settled by the courts in dozens of cases. Any capable lawyer knows that the bill does not conflict with the law of the land."

Favorable reports on all three of the New Yorker's measures were made possible by the recent elevation of Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), California, to the chairmanship of the Commerce Committee, succeeding Senator Wesley Jones (Rep.), Washington.

COMPROMISE 5-POWER AGREEMENT PROPOSED BY U. S. DELEGATION

United States, in compensation, will be allowed to retain one ship on a similar demilitarized basis.

This means that Britain will reduce her battleship fleet to 15 by scrapping four ships and demilitarizing one, that the United States will come to the same level by scrapping two ships and demilitarizing one, and Japan will reduce to nine by putting the Kongo out of active service.

Replacements for Japan.

Japan will be permitted to make a certain amount of "accelerated replacements" in the light cruiser, destroyer and submarine categories. She will thus have the right to replace a limited number of vessels before the normal age limit is reached. The concession will enable her to keep dockyards at work and maintain a well-balanced and efficient fleet.

Her request for the right to make tonnage transfers between submarine and destroyer categories was withdrawn. Nothing in the final adjustment of differences alters the tonnage figures previously decided upon as basis of a three-Power agreement.

Tentative conferences plans call for a plenary session next week, at which views of all the Powers will be published to the world. Adjournment over Easter is likely, after which will come the final "mopping up" process.

J. L. Ralston, Canadian representative at the conference, who is sailing for home tomorrow, today expressed the belief that the conference had proved a pronounced success because of the three-Power pact.

The principal characteristic of that success, he said, was "establishment of the best possible relations between Great Britain and the United States."

Discussing the conference, Ralston said:

"It recognizes the substitution of agreement for force in international relations which has always been the policy of Canada since we have been a dominion. Its application is seen in the undefended frontier between Canada and the United States.

"The Washington treaty of 1922 applied it to capital ships. One of the great accomplishments of that conference was that it removed the possibility of competition on capital ships as between Great Britain and the United States. The present conference is substituting agreement for possible competition in other categories of Warcraft."

Dominions to Sign 3-Power Pact as Separate Entities.

LONDON, April 10.—Following the procedure agreed upon at the imperial conference of 1926, the British dominions will sign the projected three-Power naval limitation treaty as separate entities.

The draft of the treaty is now being prepared and its signature is expected very soon.

It is said in well-informed quarters that tod y's tripartite agreement on training ships is along the following lines:

Each of the three Powers have the right to retain for training purposes one capital ship which had been destined for scrapping. These ships are to be disarmed. This really was a concession to Japan and permits her to retain one battleship which otherwise she would have had to scrap. By the same token the United States will scrap only two, instead of three, and Great Britain four, instead of five.

It is understood that Japan also will be allowed to retain as training ships three light cruisers which otherwise would have been scrapped.

When asked again by newspaper men about the prospects of the conference being finished before Easter, Prime Minister MacDonald replied:

"I suppose you want an Easter holiday. So do I, and you may be quite sure we shall take a very humane view of things."

REFUSED TO LET WILLIAMS 'FLY OR WRECK' HIS RACER

Assistant Secretary Ingalls Tells Senate Committee That He Vetoed "Romantic Proposal."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, today told a Senate naval subcommittee that he had been informed of Lieut. Alford J. Williams' desire to start his Mercury racer in the Schneider Cup races last fall with the intention of "wrecking" it, if necessary, but said he vetoed the American entry because he could not approve "any such romantic proposals."

Ingalls said that after talking with the private backers of the racing project, he had ordered Williams sent to sea. He said that later the Navy planned a new investigation of the possibilities of developing racing planes.

"I had a talk with Williams then," the Assistant Secretary asserted, "and told him that for the good of all, the best thing he could do was to go to sea and come back when the new program was ready."

Earlier, Ingalls had told the committee that the department was engaged in a $25,000 study of the feasibility of the program for developing racing planes in the United States. He characterized as "silly" what he termed criticisms of the navy that it was opposed to a racing program and that it had forced the resignation of an officer outstanding in naval aviation—Lieut. Williams.

Senator Sullivan (Rep.), Wyoming, had interjected that Williams had said "all he wanted was more time" to work on his racing plane.

Ingalls replied that the Senator apparently had been "misled," and that there was "no reason for feeling the United States was inferior" in the development of high-speed planes."

Williams Responsible for Weight.

Ingalls said Williams had asked for another two and one-half months on land and received four months. Ingalls declared he himself had gone to Philadelphia and was told by Williams' private backers that their racing project, at least for the present, was through.

"Who was responsible for the excess weight?" Ingalls was asked, in reference to testimony that the Mercury raced failed to leave the water because it was 880 pounds too heavy. "Responsibility always comes back," Ingalls replied, "to the person in charge. "Lieut. Williams was in charge."

"Is it the navy's policy to develop fast planes?" Ingalls was asked. "We're spending $25,000 to study whether it would be feasible with the money we get from Congress," Ingalls answered.

Admiral Moffett, chief of the Aeronautics Bureau, he said, "had to" recommend relinquishing the racing program in 1924, for reasons of economy.

British Plane Not Practical.

"From 1924 on," Tydings asked, "what did the navy do about developing fast planes?" Ingalls said the department had determined not to develop any one plane, but to increase the speed and otherwise improve its regulation planes."

Tydings asked: "There's no doubt, is there, as to the value of having the fastest fight-bombinb plane in the world, is there?" "Oh, yes," Ingalls answered, "we need other things also."

Tydings repeated the question and Ingalls said the navy needed "the fastest plane, but one that could carry equipment and perform other war functions.

Asked for a comparison of American and other nations' planes, Ingalls said that a British Bulldog, "the newest British plane," has been studied by navy engineers and "we found it is not a practical plane."

against the walls to prevent its collapse.

"Yet the report declared the Postoffice 99 per cent "safe," the statement said.

High Appraisal Preferred.

The Postmaster-General "then sent Representative Sproul (Rep.), Illinois, a letter to be read into the Congressional Record, appraising the property at $678,000," the statement asserted, "although there were in the Postoffice Department filed estimates of its own postal inspector, placing the value at $405,000."

"The Postmaster-General chose the higher appraisal," Maas asserted, "in face of the fact that a commission appointed by a Federal Court in the condemnation suit has recommended an award of $317,000."

TO LOOK INTO SHIP MAIL CONTRACTS

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Chairman Hiram Johnson of the Senate Commerce Committee has requested Postmaster-General Walter F. Brown to produce copies of all contracts existing between the Government and American steamship companies for the carrying of mail. Approximately $10,000,000 a year is paid by the Government for this service, much of it consisting of thinly disguised subsidies designed to strengthen tne Merchant Marine.

In this connection it was learned today that Congressman La Guardie (Rep.), New York, had written a letter to Comptroller-General McCarl, charging that some of the mail contracts granted shipping companies by Brown were illegal. He asserted that one company receiving $475,000 a year under a mail contract was engaged in coastwise trade, and hence is not entitled to a subvention under the merchant marine act.

Bonds Based on Postal Leases.

Evidence of a relationship between the postal leases and the mail shipping contracts has been received by certain Senators, and is sure to form another subject of investigation. This evidence tends to show that a certain banking house which owns a large shipping line has marketed a considerable qualtity of bonds issued on the basis of postal leases.

News of Johnson's action followed closely upon Brown's statement yesterday afternoon inviting a Senate inquiry into charges that wholesale frauds have occurred in connection with the leasing of buildings throughout the country for postal use. The Commerce Committee will seek to ascertain exactly how much mail the various shipping companies carry, and what each receives for that service.

Senator Fess, Ohio Old Guardsman, read Brown's statement to the Senate in which he declared that most of the leases concerning which accusations of fraud have been launched were entered into before he took office. He stated in particular that the leases on the St. Paul commercial postoffice, with which the charges originated, were arranged by Postmaster-General Burleson during the Wilson administration, executed by Postmaster-General Will Hays during the Harding administration, and renewed by Postmaster-General Harry New under the Coolidge administration.

Senator Blaine, Wisconsin insurgent, told the Senate Tuesday that hundreds of such leases had been made throughout the country, that the Government is paying exorbitant rentals, and that the contracts have formed the foundation for the issuance of approximately $150,000,000 in bonds. He stated it to be his belief that some of the bonds could be traced back to a Toledo (O.) bank, of which Brown formerly was a director.

Fess stated yesterday that officers of the bank had informed him that none of the St. Paul bonds had ever passed through the bank and Fess demanded that Blaine withdraw his "insinuation."

Blaine retorted that he had not confined his allusion to the St. Paul bonds, and hence the bank's statement was not responsive to his accusation. He declined to withdraw it.

Brown's statement pointed out that since a Federal grand jury reported, in 1928, that the St. Paul lease had been tainted with "fraud, corruption and misrepresentation since its inception," rental on the property has been withheld, and the owner is now suing in the United States Court of Claims to collect it.

Blaine pointed out, in reply, that Brown nevertheless has insisted that Congress appropriate money for the payment of the rental, and has referred to the contract as "a Government obligation."

"The only connection I have had with that controversy has been to order an investigation to ascertain whether, in view of the charges made that the building is unsound, postal employes could safely work therein," the Postmaster-General declared.

Blaine thereupon renewed his charge that the Postoffice Department had been "guilty of culpable, if not criminal, negligence," in failing to take steps to end the fraud which he said had occurred in connection with this and other leases, and added that "this negligence had continued down to this very day."

In response to Fess' statement that the St. Paul lease was planned by Burleson, Democratic Senators Sheppard of Texas and McKellar of Tennessee, asserted that the lease as subsequently executed by Will Hays did not conform to the terms and specifications which Burleson had formulated. They added that if anything was wrong with Burleson's program, it was incumbent on Hays to refuse to carry it out.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, told the Senate that he had long anticipated a scandal in connection with the system of postal leases, and had objected to it while a member of the Postoffice Committee.

"I foresaw its evil consequences," he said. "I sought unsuccessfully to persuade members of the committee against it, because I saw it was inevitable that only favoritism, graft and suspicion could result. I fully believe that an investigation will disclose frightful and shocking conditions."

Blaine has told the Senate that Jacob Kulp, a Chicago promoter, who leased the St. Paul property to the Government has leased at least 27 other buildings to it in cities throughout the country, and has expressed a belief that Kulp will be found to be the owner of many other such leases. In virtually every case, he said, large volumes of bonds were issued based on the inflated rentals. In the St. Paul case, $1,150,000 bonds were issued, although a Federal grand jury found that the property was worth not in excess of $290,000.

Postmaster-General Brown's act in welcoming a Senatorial inquiry was superfluous since the inquiry already was assured.

Tonnage of Fleets Under Terms Of Proposed 3-Power Treaty

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 10.

THE naval agreement to which the United States, Great Britain and Japan will subscribe soon will regulate the size of the fleets of these three Powers for the next six years, as follows:

	United States	Great Britain	Japan
Battleships . .	15	15	9
Total cruiser tonnage	323,500	339,600	208,900
8-inch cruisers	18	15	12
6-inch cruiser tonnage	143,500	192,200	100,450
Destroyers, tonnage . .	150,000	150,000	105,500
Submarines, tonnage . .	52,700	52,700	52,700

It is understood that a clause providing that the treaty extend for six years, and that any nation's right to expression of a new position at the next conference will not be prejudiced, will be placed in the agreement. This will take care of Japan's concessions from the 10-10-7 ratio of large cruisers she has claimed.

It must be borne in mind that between the United States and Great Britain will exist a so-called optional clause, under which the transfer of cruiser tonnage on the basis of 30,000 tons of 8-inch cruisers, equaling 45,000 tons of smaller cruisers, will be permitted to operate. Thus, within these maximums, transfers will be permitted from large to small cruiser classes and vica versa.

Other than ships definitely to be set out in the treaty under the so-called displacement table, it has been agreed that the age limits will be set at 13 years for submarines, 16 for destroyers, and 20 for cruisers. The replacement table will provide certain exceptions on age limits for Japan, and to a lesser degree for Great Britain, in order to keep shipyards busy.

The result of the settlement has been to leave Japan at or below her present tonnages in all categories, with minor exceptions, and to effect reductions where found possible, with special emphasis on reduction in submarine tonnage. Japan's figures will stand as follows:

Eight-inch cruisers—108,400 tons, keeping her present fleet; six-inch cruisers—100,450 tons, an increase of 2035 tons; destroyers—105,500 tons, a reduction of 17,075 from her present fleet; submarines—52,700 tons, a reduction of 25,142 from her present figures.

Eight-inch cruisers, 6.2; six-inch cruisers, 70; destroyers, 70.3; submarines, 100.

PUTS UP $8,000,000 TO PREVENT MERGER

Financier Buys 51,000 Steel Shares to Keep Them Out of Voting.

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 10.—As the Bethlehem Steel-Youngstown Sheet & Tube merger conflict progresses, the story of Cyrus S. Eaton's fight to block the deal discloses one of the most daring financial operations in history.

Eaton, Cleveland financier, made the main attack on the merger and put up nearly $8,000,000 to do it. He did this on the advice of counsel that he could purchase stock without the voting proxies and still prevent the merger proponents from voting it.

When directors of Youngstown Sheet & Tube approved the consolidation, they announced the company's books would be closed March 22 and that stock purchased after that time could not be voted.

Instead of buying stock before that date, Eaton waited until after the lunch hour of March 22 when there was a lull in the market. Then, through Otis & Co. he began to buy. Spending millions until he had control of 51,038 shares.

Eaton, before this purchase, with his associates directly controlled 310,000 shares. He had depended on proxy promises of another 40,000. The 51,038 shares, if his attorneys could prevent them from being voted, made up the rest of the 400,000 he needed for victory.

His first legal move to save the 51,038 shares, however, failed. The Federal Court at Cleveland refused to delay the stockholders' meeting, which would have restored voting rights to this block.

The Merger Committee, holding proxies on these shares, voted them for the consolidation Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, Eaton sought a common pleas court injunction to prevent the stock being voted. He lost this, too, and observers of the fight were ready to concede his defeat until his surprise move of yesterday, when in a third court hearing he obtained a temporary injunction tieing up the vote not only on this block, but on all shares purchased by both sides since March 22.

BOND SET AT $15,000 IN INSURANCE PLOT

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BENTONVILLE, Ark., April 10.—The bond of S. K. Johnson, Kansas City real estate dealer, who was jointly indicted with Dr. A. J. Bass, wealthy retired dentist of Columbia, Mo., in the $200,000 insurance fraud murder of William R. Pearman, was set at $15,000 by Circuit Judge Clansept here today while questioning of Dr. Bass continued at the county jail.

The bond arrangements were made after a conference between Hunt C. Moore, Johnson's attorney, and Prosecuting Attorney John S. Combs. Moore said he would communicate with Johnson, who is in Kansas City, and ascertain whether the terms were acceptable to him.

Johnson accompanied Dr. Bass to Bentonville last week when the body of Pearman was identified as William Folta. Johnson had explained that Dr. Bass introduced Pearman as Folta during a land deal recently, and that he had accompanied Dr. Bass because the dentist had asked him to identify the man he knew as Folta. Moore said his client was not hiding and was willing to assist the authorities.

The investigators announced that progress was being made in drawing information from the dentist and issued a public request for information about the movements of his automobile on Wednesday and Thursday, March 26 and 27.

Dr. Bass' car, a brown Chevrolet coupe with red wire wheels, is held in a Kansas City garage where he left it Saturday night, March 29, to be washed inside and out. Pearman, who had obtained insurance under the alias of William Folta, was found shot to death near Gravette, Ark., that day, and authorities think he was killed the preceding Thursday.

The investigators have information that Dr. Bass left his home in Columbia early Wednesday or Thursday, the week of the murder, returning in his car late at night. They have asked that any one who saw a car answering the description send their information to the Bentonville Sheriff.

"Peg is just jealous, Mary, because she hasn't been down to the Factory Merger Sale yet. She knows, of course, that we were down this morning and no matter how much we lose at Contract we have made it many times over in our savings at the sale."

"Yes and if Peggy would go down and see for herself what marvelous values in living room, bedroom and dining room furniture are being offered she'd quickly trade in that glare she's giving us for a bright, new, up-to-date, 1930 grin like ours!"

Of course Mary didn't let the party in on the fact that the new things she'd bought had far exceeded the cash she'd ready to pay out but the values were so irresistible she practically refurnished throughout and Trorlicht-Duncker gladly arranged to let her pay the balance monthly, Out-of-Income.

Qualifies As Transport Pilot

MISS LAURA INGALLS.

ACTRESS PASSES TEST AS TRANSPORT PILOT

Miss Laura Ingalls, a 25-year-old, actress who became an aviator, spiraled, banked and spun her way today to a transport pilot's license.

Miss Ingalls, who since last June has been a student at the Universal Flying School, at Lambert-St. Louis Field, received her license today after Edwin Fox, Department of Commerce inspector, had watched her take a test flight over the field. She is the fifteenth woman to win a transport pilot's certificate.

Her flight included 720 banks, a spiral from an altitude of 2000 feet, a series of assorted spins and turns, and several landings. Previously she had passed a written examination, with a grade of 95 per cent, covering such subjects as meteorology, navigation, engines and air commerce regulations. She received a limited commercial license last September.

Miss Ingalls, who is from New York, has had a varied career ranging from a secretaryship at the Metropolitan Museum there to a place on the vaudeville stage. She appeared as a Spanish dancer at a downtown theater about a year ago. Before going on the stage she studied music and languages in Paris and Vienna.

She was secretary at the Roosevelt Flying School after eight months in vaudeville and began a course of flying instruction there, but transferred to the school at Lambert Field.

In her written examination she attained a grade of 100 per cent in the meteorology section and 98 per cent in navigation. Her final grade was the highest of the five students taking the examination. The others were men.

U. S. DROPS INVESTIGATION IN DEATH OF BASIL MILES

Not a Shred of Evidence to Indicate He Succumbed From "Other Than Natural Causes."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Department of Justice announced today that it had not found any evidence to indicate that Basil Miles, former diplomat, had died of anything "other than natural causes."

The investigation was started at the request of United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover after reports had been made to him that there was something suspicious in the death of Miles.

More than a score of witnesses were examined during the inquiry, including the physicians who had pronounced Miles' death as due to a blood clot on the lung.

Miles' widow is now Mrs. H. H. Rogers, wife of the Standard Oil capitalist.

A statement from the department said: "Not a shred of evidence has been obtained by the department to suggest that Miles died of anything but natural causes, or to justify further inquiry, and so far as this department is concerned the matter is closed."

EX-POLICE CHIEF SAYS BANK HOLDUP ALIBI IS FORGERY

he does not know the other men named by Silsby.

Describes Interior of Holdover.

Starting home about midnight, Goebel testified, he stopped in Maplewood for a sandwich and was questioned by a plain-clothes man, who took him to headquarters as a suspect. Goebel described the interior of the holdover and complained he was without drinking water for more than six hours.

"Did you have a gun on you that night?" Hennings asked. "I never owned a gun," Goebel replied.

"You have used a gun, haven't you?" "I never used one in my life except when I was in the World War."

Asked by Hennings when he recalled the night in the holdover, he said he thought of it when he read a newspaper account of Barth's trial at which Mrs. Payton told of his being at her home. He testified he told his attorney, Paul Richards, who investigated and found the four-year-old police blotter.

Same Alibi as Sheltons'

Police records have been used for alibi purposes before and have been declared fakes. A notable case was that of Earl and Bernie Shelton, East St. Louis gangsters, who offered a page from the East St. Louis police blotter which showed their names among the last five entries on Sept. 27, 1924, when a Kincaid (Ill.) bank was robbed.

Silsby boasted in a serial narrative of his life of crime, published last year, that he paid a Missouri Sheriff to fake such an entry to provide an alibi in another county. Testifying for the State at previous trials he declared the story to be true but refused to identify the counties involved.

Silsby, who has remained in St. Louis since he came here from New Orleans, La., for the Barth trial last month, testified he drove the robbers' automobile and waited outside the bank while Goebel, Barth, Joseph Simon, Carl Fiorita and Fred Sturley committed the robbery. Simon, Fiorita and Sturley are now in prison for other crimes and Barth's punishment has been fixed at 10 years in the penitentiary.

The Meeting Place.

As at the previous trial, Silsby testified the robbery was planned at the home of Mrs. Payton, where Goebel was present at conferences the night of March 4 and the morning of March 5 and when the loot was divided after the robbery.

Mrs. Payton, whose husband is a fugitive, corroborated Silsby's testimony in part. She described similar conferences but insisted she did not know the men were talking about a robbery. She contradicted a statement by Silsby that Goebel and his wife spent the night before the robbery at her home. She said Goebel arrived after Silsby the morning of the robbery.

Under cross-examination, Silsby admitted again he had been promised immunity by Circuit Attorney Miller in exchange for his services as State's witness in various cases.

MAN SLAIN, SON SHOT RESISTING TWO HOLDUP MEN

John H. Kelsey, 50, Shipman, Ill., Livestock Dealer, Killed on Fosterburg Road Near Alton.

Resistance to highway robbers cost the life of John H. Kelsey, 59 years old, a Shipman, Ill., livestock dealer, who was shot through the heart and in the forehead last night at a point three miles northeast of Alton.

His son, Harry Kelsey, cashier of the Bethalto State Bank, who was at the wheel, was wounded in the right arm, the bullet having glanced off after shattering a watch in his vest pocket, stopping it at 10 o'clock. The robbers, two young men, took his pocketbook containing $30 and drove away in a red coupe.

"We were on the Fosterburg road on our way to Shipman," Kelsey told at St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, today, "when we were forced to slow down by a red Buick coupe which was parked in the middle of the road. Two young men were in the car. I thought I recognized one of them and thinking they were in trouble, stopped.

"As soon as we stopped, they jumped out. Both of them drew pistols and as one of them jumped on our running board he shouted: " 'Stick 'em up.' "

"My father turned towards him and said: " 'To hell with you.'

"The fellow on the running board fired twice. My father slumped down beside me and I lunged at the robber. As I did so, he fired again, wounding me. Then he jerked my wallet from my pocket and both of them ran to their car and drove off. The other robber was standing in the road when my father was shot. I don't know what he did after that. I still think I have seen one of the men before."

Kelsey managed to drive a mile to the farm of John Culp, who took them to the hospital. Physicians pronounced the elder Kelsey dead.

The elder Kelsey was under the care of an Alton physician for injuries suffered in an automobile accident March 2. He is survived by another son, John H. Kelsey Jr., with whom he made his home at Shipman.

KIDNAPED, SLAIN BY TWO ESCAPED INSANE PATIENTS

J. W. Bradshaw, San Antonio, Tex., Shot and Body Thrown Into River; Slayers Held.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 10.—The mutilated body of J. W. Bradshaw, bridegroom of a month, who is alleged to have been abducted last night by two escaped inmates from the San Antonio State Hospital for the Insane, was recovered today from the Guadalupe River, 40 miles from here.

Ernest Young and Homer Edwards, the escaped patients, were arrested before the body was found. Bradshaw's bride, a sister of Young's wife, told authorities the two men took her husband to the river and returned with the statement, "We have given him the beating of his life."

Bradshaw had been shot through the head, his body mutilated and weighted down before being thrown into the river.

JUMPS TO DEATH OFF BRIDGE

Eugene H. Coates, 2222A Wyoming Street, Falls 100 Feet to Levee.

A man who jumped to his death from the west approach of the Municipal Bridge, in view of passersby at 4 p. m. yesterday, subsequently was identified as Eugene H. Coates, 62 years old, a foreman, 2222A Wyoming street.

He fell about 100 feet to the levee and was dead when picked up. The Wyoming street address was found written on a slip of paper in his pocket, and the body was identified by a son, Earl Coates. The son could ascribe no reason for suicide.

FRIEND OF THE DOWN AND OUT COLLAPSES IN STORE, DIES

Jacob Mueller, 86, Who Had Shop at 610 Chouteau, Had Helped Many.

Jacob Mueller, 86 years old, proprietor of a tobacco shop at 610 Chouteau avenue, where he was known as a friend to all the "down and out," died last night at City Hospital a few hours after he had collapsed in his store. He had been ill a week, but had refused medical treatment, holding to his oft-stated wish to "die in his own store."

Mueller, who came to St. Louis in 1858 from Jefferson County, as an orphan, went to work in a shoe factory with his brother, and later opened a book store at 1007 South Seventh street, where he sold schoolbooks before the time of free textbooks. In 1915, he opened the tobacco shop. It was one of the many strangers he befriended who yesterday summoned the ambulance when he collapsed.

Funeral services, which have not been arranged, pending attempts to find relatives, will be held from the Gebken undertaking chapel, 2628 Gravois avenue.

MIDWIFE HELD BY CORONER FOR DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN

A Coroner's verdict of homicide was returned today, holding Mrs. Lucy Uatchin, a midwife, 2715 Baldwin street, for the death of Mrs. Ellsworth Ansell, 22 years old, 5536 Pershing avenue, following an illegal operation. Mrs. Patchin, who had furnished bond, is suffering at her home from typhoid fever and malaria.

Mrs. Ansell, who had been known as Miss Mildred Parcell, died of peritonitis Sunday night at St. John's Hospital, after signing a statement naming Mrs. Patchin as the one who performed the operation, March 29. Her husband, a bookkeeper at Jerseyville, Ill., testified they were married secretly three months ago, and that he took her to the midwife.

Goods Co. while sending them through the Clearing House.

In his confession to Federal authorities, Phillips said his shortage was about $10,000 last September. He took his vacation then, he said, and delayed entering deposits of the dry goods company until he returned. He had to be at work each day, sick or well, he said, in order that his book would not be checked.

Phillips, born in Warrenton, Mo., quit grammar school here in the eighth grade and went to work at 14. He started in the bank as a bookkeeper at $25 a week, in 1924, having been employed at another bank several years. His wife is employed by the Western Union Telegraph Co. Their home is at 2541A University street.

Used Delayed Deposit System.

In his defalcations Phillips employed what bankers term the "delayed deposit system." Chester J. Prince, vice president of the bank, said. He did this only with the out-of-town and cash deposit account of the dry goods company. He would withhold entry of a deposit item on the credit side of his teller's book so that the total debits at the end of the day would not need the amount of that deposit to balance. Then the next day he would enter the item withheld and hold out another in a similar or larger amount, according to necessity, thus creating an endless chain.

In order to prevent defalcations of this nature a bank would have to audit individual teller's accounts with a frequency that would prove too expensive. Instead, depositories commonly adopt the method of bonding tellers. Prince also pointed out that most of Phillips' shortage occurred within the last 90 days, and that it was only $10,000 at the time of the last bank examination last October.

The maximum punishment for embezzlement from a bank of the Federal Reserve System is imprisonment for five years or a fine of $5000 or both. Phillips has indicated he will plead guilty.

BIGAMIST, 24, TAKEN HOME BY WIFE, 63

"He's just a bad boy."

With this summing up of the evidence, Mrs. Letitia Atkinson Huthsing Russell, 63-year-old great-grandmother, whose romantic flair long has been the talk of Webster Groves, again has forgiven her 24-year-old husband, William Martin Russell, charged with bigamy after having in a space of five years married three women in five ceremonies with only two divorces intervening.

"She understands me," Russell told reporters yesterday morning, and his faith was confirmed in the afternoon, when she appeared at police headquarters and furnished $2500 bond for his release, returnable next Wednesday in Court of Criminal Correction.

She took him back to the shelter of her $20,000 home at 40 Gray avenue, Webster Groves, which she inherited with other valuable property when her first husband, William J. Huthsing, coffee wholesaler, died in January, 1929.

First Husband Sued Her.

"I love Bill and he loves me," said Mrs. Russell. "He's in a jam and I'm not going to throw him down. Anyway he's just a bad boy."

"Bill" Russell is an ex-soldier and the former Mrs. Huthsing is fond of the infantry. Soon after the close of the World's Fair (before Russell was born) Huthsing sued for divorce, charging his wife had become infatuated with several Filipino soldiers.

In 1907 when Mrs. Huthsing was fined $500 in Police Court for disturbing the peace of one of her three daughters, Huthsing testified in his wife's behalf that their home life was "all that could be desired." He said he had become satisfied there was no harm in the incidents which he had urged as reasons for divorce, and that the suit had been withdrawn.

Russell's First Marriage.

Mrs. Huthsing appealed from the fine, and the case was dropped in Court of Criminal Correction when the daughter failed to prosecute.

Russell joined the army at Jefferson Barracks in 1925. He deserted shortly and obtained work at a grading camp near Belle Plains, Ia. There he met Geneva Soenksen, 19-year-old farmer's daughter. They came to St. Louis and were married at the City Hall by Justice of the Peace. They have a child, whose present whereabouts Russell won't disclose.

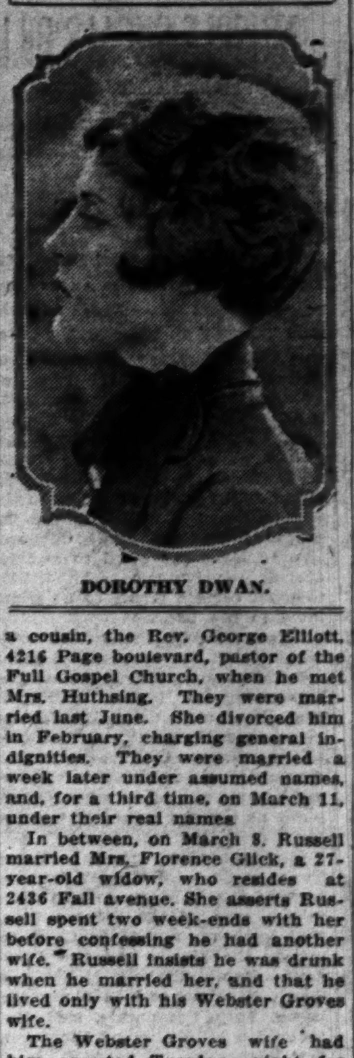
While living with his wife in the 7100 block of Michigan avenue, Russell was arrested for desertion and committed to Leavenworth prison. He escaped and returned to his wife, but she divorced him, according to his story, whereupon he surrendered and completed his prison term.

Russell said he was living with a cousin, the Rev. George Elliott, 4216 Page boulevard, pastor of the Full Gospel Church, when he met Mrs. Huthsing. They were married last June. She divorced him in February, charging general indignities. They were married a week later under assumed names, and, for a third time, on March 11, under their real names.

In between, on March 8, Russell married Mrs. Florence Glick, a 27-year-old widow, who resides at 2436 Fall avenue. She asserts Russell spent two week-ends with her before confessing he had another wife. Russell insists he was drunk when he married her, and that he lived only with his Webster Groves wife.

The Webster Groves wife had him arrested Tuesday night for chasing her around her home and threatening to kill her. The Fall avenue wife then swore out a bigamy warrant.

WINS SUIT ON NOTE



DOROTHY DWAN.

CONFECTIONER GETS 5 YEARS FOR KILLING OF NEGRO WOMAN

James Napoli, 48 years old, a confectioner at 1823 Franklin avenue, was convicted of manslaughter in the death of Irene Powell, a Negro, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by the sealed verdict of a jury returned in Circuit Judge Taylor's court today. He had been tried yesterday on a first degree murder charge and the verdict was reached last night.

A previous jury in the case had failed to reach an agreement and subsequently the State offered to let Napoli off with a year in the workhouse if he would plead guilty.

The Powell woman worked for Napoli. He shot and killed her in a quarrel in the store on May 7, 1929. Before she died she said the row was over money. Napoli testified yesterday that he had remonstrated with her for using his guitar, whereupon she attacked him with a fork and he fired a revolver in the floor to frighten her, but eventually had to shoot her in self defense.

DOROTHY DWAN WINS ACTION AGAINST FATHER

On Appeal, Court Upholds Her Contentions Regarding $7500 Note.

A promissory note for $7500 signed 19 years ago by Melvin Ilgenfritz of Houston, Tex., in favor of his daughter, Mrs. Larry Semon, a motion picture actress known on the screen as Dorothy Dwan, which he contended was given without legal consideration, was pronounced valid by the St. Louis Court of Appeals today.

Mrs. Semon, a native Missourian, entered her suit in Pettus County two years ago on the note and jury found in her favor, but the Kansas City Court of Appeals, on appeal by the defendant, ordered a new trial, which was held in Franklin County on a change of venue. There the Circuit Court sustained a demurrer interposed by defense, and Mrs. Semon appealed. The Appellate Court here holds that the lower Court erred in sustaining a demurrer and remands the case for second trial before a jury.

Evidence showed that upon the separation of Mrs. Semon's parents, her father executed the note in consideration of which her mother, who is now Mrs. Dorothy Smith, released him from liability for support. Dorothy at that time was about 7 years old. Mrs. Smith testified Ilgenfritz told her he would not do anything for her, but if it came to a showdown he would help Dorothy. For that reason the promissory note, payable on demand without interest, was given—it being understood that in the event of a reconciliation after a year the note would be surrendered to Ilgenfritz. Before the year elapsed, however, he obtained a divorce on the grounds of desertion, but never made any payment on the note, it was alleged. It was signed at Sedalia, Mo., where the family then lived.

Ilgenfritz contended the separation agreement was against public policy and therefore the note, which formed part of the agreement, was void. He presented the further reason no consideration was given for the note. He also alleged that the giving of the note tended to discourage rather than encourage a reconciliation between him and his former wife.

The Court of Appeals, in a decision written by Commissioner R. L. Sutton, holds that the relinquishment by the wife of her right to support from her husband and her agreement to support the daughter were sufficient consideration, which agreement was faithfully performed by the mother.

Larry Semon, motion picture comedian, died in California in 1928. He married Miss Dwan, who was his leading woman, in 1925. Several months before his death he filed a bankruptcy petition listing liabilities of nearly $500,000.

HOUSE GROUP TO ALTER MUSCLE SHOALS BILL

Measure to Be Reported From Committee in 10 Days.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10. — The House Military Affairs Committee plans to start executive sessions next Tuesday on the Norris resolution for Government operation of Muscle Shoals with the intention of reporting it, much amended, to the House in a week or 10 days.

In its present form House Republican leaders give it no chance of passage. Committee sentiment seems to favor incorporating in the Senate measure authority for the proposed Muscle Shoals Corporation to lease the plant to any responsible private concern willing to meet certain terms to be stipulated in the bill.

The suggested amendment would require that the corporation spend a definite time, perhaps six months, in securing a lessee. Failing in that, it would undertake Government operation, subject, however, to the provision that whenever subsequently a responsible bidder came along willing to take over the plant as a going concern, Government operation would end.

Representative Reece (Rep.), Tennessee, one of the senior members of the Military Affairs Committee, was of the opinion today that such an amendment would satisfy the House and the President. Representatives McSwain of South Carolina and Hill of Alabama, both Democrats, said they favored a bill following those general lines.

The committee was called into session today to hear the views of Charles J. Briand, executive secretary of the National Fertilizer Association.

He has testified before, together with officials of the American Cyanamid Co. and army officers who have had charge of the plant, at extensive hearings within the last few weeks. Committee members think they have gathered all necessary information and unless urgent demands to be heard are received they plan to hear no further testimony.

Held on Census Charge.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 10.—Ralph Crossman, Assistant Deputy State Inheritance Tax Collector, is under bond following his arrest on a charge of refusing to give information to Federal census enumerators. Crossman specifically was charged with refusing to give his father's birthplace. At the jail he declared he did not know where his father was born.

MOVE TO IMPEACH CHAIRMAN OF MISSISSIPPI TAX BOARD

Legislative Investigators Call Him Faithless for Tipping Off Anti-Trust Suit.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Miss., April 10.—Maintaining that Lester C. Franklin, chairman of the State Tax Commission, "is a faithless public officer and unfit to hold office in this State," a legislative investigating committee decided yesterday to seek his impeachment in the House of Representatives.

The accusation is based on the allegation that Franklin tipped off Warren Brothers Road Paving Co. of Boston, Mass., to a contemplated antitrust suit and, in so doing, afforded the firm an opportunity to withdraw all its assets from the State and become immune to prosecution.

HOW BYRD FLAGSHIP RODE OUT HURRICANE

Men Thrown From Bunks — Every Object Swept From the Decks.

(Admiral Byrd's flagship, the bark, City of New York, has ridden out a South Pacific hurricane and is now making good progress toward Tahiti on its homeward voyage. Last Friday the buffeting of the gale-lashed seas was so great that it was impossible to finish sending a wireless dispatch begun that day. The ship was then about 800 miles south of the Cook Islands. The rest of the story follows.)

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, April 4.—There is not rest on the City of New York as the gale shrieks through its rigging and the heavy seas pound its side and surge over its decks.

In the crew's quarters there is no dryness, and the air is rank and heavy. A sea throws one of the mates six feet out of his bunk and another man suddenly finds his bedding thrown out and himself on bare iron.

A heavy suit case is thrown into a man's face as he is braced in his bunk, and sea bags and loose gear of all sorts are swirled about the fo'c'le as torrents of water rush down the forward companion way. Bedding is all soaked. Bodies are bruised and sore and muscles ache from the constant straining to keep one from being tossed about.

Water seeps through every port and hatch under the driving storm. The massive radio generator threatens to slip its moorings. Only by luck and heroic work have three men preserved our hold on the world.

Toiling at the Pumps.

Far below in the bilges sweat-soaked men work to keep the pumps going. As the ship wallows, heavy tools leap from their cases and clatter across the iron grating. An engineer is thrown against a scalding steam pipe, and another is plunged face downward to crash against the opposite bulkhead.

Above or below, no one has escaped close calls. The captain, saving himself from going overboard, is crushed against the rail by a seaman hurled across the deck by the same wave. The man's jaw hits an iron davit and the watch is minus a seaman temporarily.

The hurricane keeps up an incessant roar, so that one has to shout to one's elbow neighbor. To anyone coming off deck with watch are put the inevitable questions: "How are things above?" and "How's the glass?" and the same hopeless answers are returned: "No better. The glass is still going down."

The steam siren sounds two dismal blasts. A feeling of utter loneliness pervades us and the chill that wet clothes could not produce plays with us until we find it was only a call for the deck officer.

All Hands on Deck.

The mental relief is short. "All hands on deck!" is the cry bellowed down the companion way. Gripped by apprehension, we are on deck in a moment to find in that bedlam that six steel drums of fuel are adrift on the main deck, crashing back and forth and threatening widespread destruction before we can secure them again.

Tons of water in one sheet tear away lashed cargo and toss about heavy kegs and sacks of coal until a great sea washes the decks clear of every object.

Nothing stands before these swamping seas. Bulwarks open and are carried away. The ship labors and groans and heels to leeward until the rail of the poop deck is awash; yet it eventually rights itself and the water rattles out of its scuppers.

A good storm seems to be a sure cure for seasickness and jaded appetite. Everyone appears for meals, even though obtaining food is an adventure.

Life Lines on Main Deck.

Without life lines stretched fore and aft, the main deck could not be crossed to reach the galley. Seas are constantly pouring over the lee bulwarks and thundering back and forth across railing decks.

Meals at the mess table are impossible. Even in comparatively mild weather it is a toss-up sometimes whether your soup is going into your own or into the opposite man's lap.

The pots and pans leap and skid about as though bewitched and at best there are only two places of comparative security for 32 men in the little space. Here, while marveling at the patience and inventive genius of the cooks, one grasps what one can, one hand for the ship and one hand for the food.

Outside in the darkness we hear half articulate shouts. Again we are hove to. A rip has started in the main staysail and in a few moments it is down and away, a mass of shreds. The main lower topsail will be the next to go. If the new hemp canvas of the storm trisail does not hold out we can hardly hope to keep the ship headed into the wind.

A Visit to the Wheel.

At the wheel we anxiously watch the towering spume-crested mountains rushing toward us. Our knees become shaky, but with the helm hard over we brace ourselves for the shock. There is a great, thundering sound and a wall of warm green water sweeps over the bridge.

The ship stands still for an instant. A tremor runs from stem to stern, then with gathering momentum the ship heels over and the horizon rushes up to a dizzy height. For a breathless moment we clutch the crazily-tilted deck like flies until, half hesitatingly, the ship steadies itself and drives on.

As the storm increases, the wind howls through the rigging like the shrieks of sirens. Each line and spar adds its vibrant note in the rising and falling cadences as the weather stays strain and the lee shrouds slacken.

Would any of us prefer to be elsewhere? An old Norwegian sea dog answers in emphatic English: "Now I tell you something. This is one certainly fine sea boat. I do believe she could go through hell and come out all right."

Byrd, at Wellington, Calls Aviation Instrument of Peace.

By the Associated Press.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., April 10.—Speaking today at a luncheon attended by New Zealand officials, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd said: "I believe aviation is more an instrument of peace than of war. It tends to bring the nations of the world closer together and to know is to understand; knowledge lessens criticism.

"In a few years' time I believe great airships will be flying across the Atlantic Ocean and in a few more across the Pacific. Some day I hope to revisit New Zealand in one of these airships."

Byrd did not predict the same developemnt for the airplane, as for the dirigibles, although he though airplanes eventually would be flying regularly across great oceans, with landing stations established at various points.

The New Zealand Government Ministers asked Byrd to act as unofficial Ambassador on his return to the United States to convey to President Hoover and the people of his country the best wishes from the dominion of New Zealand.

The state luncheon was notable for the modesty of the utter… by Byrd, who said nothing of… own achievements, preferring… regarded as merely one of the… arctic party.

LIEUT MAITLAND, WHO MADE HAWAIIAN FLIGHT, INJURED

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 10. —First Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, who commanded the first airplane to fly from the Pacific Coast to Hawaii, today was in an army hospital here suffering from a crushed chest and cuts on the face, the result of an accident yesterday in which his automobile was struck by a bus.

The accident occurred a few hours after his wife, Mrs. Ruth Thurston Maitland, obtained a divorce at Las Vegas, Nev. She charged nagging and other mental cruelties. The Maitlands have one child, 5 years old.

At the time of the accident Maitland was driving near Kelly Field, where the aviator has been stationed since December, 1929.

He gained fame in 1927 when he flew to Hawaii in an army plane, accompanied by Lieut. Albert Hegenberger. Before the flight across the Pacific Ocean the aviator was stationed at McCook Field, Dayton, O. He is 32 years old.

NEW YORK WETS RALLY ON DRY REPEAL BILL

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10.—The New York State Assembly is expected to go on record tomorrow in favor of petitioning Congress to call a constitutional convention for the purpose of repealing the eighteenth amendment.

Mustering unexpected strength in the eleventh hour of the session the Assembly wet forces, led by Louis A. Cuvillier (Dem.), of New York, late today brought the Cuvillier proposal to memorialize Congress out of Rules Committee and onto the floor of the House by a vote of 82 to 61. Eighteen Republicans joined with the Democrats in voting to discharge the committee.

A technical point, raised by majority leader Russell G. Dunmore, prevented immediate consideration of the bill which now rests with the revision committee. Cuvillier, however, announced he wouldmove tomorrow to instruct the Revision Committee to report the bill on special order and it is assumed he will have the same 82 votes in his support. Once the bill is on the floor, it is expected that the same vote will be taken on its passage as is recorded on the discharge.

Only 76 votes are needed for its passage.

Figures prove that the most fashionable wear NATURE'S RIVAL

All the feminine world today is speaking in terms of figures. Over the teacups and across bridge tables one hears a continual exchange of questions: "Where does the waist-line really belong?" "How much curve of the hip is fashionable?"

In answer to all such discussions, one need only point out the smart appearance of the women who wear Nature's Rival. Their graceful figures prove that the new costumes are effective only when worn over the right foundation.

Correctly fitted in a Nature's Rival creation, your own body will assume svelte, new-season lines. Spring clothes will fit smoothly in the charming way Paris recommends. And the best part is that this result may be secured with whatever type of garment you wish —Girdle-Brassiere, Bandeau and Circle Sash, Step-in, Tip-Top or Brassiere and Garter Belt.

Expert adjusters in leading department stores and shops of your city will be glad to demonstrate any of these smart styles to you.

Prepared for Anything Now

"I can't imagine anything more discouraging than to suffer every time you eat a meal," says Andrew Anderson of 5452 Broadway, Chicago. "It keeps a fellow upset and so shaky he isn't good for much of anything. You should see me now, though. The simplest thing has straightened me out fine. I take a dose of Acidine whenever a meal doesn't sit right. Before I know it everything is all right. I am not afraid of anything now."

Mr. Anderson is absolutely right. Such a simple thing as a stomach which fails to digest starchy food and sweets can break down a person's resistance until even his confidence is undermined. The excessive acids cause thin blood because your food doesn't nourish you. By sweetening your stomach with Acidine, you can eat and grow strong. Get Acidine at any drug store.

FINANCIER'S FRIENDS TELL OF THREATS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Edward M. Hamlin of Boston, one of Nathan L. Amster's broker-friends who say they tried to help him to "settle matters" with Olga Eide Edwards, resumed the witness stand today in General Sessions Court, where, on Amster's complaint, Miss Edwards is being tried for extortion.

Amster charges that, by threatening to expose him as the father of her 6-year-old son, Miss Edwards obtained more than $100,000 from him before he finally complained to the District Attorney and had her arrested.

Both Hamlin and Charles Friedenburg, who followed him to the stand, told stories similar to that yesterday of Louis Whicher, but less detailed, of having been present at encounters between Amster and Miss Edwards when she demanded money and threatened, if Amster did not pay, to take her child to his wife, tell her story to the newspapers, and, "if that doesn't work, shoot him."

Under cross-examination, Hamlin said that at the time he discussed with Amster in Boston in 1926 the establishment of the $100,000 trust fund for Miss Edwards and the child, he was not familiar with all the details of her relations with Amster.

Later Charles R. Jeffers, Amster's secretary, took the stand and testified that on more than one occasion when Miss Edwards visited Amster's office she "kicked and yelled and screeched" and caused business in the offce to stop, while clerks and stenographers craned their necks to see what was going on.

Once, he testified, she brought little Lee along and permitted him to go about the office, among the stenographers, "speaking of Daddy Amster."

Jeffers said that last October Miss Edwards appeared at Amster's New York office and said, "I'm through with thees petty demands. I want $200,000 in United States currency."

"I asked her," Jeffers said, "whether, in view of the small amount she wanted, she would have it now or after lunch."

Held Up by Man and Woman.

Floyd Rosenkrantz, a guest at Drover's Hotel in East St. Louis, was robbed of $31 at Third and Illinois avenues, East St. Louis, by a white man and a Negro woman early today. Rosenkrantz reported the man held him while the woman went through his pockets.

Barred From Selling Stock in State.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 10.—State Securities Commissioner Stockard announced yesterday he had returned an application of the Trans-America Corporation for the right to sell $1,250,000 worth of stock in Missouri. He did not issue an order, as the concern had asked his advice in a letter. Stockard advised the corporation that on basis of the showing the company made in its correspondence he would be unable to approve their application.

No comic-strip collegiate styles either—just those easy-fitting English type suits that are favored at the leading prep-schools and universities ▾ Of course, they must wear—lots! And they will, for we've used rich cheviots and herringbones that have stood up under all sorts of punishment, in the testing machines ▾ Thriftily priced, too — in the usual Bond manner — $20, with two trousers.

F. L. SMITH INCREASES LEAD FOR CONGRESS

Twice Rejected Senator Wins Nomination — Late Returns in Illinois Primary.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The success of Frank L. Smith, twice denied a seat in the United States Senate, was the outstanding feature of the congressional primaries of Tuesday. Late returns increased the lead of Smith and of Richard Yates, incumbent, in the contest for Republican nominations for the two places as Congressmen-at-Large in a field of 23 candidates. All Republican and Democratic Congressmen were apparently renominated.

Of the 7117 precincts out of the State, 5223 gave the leading Republican candidates: Yates, 275,809; Smith, 184,320; Justus L. Johnson, 138,342; Frank H. Funk, 92,455; Julius Klein, 80,716. Klein carried Chicago, but was defeated in the rest of Cook County and down-state.

Michaelson's Plurality Small.

With only 15 precincts missing, Congressman M. A. Michaelson, who was charged with bringing liquor into this country in his trunk, and acquitted, appeared to be renominated by Seventh District Republicans by a plurality of less than 1000. The vote was: Michaelson, 25,663; James C. Moreland, 24,722.

Congressman Carl R. Chindblom apparently defeated Col. A. V. Smith by at least 12,000. All but eight precincts of the district gave Chindblom, 34,663, Smith 22,146.

In the Sixth District, Henry R. Lundblad received 31,977, with two precincts missing, to 28,316 for T. S. O'Donnell, his nearest Republican opponent.

Two Democratic nominations for Congressman appeared to have been won by Leonard W. Schuetz in the Seventh and John H. Hesse in the Tenth. Schuetz was leading 10,338 to 8251 over Charles A. Windle. Twenty-six precincts were still to be heard from. Charles S. Cole polled 6610 to 7198 for Hesse, with only three precincts out.

In the Eleventh District Congressman Frank R. Reid, Republican, of Aurora, appeared to have won. In the Twenty-fifth District Congressman Richard E. Denison of Marion had 8698 votes to 1799 for John L. Whiteside in 87 precincts.

Congressmen Nominated

Among the successful candidates are:

First District—Oscar de Priest, Negro (Rep.), Chicago; Harry Baker (Dem.), Chicago; Second—Morton D. Hull (Rep.), Chicago; Michael C. Walsh (Dem.), Chicago; Third—Elliott W. TWO HURT, HOUSE DESTROYED IN SACRAMENTO EARTHQUAKE

Several Other Persons in Residence Are Unhurt; Other Tremors in Italy.

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 10.—Mrs. Mary Wadeca, 22 years old, and her 2-year-old son were injured slightly in an earthquake yesterday. Their home, weakened by the tremor, collapsed 25 minutes later. Several other persons in the house were not injured. No other damage was reported in Sacramento, although dishes rattled in various sections of the city.

ROME, April 10.—Slight earthquake shocks were reported yesterday in Teramo, Ascoli and Spoleto. They resulted in no casualties and caused no serious material damage. The tremors, which were undulatory at Teramo and Ascoli, and subsultory as well at Spoleto, had been predicted for the early part of this month by Prof. Bendandi, director of the seismological laboratory at Faenza.

The tremors continued for several seconds. They will be followed three days hence by further disturbances, Prof. Bendandi forecasts. A period of calm lasting until April 20 or 22 will follow, he says, and then the seismic storm with reach its zenith. Violent earthquakes will devastate localities in the central region of the Mediterranean shores, in Eastern Asia, along the southern and at the extreme boreal region of New Zealand, the scientist predicts.

Killed in Fall From Train.

Walter L. Matthews, 26 years old, a switchman, 1019 North Cardinal avenue, was killed yesterday when he slipped and fell from the top of a moving freight train in the railroad yards near Vandeventer and Park avenues. The wheels of several cars passed over his body before the train was stopped.

DIRECT FACTORY BRANCH

AGAINST CITY-COUNTY POLICE FORCE MERGER

Committee Also Opposes Uniting Fire Departments Under Proposed Consolidation.

Police and fire departments of St. Louis and its suburbs are not to be united in the proposed metropolitan control of the city and county, but will be subject to advisory and co-ordinating functions of the central body. This was decided by the Public Safety Committee of the Council on Metropolitan government, meeting at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

Creation of a highway patrol for the outlying area, under the metropolitan government, was recomended, and traffic regulations would be made uniform throughout the greater city.

A subcommittee had recommended that a single metropolitan police force be established, under a board appointed by the Governor. Police Commissioner Bartlett, Chief of Police Gerk and Allen C. Orrick, former head of the Police Board, voted for this in the subcommittee, and it was opposed there by Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County and Mayor O. K. White of Glendale, a third county member, Chief of Police Ward of University City, having been absent.

Prof. Thomas H. Reed, the expert engaged in drafting the merger plan, explained there was a wide difference of opinion between proponents and opponents of police consolidation, and he suggested that the police question be let alone, inasmuch as a proposal to unite the forces might bring much opposition to the whole plan.

Only Group to Disagree.

This was the only subcommittee in the whole movement which has not been unanimous in its recommendation, Reed added. If it is found desirable later to have the police consolidated, he explained, the Legislature could accomplish that, and there is some question as to the legality of putting such a proposal in the projected charter.

Cost of a consolidated police force, Reed declared, would mean a tax rate of about 43 cents on the $100 on present valuations in the county just to support the police. He advocated, instead, a motorized outlying highway patrol of 50 to 150 men, costing $150,000 to $450,000 a year, the maximum amount requiring only about a 3-cent rate on the city and county. The subcommittee's recommendation was rejected by the Public Safety Committee, which then adopted a substitute offered by C. L. de Renthel, a city member.

This proposed "that the various police departments retain their identity, with a provision in the metropolitan plan for police supervision, having advisory control over the various departments, particularly for developing uniformity and co-operation." It also proposed a central department for the highway patrol and suggested establishment of branch offices for the central police organization.

Uniform Traffic Rules.

A recommendation by another subcommittee that the metropolitan government be given authority to make uniform traffic regulations, including signs and signals, was approved, but with the statement that "The question of enforcement probably should be left much as it is now." A special traffic division in the metropolitan Safety Department was recommended, for reporting to the central governing body on traffic matters.

The Safety Department would have advisory control over the various fire departments, under the approval given to the report made by another subcommittee. Uniformity and co-operation would be sought among the independent departments.

Still another report approved dealt with building regulations. It is proposed to continue the building codes of the various municipalities and to empower the metropolitan government to make and administer a code for all areas not covered now. Reed had not been present when this subcommittee met and yesterday he urged a change to provide for a single uniform building code for the greater city, to be enforced either by the central authority or by the municipalities, but no one rose to his suggestion.

AUTHOR STARTS ON DEEP-SEA EXPEDITION OFF BERMUDA

William Beebe and Party Leave New York for Research in Davy Jones' Locker.

NEW YORK, April 10.—William Beebe, author, scientist and explorer sailed yesterday to explore Davy Jones' Locker three miles below the surface of the sea off Bermuda. Accompanied by his wife, Elwyth Thane, novelist, and his party, he left on seven months' expedition under the auspices of the New York Zoological Society's department of tropical research of which he is a director.

Beebe's expedition this year is designed to carry on the work started at Nonsuch Island in Bermuda, in 1929, to ascertain types of marine life from the surface down to about three miles. It is the first time a scientific group has explored the ocean depths in vertical fashion, examining the life that exists at various depths, rather than at the same depth in various places.

New Order on Canadian Currency.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Federal Reserve Board officials will announce soon a new system designed to facilitate the collection of Canadian currency brought into the United States by Canadian tourists and its redemption in American money. The purpose is to keep the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar in the United States more closely attached to its exchange value and to reduce some of the annoyance that Canadian citizens have encountered in traveling in the United States.

ONE KILLED, TWO HURT, AS STREET CAR HITS TRUCK

Motorman Says Driver of Machine Ahead of Him Swerved Into Path of Trolley.

Fred Osberg, 40 years old, was killed, and two other men were injured seriously when a truck on which they were riding was struck by a street car at Jefferson avenue and Accomac street at 2:15 a. m. today. Osberg's address was given by police as 501 Pine street.

The truck was driven by George McDaniel, a car inspector, 5022 Claxton avenue, who suffered internal injuries. Fred Rast, a shoe worker, 2418 Cass avenue, suffered fractures of the skull and ribs.

Thomas Herrick, 1816 Ohio avenue, motorman of the street car, which was northbound, told police the truck was being driven in the same direction, and that the driver attempted to turn west into Accomac street in front of the street car. The truck was overturned, crushing Osberg.

Two Women Injured When Fire Truck Hits Auto.

Mrs. Josephine Taussig, 36, and Mrs. Marie Cunningham, 43, both of 6401 Cates avenue, suffered head injuries and lacerations yesterday when an automobile driven by Mrs. Taussig was struck by a fire truck at Washington boulevard and Sarah street. After striking Mrs. Taussig's car, the apparatus swerved and hit two other machines, the occupants of which escaped injury. The firemen were responding to a small blaze at 4215 Olive street.

Carlos Shumway, a freight solicitor, Madison, Ill., suffered a fractured skull when a tire of an automobile in which he was riding blew out, causing the driver to lose control. The machine struck a pile of stones in a vacant lot at Esther avenue and Simpson place. The machine was driven by Charles Stienkemeyer, 5957 Columbia avenue.

Amedee R. Peugnet, 4482 Lindell boulevard, suffered skull and internal injuries when attempting to ride a motorcycle for the first time. He borrowed the motorcycle from his brother, who operates a filling station at 10,794 Riverview drive, and proceeded only a few feet before he crashed through a fence.

Thomas Bradley, 3718 Fairview avenue, suffered a skull injury when his automobile was struck by a University-Olive street car at Skinker boulevard.

HOOVER PROCLAIMS CHILD HEALTH DAY

Designates May 1 for National Observance, in Accordance With Congressional Request

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—By proclamation of President Hoover, May 1 will be observed throughout the nation as Child Welfare day.

Regional chairmen in charge of plans for the observance met here today to arrange for the celebration. They will be guests of President Hoover at a White House tea tomorrow afternoon.

The President's proclamation said:

"Whereas the Congress, by joint resolution, has authorized and requested the President of the United States of America to proclaim annually that May day is Child Health day; and

"Whereas, all the states of the Union, together with Alaska and Porto Rico, through their health officers, medical societies, and other agencies of good will, with the support of their respective Governors, are now actively supporting organized health programs; and

"Whereas, the White House conference for child health and protection, composed of groups of distinguished in all the vital phases of child life, is mobilizing knowledge in practical application for submission to the country at large; and

"Whereas, while applied science and invention have given us world leadership in mechanical processes, we shall fall short of our highest aspirations if we fail to practice all that science can give in service of our fundamental asset—our children; now

"Therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate May 1 of this year as Child Health day, and I do invite all our people and all our agencies interested in boys and girls to assist every reasonable effort of their communities to make this a day for organizing and coordinating interest in child health.

"Our children have the right to be born in health, to be well throughout babyhood and the preschool years; to be surrounded with moral and spiritual inspiration; to work and to play through primary school with well minds based on well bodies; to enjoy and to profit to the utmost by their higher schooling because of wholesome habits of thought and deed; thence to graduate into adult life, strong in body and inculcated with the sense of fair play and of responsibility for the rights of others."

SECOND KANSAS BANK ROBBER CONVICTED OF TAX EVASION

Fred Fleagle Liable to Penalty of $20,000; to Be Tried for Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

GARDEN CITY, Kan., April 10.—Fred Fleagle, brother of Ralph Fleagle, convicted Lamar, Colo., bank robber, was found guilty on four counts of tax evasion yesterday by a Finney County District Court jury. He was the second of his family to be convicted on the charges, which grew out of disclosure that the Fleagles had deposited large amounts of money in Western Kansas banks for five years.

Walter Fleagle, a brother, has been fined $6500 following conviction on five counts of tax evasion. Their father, Jake Fleagle Sr., whose "horseless horse ranch" is alleged to have sheltered the fleeing Lamar robbers and slayers two years ago, is to be tried soon. Fred Fleagle is liable to maximum fines of $20,000 and probably will be taken soon to Larned, Kan., where he faces charges of robbing the First National Bank in December, 1927.

Ralph Fleagle was sentenced to death. His appeal before the Colorado State Supreme Court is pending and his execution is automatically stayed.

LEWIS WILL FORCE DRY LAW ISSUE ON MRS. M'CORMICK

Democratic Nominee for Senate Declares "This Will Be No Sham Battle Over a World Court."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The prohibition question will overshadow all other issues in the forthcoming United States Senatorial campaign in Illinois.

Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic nominee, will force that issue to the front. Both parties have nominated as their senatorial standard bearers candidates who are against the League Court and foreign entanglements and thus prohibition becomes the big issue, as Lewis is an outspoken wet and Mrs. McCormick classifies as a dry, there can be no compromise upon this question, which has injected itself more or less prominently into every State campaign since the ratification of the eighteenth amendment. The former Senator has already made it plain that so far as he is concerned the repeal or modification of the Volstead act will be an active issue.

Not Just a Matter of Drink.

"The prohibition issue is not simply one of to drink or not to drink," Lewis explained to a representative of the Post-Dispatch today, "but is an issue that has been created by the methods of the administration of the national prohibition law by the Federal Government wherein citizens are deprived of their personal liberty, the control of their families and their personal morals. A citizen is deprived of any voice in the enforcement of law, is persecuted, disgraced in his home and dishonored in his state.

"No sham battle over a World Court, so called," continued Lewis, "shall be allowed to disguise or push back the issue of the rights of an American to enjoy freedom under the Constitution and citizenship under the state as is his national right and as is guaranteed to him by his fathers in the establishment of this republic."

Lewis accused the administration of permitting the East to strangle the commerce and industry of the West, denounced the tariff as unjust and labeled the present income tax as one "that loots the pocket of the individual and the larder of the home."

"I propose to go before the people of my State upon these principles," he said, "and I shall fight any effort to shunt these issues by any candidate, man or woman."

Platform to Be Wet.

Anton J. Cermak, chairman of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee, who made the race for the senatorship two years ago upon a dripping wet platform, said today that repeal or modification of the Volstead act and repeal of the Illinois search and seizure law would undoubtedly be one of the most conspicuous planks in the Democratic platform to be framed at Springfield a week from next Friday.

"Analyzing Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's victory over Senator Charles S. Deneen politicians today came to many conclusions. While Deneen has suffered from the lack of a consistent organization in Cook County Mrs. McCormick has been backed by the Thompson-City Hall machine which functions on high in every ward in Chicago all the time. And herein is presented another paradox of her paradoxical career in politics. A daughter of Mark Hanna, a stand-patter of the old political school and maker of Presidents, from whom she learned her politics, she is an out and out Progressive.

A State of One-Term Senators.

Commenting today upon Senator Deneen's defeat the Chicago Evening Post recalls that in nearly half a century Illinois never has returned to the Senate its representatives. One term seems to be enough for the voters.

The Chicago Daily News attributes the tremendous majority for Mrs. McCormick in Chicago to apathy on the part of the voters who failed to flock to the polls to finish the housecleaning they started when they delivered the solar plexis blow to the Thompson-City Hall machine two years ago.

"No delusions," comments the Daily News editorially, "interfered with the effectiveness of the City Hall forces and their allies. They demonstrated most convincingly the power of organization as compared with confused counsels and divisions in the ranks of the opposition. Until the great majority of voters of the party who stand for sound administration learn to work together unitedly, subordinating minor considerations to the supreme issue of reliable control of public offices and party affairs they have no reason to expect deliverance from domination by political organizations of the Crowe-Thompson variety.

Lewis, a Colonel in the Spanish-American War and Senate whip in President Wilson's administration, cast off 12 years' retirement and gained the Democratic senatorial nomination without a single campaign effort.

"Then comes the final question," said the man whom Champ Clark once dubbed the "dandy of the Senate." "Shall the American citizen submit to the official corruption that is continued in the enforcement of the national prohibition law, to the personal degradation of himself and home and to the defilement of sons and daughters by this system, that is put upon the citizens daily through the tyranny of the political masters at the capital?"

Unalterably Dry."

Both the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois and the Women Christian Temperance Union accepted the prohibition issue. The latter organization termed Lewis "unalterably wet" and Mrs. McCormick "unalterably dry." Mrs. McCormick's husband was wet.

ASSAILS WICKERSHAM FOR BANK RELATIONS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The connection of George W. Wickersham, chairman of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission, with international banking affairs while head of the Foreign Policy Committee of the Federal Council of Churches was termed an "indefensible position" today by Chairman Caraway of the Senate Lobby Committee.

Wickersham's name came before the committee through testimony by Representative Tinkham, (Rep.) Massachusetts, in amplifying charges against the Federal Council of Churches. After asserting that the council was attempting to substitute a theocracy for the present form of government, Tinkham added that Wickersham had until recently served as chairman of the council's Foreign Policy Committee. He continued that the former Attorney General had been active in international business.

A letter from Wickersham was then read which said that his law firm had represented at times "international bankers and we probably at the present time do represent a number of such interests."

"If these facts are of any interest or importance to you" the Wickersham letter concluded, "I cheerfully place them at your disposal."

Tinkham in renewing his attacks upon the Methodist Board and the Federal Council of Churches, urged that both organizations be investigated by the Lobby Committee.

Tinkham said the Federal Council of Churches, unlike the Methodist Board, did not engage in personal contact with members of Congress, but carried on its activities through propaganda.

He repeated his testimony of yesterday that the Council received about one-fourth of its money from churches and three-fourths from "other sources." The witness added that in 1928 the contributions from "other sources" amounted to $336,339.

Tinkham demanded that the Lobby Committee obtain from the Council a list of persons who contributed more than $500 in 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929.

PLANS FOR WABASH BRIDGE AT ST. CHARLES OPPOSED

River Men Favor Clearance of 50 Feet and Spans of 600 or 800 Feet.

Opposition to the design of the $5,500,000 bridge which the Wabash Railroad purposes to construct across the Missouri River at St. Charles, about a quarter of a mile east of its present bridge, was expressed by several river men at a public hearing in the Federal Building today before Maj. John C. Gotwals, district army engineer. Maj. Gotwals, after the hearing, was not prepared to outline his recommendation to the Secretary of War.

Plans for the new bridge call for three 400-foot spans across the river, with a vertical clearance at high water of 44 feet. River men want a vertical clearance of 50 feet and spans of 600 or 800 feet, which, they said, would be necessary for long tows of barges. Among those who appeared were former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton, representing the Mississippi Valley Association; Joseph Streckfus, president of Streckfus Steamers, Inc., and Henry Leyhe, general manager of the Eagle Packet Co.

Clement E. Chase, a consulting bridge engineer employed by the Wabash Railroad, contended that extremely long tows of barges which would need wider spans would be in themselves a menace to navigation because they would monopolize the river in crossing under bridges.

WIFE BALKS CENSUS-TAKER, U. S. WARRANT FOR HUSBAND

William Carter, Negro Chauffeur, Also Charged With Destroying Government Property.

"Didn't my wife tell you she didn't want to talk to you?" asked William Carter, 29 years old, Negro chauffeur, 4142A Kennerly avenue, of James Randall, a Negro census enumerator, yesterday.

Randall explained that his questions were impersonal and tendered his credentials as a Government census taker.

"When my wife says she doesn't want to talk she doesn't want to talk," Carter replied, tearing up the enumerator's credentials.

Warrants were issued against Carter today by the United States District Attorney's office charging him with the destruction of Government property and refusal to answer the questions of a census enumerator.

DILL ATTACKS WORLD COURT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Illinois Republican senatorial victory of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick was declared in the Senate today by Senator Dill (Dem.), Washington, to be a declaration against American adherence to the World Court.

Dill said Senator Deneen went down to defeat before Mrs. McCormick "carrying the Hoover banner on the World Court." He expressed the hope that President Hoover would take notice of the McCormick campaign against the World Court and refuse to submit to the Senate the modified proposal for American adherence to the court as embodied in the Root formula.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you remove it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your symptoms of dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and remove every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy entirely satisfies.

DEVIL-MAY-CARE Lieutenant Pancoast, A. E. F., admitted to his chaplain that "every town I was in I went for some girl."

There was one French girl, however, whose lips—when he kissed them—left no stain of rouge—a girl too fine to deserve her fate . . .

Ten years after the war, Pancoast went back to France. You thrill and choke as you read how the love and agony of the past came back to him.

Laurence Stallings, author of "The Big Parade," wrote this story, "Return of Pan." Months from now you will see it in fiction anthologies—but COSMOPOLITAN, of course, is the first to give it to you.

TWO YOUNG BROTHERS REFUSE TO TESTIFY

Fear to Incriminate Selves — Third Brother Says He Is Just "Office Boy."

William H. and Fred C. Young, president and secretary-treasurer of the collapsed brokerage firm of W. H. Young & Bros., Inc., declined to testify, on the ground they might incriminate themselves, at a hearing today before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles.

The brothers mentioned the fact that they were under bond in Barton County on charges of selling stock in violation of the blue sky law, had given bond in St. Louis to face any charge that might be brought by the Circuit Attornye, and were under investigation by the Postoffice authorities.

The hearing was requested by Receiver F. E. Williams in the hope of uncovering hidden assets of the brokerage firm and its subsidiaries, but little information was obtained. A third brother, Harold A. Young, vice president, testified that although he was detailed to the Kansas City office at a salary of $500 a month, he was just "an office boy" and knew nothing of stock sales and financial manipulations.

The wives of William and Fred testified that they held title to expensive St. Louis County homes, had valuable jewelry and silverware in safe deposit vaults and had comparatively small amounts in bank accounts, but they denied they had received any large amounts of money from their husbands or the firm.

Sprick said the firm had sold $1,200,000 of its worthless preferred stock. He said he had no idea how much more stock, also worthless, of various subsidiaries had been unloaded on the public.

BUILDING a home is like building an estate. The important thing is the selection of lasting values. When the careful buyer makes an investment, he looks to the future as well as the present. That is why many such bankers as Mr. Lord advise you to build your home to last—with Copper, Brass and Bronze.

Brass or Copper Pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures are permanent. They cannot rust. They give excellent service without repair or replacement for the life of the house.

Although these rust-proof materials cost a trifle more in the beginning, they invariably prove an economy in the long run. With them the first cost is the last.

GANDHI'S MEN TRY TO MAKE SALT AT CONGRESS HOUSE

LEADER CONTINUES TO DEFY MONOPOLY

He Suffers Attack of High Blood Pressure, Rests, Then Goes to Marshes Near Abrama.

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, India, April 10.—Two hundred civil disobedience volunteers, including six Mohammedans and three women, carried sea water to the steps of Congress House tsday for the manufacture of salt in violation of British law.

The band divided itself into 20 roups, each bringing a supply of ea water. Thirty-two salt pans were installed at Congress House.

Many women figured in the salt making, some of them taking sea water to their homes to violate the law. The violations represent the irst step in the campaign of civil disobedience by which Indian Nationalists hope to win independence for their country.

There were two arrests of volunteers in Bombay's suburbs last night for selling salt, one of the persons offering the forbidden product to a Magistrate at his residence.

Police raided National Congress headquarters here and arrested the ecretary, Abid Ali, as well as Mehr Ali, "commander of the National Militia."

Students, greatly excited, left the hool, and began parading the reets and picketing. Fourteen of hem were arrested also. A vigilance committee was formed with ssemblyman Dass as secretary to revent excesses.

Gandhi, denying reports he had dvocated violence, said today: "I dvised the people to take only a andful of salt which could be conined in their closed fist; I invited en women and children to take art in the battle for freedom, and ared the police to lay hands on hem."

He said that if this method of obedience were not effective he uld advise students to boycott hools and Government servants give up their jobs. Although any of his followers have been ken into custody, Gandhi has ne unmolested.

Campaign Gaining Strength Rapidly, London Is Informed.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 10.—The civil disobedience campaign of Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, is reported here to be growing rapidly in strength. Indian police are said to be finding it increasingly difficult to handle the situation provoked with open violation of the salt laws, although the constabulary nowhere has been overpowered.

One of the principal difficulties has arisen from Gandhi's order to his devotees to hold on to their contraband salt, even if the bones of their hands are broken. This is just what has happened in some cases and authorities fear violence may result if harsh measures are continued.

A Bombay dispatch to the Daily Mail says Gandhi's volunteers are snatching caps from the heads of those not wearing the special Gandhi caps and burning them. Europeans are jeered and made the object of threatening gestures on the streets.

Calcutta Mayor Ends Term; Plans Further Violations.

By the Associated Press.

CALCUTTA, April 10.—J. M. Sengupta, Mayor of Calcutta, has finished his 10-day jail sentence in Rangoon and today visited Gandhi followers who are manufacturing salt illegally, telling them "we will meet again in jail." Sengupta, with several companions, plans to sell contraband salt in Calcutta April 13.

Gandhi Urges Women to Picket Foreign Cloth Shops.

By the Associated Press.

AHMADABAD, India, April 10. In an article in his magazine, "Young India," Mahatma Gandhi asks the women of his country to take up the picketing of liquor shops and foreign cloth shops. He says women's appeals to merchants, buyers of foreign cloth, liquor dealers and drink addicts could not but melt their hearts.

In any case, Gandhi writes, the women could never be suspected of doing or intending to do violence against these four classes, adding "the charm will lie in the agitation being initiated and controlled by women. They may and should take as much assistance as they need from men, but the men should be in strict subordination to the women."

Speakers Over Telephone See Each Other on the Screen

NEW YORK, April 10.—One more step in the conquest of space and time, making it possible for two persons separated by distance to talk to and see each other as though they were in the same room, through the development of a two-way television-telephone system, was demonstrated for the first time yesterday by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The demonstration was the fourth step in the development of television by the company. The first was by wire and radio in April, 1927. The second was the outdoor television test in 1928, while the third was the color television in June, 1929. All the previous steps were one-way television, only one end of the circuit being visible.

The latest development permits both parties to the conversation to see and hear each other.

Each New York newspaper sent two representatives, one to the auditorium of the telephone company's building at 195 Broadway and another to the Bell Telephone laboratories, about two miles away. In turn the representatives of each newspaper were given the opportunity to interview each other televisionally.

Orange Light in Booth.

At a given signal one was told to enter a special chamber, lighted with a dim orange light. The first thing one saw was a blue spot of light. Below that, through an inclined plate of glass, there was a small frame upon which he saw a new word, "Ikonophone." Below that was the legend "Watch this space for television image."

Suddenly the sign was lifted and in its place one beheld a familiar face. "Hello, Hello!"

There was no telephone of the familiar type in the room, but the voices came just the same. One got the impression of conversing with an animated moving picture. And the animated picture talked back.

On the face of each person shone a mild beam of blue light which reflected from his face to a group of photo-electric cells and gave rise to the current which transmitted the image to the other person in the distant booth.

The ordinary telephone was not used because it would have hid part of the speaker's face from his distant observer. A novel arrangement of a concealed transmitter and receiver avoided this difficulty and enabled the speakers to talk to each other as though they were in the same room.

Two-Mile Test.

While the test was between stations two miles apart, it was explained that similar results could be obtained over a distance of thousands of miles.

Walter S. Gifford, president of the A. T. and T., and Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the Bell laboratories, said the test was but another step in the policy of the company "fully to explore and develop every field which gives promise of possible improvement in and extension of electrical communication." Both said that the commercial possibilities of the device are uncertain.

ITALIAN ARRESTED FOR SELLING COPIES OF NITTI'S 'ESCAPE'

MILAN, April 10.—The manager of Italy's largest chain of book stores has been arrested for selling "Escape," a book published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, in which Francesco Nitti, nephew of a former Italian Premier, describes the escape of himself and three companions from the penal island of Lipari, to which he was sent for propaganda against the dictatorship of Benito Mussolini.

The Italian firm succeeded in smuggling a large shipment of the volumes into this country from London and has since been selling many copies to trusted clients.

Last week when the manager of the firm was at lunch, a stranger entered the Milan branch and showed a salesman a slip of paper on which the title of Nitti's book was written. He asked if the book was carried in stock. The salesman went to the rear of the store and returned with a copy of "Escape" which he sold the unidentified customer, who turned out, of course, to be a police agent.

The remaining copies of the book were seized by the authorities.

BRITISH DIPLOMAT OPPOSES MORE INDEPENDENCE FOR EGYPT

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 10.—Disregarding threats that he would be shot if he discussed the Egyptian question before the British Empire Union, Lord Brentford, who as William Joynson-Hicks was Home Secretary in the last Conservative Cabinet, last night told the organization that the Conservatives, when next in power, would reconsider any treaty with Egypt which the Laborite Government might make if it went beyond what was already in force.

The former Cabinet Minister recently returned from a trip to Egypt and his known opposition to Nationalistic aspirations of that country had caused much murmuring among Egyptians here. In his speech he expressed opposition to claims which the Egyptian delegation now in London has been making. In addition Lord Brentford regretted that the Government of which he himself was a member had not taken more severe measures in Egypt when Sir Lee Stack was murdered there in November, 1924.

The former Cabinet member has gone on record as opposing the wish of Egypt to attain a greater degree of independence and to have all British troops withdrawn from the country except in the vicinity of the Suez Canal.

TEXT OF ANGLO-RUSSIAN TRADE PACT TO BE SENT TO MOSCOW

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 10.—Draft of a new Anglo-Russian trade treaty will go to Moscow next week for approval by the Soviet Government. If ratified, the London Daily Express said today, trade between the two countries will be resumed shortly.

The paper said that no definite settlement of the question of payment of Russia's pre-Soviet debts had been reached, but a "line of settlement" has been indicated.

The Express said also that the three-year pact between the British oil combine and Russian oil producers had been ended, and that British retailers now may sell Russian oil without being penalized by the combine.

Turkish Band Invades Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 10.—One wealthy Bulgarian and one robber chief were killed during an incursion of Bulgaria today by armed Turkish bandits who, after plundering a frontier village near Adrianople, came into contact with gendarmes and local militia. Several gendarmes also were wounded. The bandits recrossed the frontier.

CONFEREES O K MOST OF SENATE FARM TARIFFS

Compromise of $2.50 on Sugar Cane Agreed Upon —Cuban Product and Tobacco Held Up.

HIGHER RATES FOR WATCHES, ZINC ORES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—With only a few exceptions, the Congressional tariff bill conferees today agreed to the higher Senate rates on farm products.

Reserving decision on the controversial Cuban raw sugar and tobacco levies, the Senate and House groups completed action on about half of the agricultural schedule.

A compromise rate of $2.50 a ton on sugar cane was agreed upon. The present rate of $1 had been increased by the House to $3 and by the Senate to $2.

Cattle, weighing less than 700 pounds, 2½ cents a pound, now 1½; weighing over 700 pounds, 3 cents a pound, now 2; milk, 6½ cents a gallon, now 3¾; cream, 56.6 cents a gallon, now 30.

Skimmed milk and buttermilk, 2 1-20 cents a gallon, now 1; unsweetened condensed milk, 1.8 cents a pound, now 1; sweetened condensed milk, 2¾ cents a pound, now 1½; all other condensed milk, 2.53 cents a pound, now 1⅜.

Dried whole milk, 6 1-12 cents a pound, now 3; dried cream, 12 1-3 cents a pound, now 7; dried skimmed and dried buttermilk, 3 cents a pound, now 1½; malted milk, 35 per cent, now 20.

Compromise on Cheese.

Cheese and cheese substitutes were given a compromise rate of 8 cents a pound, but not less than 40 per cent ad valorem. The present rate of 5 cents, but not less than 25 per cent, had been raised by the House to 7 cents, but not less than 35 per cent, and the Senate to 8 cents, but not less than 42 per cent.

The Copeland amendment incorporated by the Senate to apply a rate of 8 cents a pound on Romano cheese and 5 cents a pound on feta white cheese, with no ad valorem minimum rates, was eliminated.

The Senate increase from 2 to 5 cents a pound in the tariff on frozen halibut also was stricken out. Senate reductions in the House rates on cod, haddock, hake, pollock and cusk were approved.

The House rate of 35 per cent on canned clams and clam juice was accepted in preference to the Senate duty of 30 per cent. These are now on the free list.

Higher tariffs on watches and clocks, bentwood furniture and zinc ores were agreed upon by the congressional confereees on the tariff bill yesterday as they completed work on the less controversial sections of the metals and wood schedules.

Differences over proposed duties on silver, logs, lumber and shingles also were left for future decision. The House conference group has promised to let the House vote on the latter two, and indications are that no decision will be made on silver until that body has balloted on the item.

The entire section, embracing watches and clocks, the most technical in the entire bill, were rewritten by the conferees. The changes were described by Senator Smoot (Rep.), Utah, as half way between the present rates approved by the Senate and the increased levies voted by the House.

Other Senate increases approved were: Live birds, eight cents a pound, now three; dressed birds, 10 cents a pound, now six; canned oysters and oyster juice, eight cents a pound, now free; oats, 16 cents a bushel, now 15; wheat, unifit for human consumption, 10 per cent, new item; soya bean oil cake and oil cake meal and all other similar products, three-tenths of one cent a pound, now free.

Dried cherries, six cents a pound, now two; cherries sulphured or in brine with pits, five and one-half cents a pound, now two; same with pits removed, nine and one-half cents a pound, now three; vinegar, eight cents a gallon, now six; dates with pits removed, two cents a pound, now 35 per cent; dates in packages weighing not over 10 pounds each, seven and one-half cents a pound, now 35 per cent.

Lemons, two and one-half cents a pound, now two; mangoes, 15 cents a pound, now free; alligator pears, 15 cents a pound, now free; dried plums, prunes and prunelles, two cents a pound, now one-half of one cent.

Brazil nuts, unshelled and shelled, were given compromise rates of one and one-half and four and one-half cents a pound, respectively, compared with one cent on both kinds at present.

The present and House rate of 10 per cent on wheat, flaxseed, and other grain screenings was accepted instead of the Senate rate of one-half of one cent a pound.

Farm Schedule Finished.

The conferees completed action on the agricultural schedule, accepting with but few exceptions the many Senate amendments increasing House rates. Only two rates in the entire section were passed by for future decision. They are the Senate rate of seven cents a pound on long staple cotton, now on the free list, and the Senate increase from eight to 11 cents a pound in the duty on frozen eggs.

WALES HEEDS QUEEN MARY ON EVERYTHING BUT MARRIAGE

Her Efforts to Persuade Prince to Marry So Far Futile, Biographer Writes.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 10.—The statement that the Prince of Wales has implicit confidence in the judgment of his mother on every subject except marriage, is contained in a new unofficial biography of Queen Mary which contains many stories about the royal family.

The Queen, the writer says, would like to see her eldest son married as a prospect for a direct heir to the throne, but thus far her efforts to persuade the Prince to take a wife have been in vain. The biographer asserts the Prince consults his mother about most of his undertakings, but has remained adamant so far as marriage is concerned.

The book was written by Mrs. Charlotte Cavendish, widow of a Colonel in the British army. It was not submitted to the Queen before publication.

100 INJURED IN FIGHT BETWEEN HINDU FACTIONS

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, April 10.—Rioting unconnected with the independence campaign of the Indian Nationalists broke out yesterday at Masik, a city about 100 miles northeast of here. The clash occurred between Caste Hindus and "untouchables" who are not allowed to enter the temples or participate in any Hindu religious ceremonies.

The Caste men took from the temples two chariots containing images which were to be drawn in a procession by 5000 devotees. The "untouchables," who had also gathered in thousands, rushed to pull on the ropes alongside the Caste men.

The latter resisted and a fight developed. Many stones were thrown and police finally had to charge with batons to disperse the mob. More than 100 suffered injuries.

There are about 50,000 pilgrims gathered in Masik for today's fair.

RISE IN FRENCH AUTO TARIFF

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 10.—American automobile dealers in France today said that they had learned the French Customs authorities had decided, pending passage of the new tariff, to change the manner of valuation of American cars for duty in such a way as to increase the amount payable thereon from 25 to 60 per cent.

By this measure also the existing 45 per cent ad valorem duty will be calculated on the selling price in France instead as heretofore on the production price in America. The supposed object of the measure is to prevent dealers from importing large stocks of cars before the new tariff becomes effective.

PROPOSES GERMANY SACRIFICE U. S. TRADE FOR EASTERN

Vice-Chancellor Dietrich Urges Expansion of Business With Neighbor States.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 10.—Cultivation by Germany of closer commercial relations with its eastern and southeastern neighbors, possibly at the expense of present trade relations with the United States, Canada and Argentina, was urged today by Hermann Dietrich vice-Chancellor and Minister of Economics.

Speaking at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Berlin Chamber of Commerce, Dietrich produced figures showing how exports to the three American countries greatly exceed imports. He added that, although Germany's eastern and southeastrn neighbors had raised high tariff walls, experience had shown that a satisfactory expansion of trade with them was possible.

He mentioned that the adverse trade balance with Argentina was about $90,000,000, with the United States about $199,000,000 and with Canada about $54,000,000.

SENATE ORDERS CAMPAIGN FUND INQUIRY MADE

Passes Norris Resolution to Investigate Expenditures by Senatorial Candidates This Year.

GRUNDY AND DENEEN URGE THIS ACTION

Persuade Old Guard Committee Which Had Pigeon-Holed Proposal to Report It Favorably.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Senate today ordered an investigation of campaign expenditures of senatorial candidates in this year's contest. The resolution of Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, providing for appointment of a special committee to inquire into the campaign chests of senatorial candidates was approved without a record vote and almost without discussion.

In response to a request by Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, the Nebraskan amended the resolution to stipulate that no Senator should be appointed to the investigating committee in whose State there will be a senatorial election this year. The resolution allows $100,000 for the investigation.

Vice President Curtis appointed the investigating committee as follows: Johnson (Rep.), California, chairman; Goldsborough, Maryland, and Patterson, Missouri, Republicans; Pittman, Nevada, and Wagner, New York, Democrats.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—A repetition of the slush fund investigations of the Republican senatorial primaries in Pennsylvania and Illinois in 1926, which resulted in the refusal of the Senate to seat William Vare and Frank L. Smith, is suggested with the Senate's action calling for an inquiry into all senatorial primaries and elections this year.

Senator Grundy, appearing in his new and interesting role of a reform candidate, made an impassioned appeal for a thorough investigation of expenditures in the Pennsylvania primary, in which he is opposing Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

Senator Charles S. Deneen, who was defeated for renomination in the Illinois primary Tuesday by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, importuned the committee by long-distance telephone to report the resolution favorably.

Before this time the committee, controlled by Old Guard Republicans, had calmly pigeonholed the Norris resolution for more than two months, but the pleas of De-

Dear Madam:

Confidence comes from many things —not the least of these is dress. Men who dress slovenly sometimes have that kind of a reputation. Men who dress in good taste, right color, right style, right cut, carry an air of confidence with them.

Does your husband's dress produce confidence? For 30 years we have custom-tailored clothes that help.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

After Prohibition, What?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IF prohibition is repudiated by the country what will be the alternative? Will it be repudiated by law unless there is offered an alternative more attractive than a licensed, profit-induced commerce in liquor? Millions of people are to be found between the fringes of reactionary wet and fanatical dry. Let us not forget that the liquor business was a reckless violator of the decencies and did more than anything else to bring on prohibition. That was before the war. With post-war methods of promotion and salesmanship and mass corruption of electorates they would put us all under the table.

Isn't it about time to think of some solution not tainted with emotion or pecuniary interest? Why not take the question out of the hands of wets and drys and approach it as a social problem, as it really is? Assuredly it is a problem for cerebration rather than for prejudice, partisanship and private interest. One thing we have never drawn upon is the experience of other countries such as England, where a system is in effect which has greatly reduced debauchery among working men without fostering the bootlegger. The Scandinavian countries and Canada have made interesting experiments.

What is needed is an investigating body composed of the best disinterested and trained minds of the country, such as Roscoe Pound, John Dewey, Judge Kenyon, Walter Lippmann, Glenn Frank and social engineers such as our own Mr. Kelso. Give the people an alternative other than the devil and the deep sea and the best that can be done for the situation will be done.

Model Boats in Park Lake.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PERMIT me to direct attention to the increasing interest displayed, principally on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, in model boat sailing on the lake just east of the band stand in Forest Park.

I have written the Park Commissioner to have the bulrushes and other obstructions removed, and the limbs of overhanging trees trimmed, so that it will not be necessary to carry long poles in order to free the small vessels from these obstructions. These poles may be a source of danger to the many persons standing about the shore at times.

Many persons have commented favorably upon the constructive entertainment this sport affords, not only to the real youngsters, but to those in their second childhood, and we trust that the Park Commissioner can and will comply with this humble request.

The Wagner Unemployment Bills.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ with interest of the favorable report by the Senate Committee on Commerce on two of the three bills introduced by Senator Wagner of New York more than two years ago. The unemployment situation is at present in the mind of every thinking American and I have yet to hear of a better plan than that of Senator Wagner.

But, these bills were "introduced more than two years ago," and were not acted on by the committee to which they were referred. The bills were withdrawn, reintroduced and referred to another committee. Again no action. Yet the unemployment situation was growing more serious. Senator Wagner "was told privately that the old guard was determined that no Tammany Democrat would be permitted to get credit for instituting an important step toward relieving unemployment."

What an exhibition of political jealousy! The Big Babies in the Senate and House are supposed to represent the will of a people who elected them. Yet the bills which, if enacted, would have materially decreased unemployment were shelved because Percy didn't want Willie to get the credit for something Percy was too dumb to think up for himself. Oh mercy! Oh help!

Veteran's Blues.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THEY sent me to the army, at the age of twenty-three, which left my dear old mother and my sweetie far from me. I arrived at Union Station, although a little late, and a thousand people shouted, as the boys passed through the gate. It wasn't but a moment till the parting wave was given, when the train sped on, which at fifty per was driven. The change from private life to rookie, was a little hard at first, but I never thought when I'd get back that things would be far worse. For I lost my job when I got back, and I lost my sweetie too, and I also lost my appetite when I heard the word beefstew. I put in a disability claim which to do I thought was right, but they turned it down and only said my evidence was light. When they sent me to the army I was free from ills and pain, but now I am disabled and will never be well again. I haven't any income, and I cannot work at all, in other words I am disgusted and my back's against the wall.

THE FRENCH DEMANDS.

France demands a superiority of 240,000 tons over Italy, and Italy shows no disposition to abandon parity with France as a condition to a five-Power treaty.

Thus the London naval conference is brought to the pass forecast by the French note of December 21, after which warnings were sounded to both President Hoover and Premier MacDonald that to hold a five-Power naval parley at this time might be a mistake.

The Washington conference of 10 years ago recognized the principle of Franco-Italian parity at 35 per cent of the Anglo-American standard. The Italian fleet was at that time inferior to the French and it remains so today. Neither country has built a capital ship since the war. But the cruiser program of Italy is such that it will result in virtual parity. In submarines, built and building, Italy is inferior to France by about 10 to six.

It is the Fascist regime that has forced the hand of France at London. Before Mussolini, Italy was content with the principle of Franco-Italian parity. The rivalries of the two countries in Africa were intense, but Italy despaired of matching the military and naval strength of France. Not so Mussolini. His inspiration is the powerful Roman tradition. He believes the Italians have in them the stuff of Rome if they will but have her spirit. It is a potent tonic, and it is no exaggeration to say that all Italy is drunk with it. The Italians will launch four new cruisers April 27, and on the same day the Government will draft 90,000 young Vanguardists into the Fascist militia.

Thus the hopes of a five-Power treaty at London could not be worse. The French will not accept naval parity with Italy, nor is there any power that can compel them to do so. France has been quite frank in stating that to make Italy her equal would be to imperil her vast African empire, which is almost five times as great as Italy's possessions in Africa, and the population of which is about 17 times as great.

Mussolini will not, of course, agree to the mere principle of Franco-Italian parity. His price for a five-Power treaty is actual parity with France. So that the London conference has before it little better than an agreement among the United States, Great Britain and Japan. Mr. Gibson, one of our delegates, says it means a saving of $900,000,000 in battleship building during the next six years. It places a limitation upon cruisers, destroyers and submarines. It therefore extends as to capital ships the work begun at the Washington conference, and it advances the limitation of armaments to war vessels not covered in the Washington agreement. This was the real objective of the conference. The rest was never better than a phantasy in a world of realities.

It is quite true that a three-Power treaty is in peril of disturbance by the Franco-Italian difficulty. That has not yet proved a matter which can be brought within the control of any international concert. It unhappily has in it the germs of war.

EDIBLE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Scientists have been experimenting on waste products with the nation's diet in mind, and some startling results are announced. The Bureau of Standards takes bran made from cotton seed hulls, bathes it in hot water, shoots in a little diluted sulphuric acid and lime, twirls it in a centrifugal machine, and sugar comes out. This is the Utopian brand of sugar for which the 18-day dieters have long been searching—it is guaranteed nonfattening. A Viennese chemist has the odd habit of tinkering with sawdust and shavings. His formula turns them into candy—mahogany taffy, slippery elm lollipops and such. At the same time, two Hamburg scientists are preparing to give Missouri sorghum a run for its money by making molasses of wood. More marvelous still, a New Jersey wiseacre fabricates meatless hot dogs from cotton seed meal, and they fool even the most experienced auto tourists. These are indeed wonders. Now let the scientists tackle the problem of making the Missouri pawpaw a tree-growing honeydew.

MADISON COUNTY POLITICS.

Joseph A. Raffaelle, former employe of the Madison Kennel Club, won the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Madison County, which is usually equivalent to election. Raffaelle had the backing of the powerful Brown-Little faction, which for some time has ruled the political roost in Madison County. His nearest rival in a field of seven was J. F. Witherow, former Police Chief of Wood River, who campaigned as a "law and order" candidate.

Open gambling in Madison County was the big issue in the election, but apparently those opposed to existing conditions could not concentrate upon a candidate to beat Raffaelle. Following the kidnaping of Charles W. Pershall, Granite City grocer, a group of citizens formed a protective association for the purpose of electing a Sheriff who would foster a clean-up campaign. But the protective association fizzled out like a wet firecracker without indorsing anyone.

The fact is Madison County is tightly in the grip of the gambling interests. The immensely rich Madison Kennel Club, which has a monopoly on dog racing hereabouts, has made itself highly agreeable to many Madison County officials and citizens in one way or another, and its lead has been followed by the Mounds Country Club, gambling casino on the Collinsville road, and scores of smaller layouts. These joints are a source of revenue to Madison County and, although they are operating outside the law, enjoy a certain prestige among their many beneficiaries.

It may be sufficient antigambling sentiment will arise between now and the election to bring about a revolt and the election of a Sheriff who will enforce the law. But at present the gamblers are firmly in command.

ENDURANCE RECORDS FOR FLIES.

Late Sunday morning sleepers have given the housefly a reputation for being able to buzz around for hours at a time without alighting. A Lieutenant in naval aviation at Pensacola now has debunked that superstition. This scientist imprisoned a robust, vigorous fly in a small room, Modern Mechanics reports, and started it on an endurance test. After five minutes the fly showed a desire to land. Being shooed aloft, it flew three minutes longer before zooming downward. Two minutes later the fly again wearily sought to call it a day, but the inexorable Lieutenant sent it staggering on. Next the fly became discouraged every minute or so. Then its attempts to descend came every few seconds, despite encouragement and cheers from the sidelines. At length, all its stamina gone, it made a dead stick landing, utterly exhausted. Only 18 minutes and 15 seconds had elapsed.

Man with the aid of a motor, gasoline and canvas wings has made that 18-minute record look pallid, it is true. But the fly retains the championship in ability to take off from a lump of sugar, to climb a perpendicular wall and to perch nonchalantly on a ceiling or window pane.

THE SENATE AND THE CITIZEN.

Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National Committee was brought before the Senate Lobby Committee at the instance of Senator Robinson of Indiana. Mr. Robinson's motive seems obvious. Chairman Huston of the Republican National Committee had been examined by the committee, and Mr. Robinson apparently concluded that the Democratic chairman ought also to be questioned. It was rather shoddy reasoning on Mr. Robinson's part. The results convict the Senator from Indiana of having abused his official authority.

The results are well known. Mr. Huston has been disqualified for the high party office which President Hoover conferred on him. He had diverted funds intrusted to him for lobbying purposes to his own speculative needs. He proffered an explanation of his action which the committee listened to with incredulous amazement. Subsequently that explanation was contradicted by another witness—the man who had sent Mr. Huston the money.

Mr. Raskob was not a lobbyist within the Senate committee's meaning of the term. He had not been interested in influencing legislation before Congress for gainful purposes. He was a member of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Everybody knew that. He had contributed money to that association. Everybody knew that. That was the extent of his alleged lobbying. Mr. Raskob was a pleasant, candid witness. He had nothing to conceal. Mr. Huston was a worried, ill-tempered, evasive witness, who had much to conceal.

In summoning Mr. Huston for examination the Senate committee performed a necessary public service. In summoning Mr. Raskob the committee, it seems to us, exceeded its authority. We do not believe that a citizen should be subject to the beck and call of a Senate committee at the mere whimsy of any Senator. Would it be far fetched to say that the constitutional guarantee against "unreasonable search and seizure" applies in this instance? Waiving that point, may we not fairly expect the members of our Federal Senate to be scrupulously respectful of the rights of the citizen? Because a party officer has, by his deportment, become a proper subject of senatorial inquiry, is it now to be the custom that the corresponding officer of another party shall also be placed on the stand?

MORALITY: TWO KINDS.

The difference between morality which centers within the individual and the kind imposed from without, a distinction which is becoming increasingly more apparent on the American scene, was clearly drawn by a veteran Circuit Judge and a high school principal the other night at a men's club dinner in Collinsville. Said Judge Bernreuter of Nashville, Ill.: "Watch out for the insidious doctrine of evolution. If you aren't careful high school teachers will drop its poison among your children. Don't allow them to do it, for it undermines religion. If you find a teacher who is an atheist, don't rest until the School Board has discharged him. If atheists can keep the story of Moses out of the schools you have a right to keep the monkey out."

Principal J. F. Snodgrass of the Collinsville Township High School, who spoke after the Judge, sees things in a different light. "We have nothing to fear from evolution," he said. "No harm can come from teaching boys and girls that the life they see about them is the result of an orderly progression planned by a master mind. Evolution and atheism aren't hindering the cause of religion like the hypocrisy of men and women who preach one thing and live another. What we need to pay attention to is the living of forthright, honest lives for our children."

We are pleased to applaud the school principal. The morality he describes centers within and makes men and women lead better lives. It is the kind which causes the individual to live by his conscience though the heavens fall.

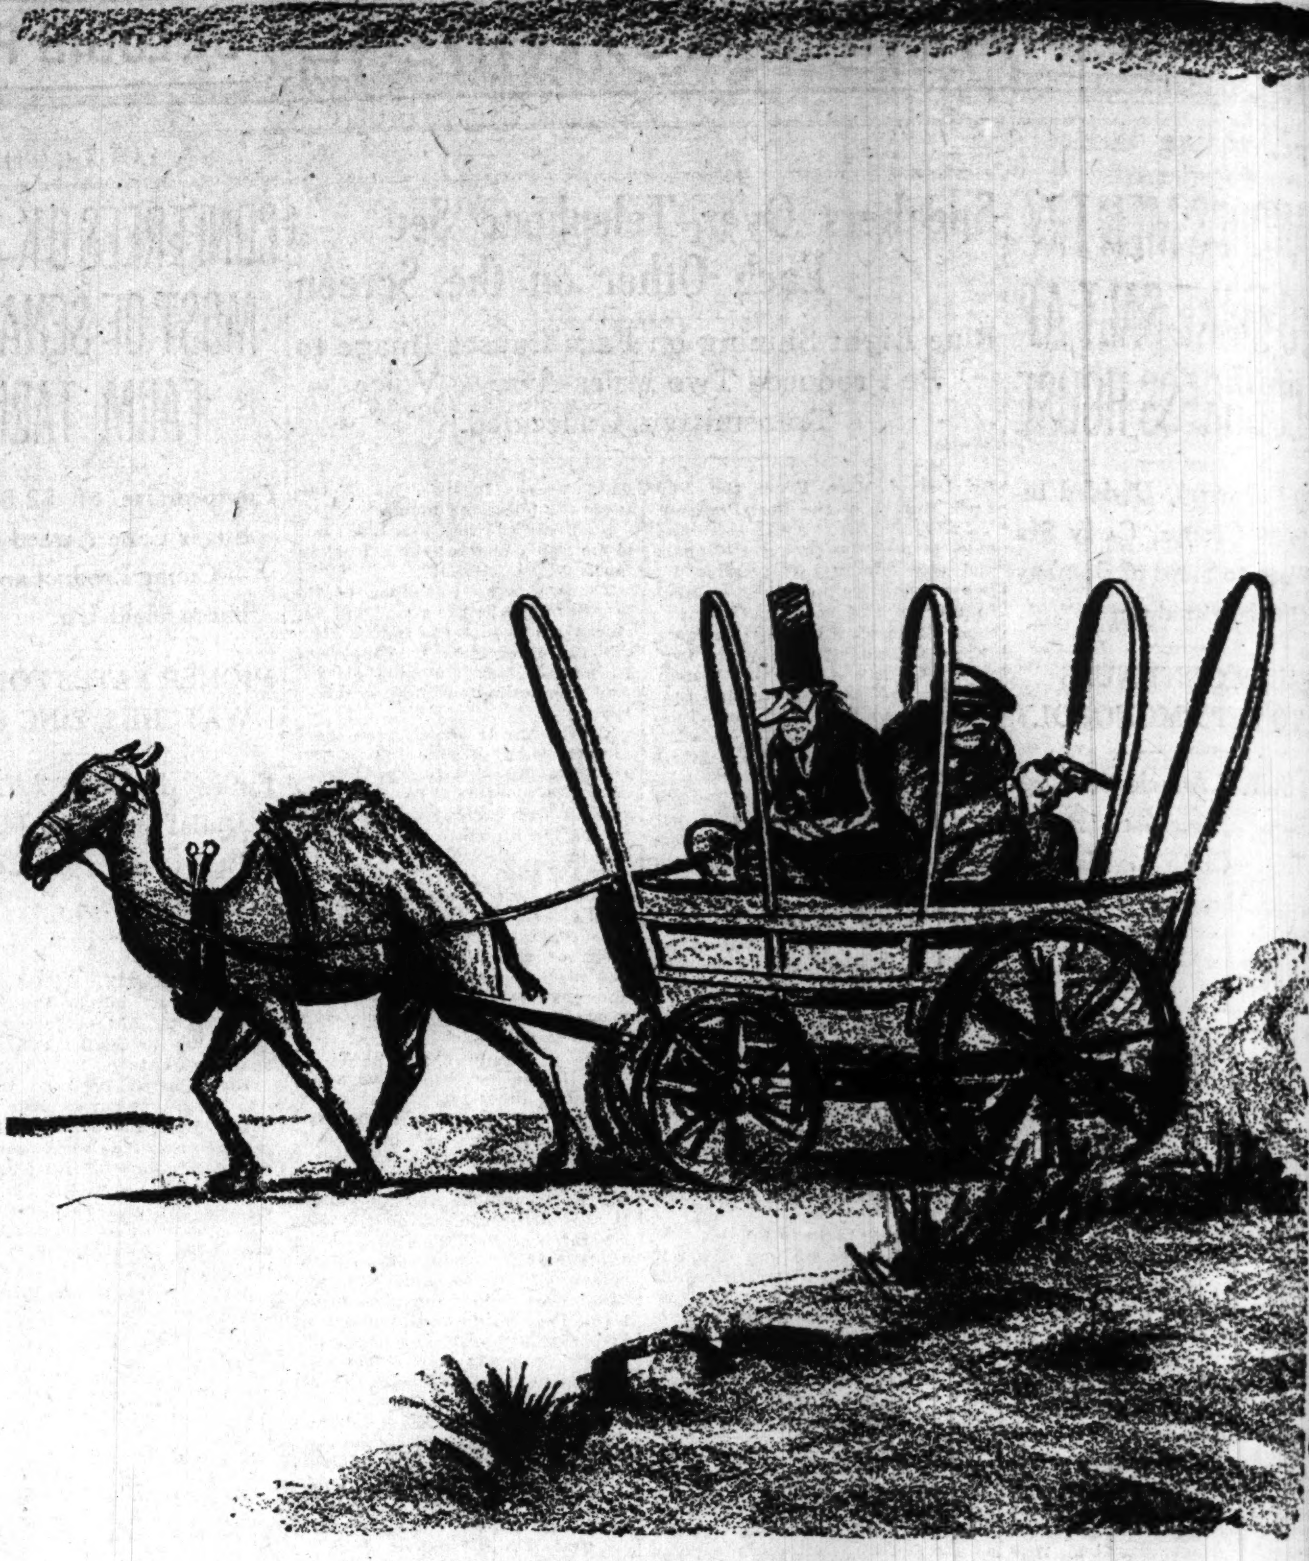
MORMONISM'S CENTENNIAL.

This is the centennial week of a religious sect, founded in America, which has written a broader page than most in the secular history of our country. The Mormons, or Latter Day Saints, formed their organization just 100 years ago at Fayette, N. Y., basing their faith on the "Book of Mormon," said to have been revealed by an angel to the founder, Joseph Smith. The truism that religion thrives on persecution was never better exemplified than in the Mormons. Driven from New York to Ohio, thence to Jackson County, Mo., eastward again to Nauvoo, Ill., and finally beyond the country's Western frontier, they endured hardships everywhere and steadily increased their following.

After a mob had killed Joseph Smith at Carthage, Ill., that picturesque figure, Brigham Young, became leader. The migration of the Mormons by wagon train from Illinois to Utah is one of the West's extraordinary episodes. They crossed the Mississippi on the ice, they sowed crops in Iowa for the parties that were to follow, they trekked endlessly on across the Great Plains with plows, implements and seed. The first party of 143 men, three women and two children reached Salt Lake Valley and Brigham Young, like some prophet of the Old Testament, said oracularly: "This is the place." Here the State of Utah had its birth, for the labor of the Saints made the desert bloom.

Young found it more politic to feed the Indians than to fight them, he taught his people that it was better to farm than to seek gold, and the colony prospered. Plural marriage, an exotic growth in the Western world, for many years barred popular tolerance of the Mormons. Finally abolished by both the Federal Government and the sect's leaders, prejudices began to disappear and the whisperings died away.

Today the Mormons number more than 600,000, largely concentrated in Utah and adjacent states. A century has seen the Mormons grow from a handful of devotees in Joseph Smith's parlor to become builders of an industrious commonwealth and founders of a prosperous and stable church.



THE UNCOVERED WAGON.

Give the Jury System a Chance

Criticism of legal practices now centered on jury system, largely because of unpopular verdicts in celebrated cases; method never has had fair chance, however; long list of exempted callings relieves many able men of service; abolition of privileges urged; more efficient handling of panels and support of lawyers also needed.

Morris L. Ernst in Plain Talk.

DURING the last decade severe public criticism has been directed at the Judges and the lawyers. The former are immune from much of the desired attack because they hold in their hands the stinging whip of "contempt" whose lash can drive the critics into jail. On the other hand, members of the legal profession are protected by well-organized trade unions called bar associations.

But the lawyers and the Judges can breathe easily for the moment. The public is shifting its assault to the juries and the jury system. To analyze the defects of legal procedure or the rulings of courts is difficult. But anyone can be dead sure of his judgment as to the correctness of the verdict of the 12 good men and true who sit in the jury box.

Public opinion on such matters derives from isolated and dramatic trials. In the Remus case the jury excused a man who was held insane—we thought him sane. In the Miller-Daugherty case, Miller was found guilty and Daugherty innocent, though both were wrapped up in the same mess. In the Sinclair and Doheny cases, the juries disagreed with the Supreme Court of the United States.

All these cases were tried under the spotlight, and it is fair to assume that the public processes of justice reach their highest peaks of efficiency when the public is watching every move. We have not even the alibi that these contests were tried in arenas of hick districts. The city of disgrace in each case was a large, sophisticated center of population.

The result of this definite public opinion is most distressing. We hear from all quarters appeals to abolish the jury system. Judges are placed on high pedestals. Let's have done with jurors!

This is all nonsense because it presumably rests on the hypothesis that we have given the jury system a fair trial. As a matter of fact, the jury system has not been in use in large cities for decades. We have been playing along with a distorted, corrupt, stupid political camouflage for trial of the facts by 12 men of the community.

Practically every community has been induced by undue and illegitimate pressure to grant exemptions from jury service to large classes of the community. In New York State, all horse doctors, other doctors, ministers, members of volunteer fire departments and most of the civil service employes are exempt from service. If we had endeavored to devise an abortive jury system we could not have done better. Special legislation has been enacted to relieve persons in "glass, cotton, woolen or iron manufacturing" businesses. No doubt the spaghetti dealers, anchor makers and southpaw pitchers will develop enough industrial pride to be placed in the favored class.

But that's not all. The power of the press is such that its reporters, artists and editorial writers are deemed indispensable by the newspapers and thus are freed from service. With quiet joy we read the leading editorials of newspapers decrying the caliber of jurors, while the writers of these scripts sit in their towers of immunity.

The entire list spells privilege, not science. Each exemption, each privilege of nonservice, limits the available supply.

The administrative features of jury service are so stupid and wasteful that every intelligent person has a distaste for it. Most men of wealth or political influence have their names taken off the list or, if called, invoke some "pull" to be excused. The ordinary run of man would not go to any great extreme to avoid jury duty if he felt he were rendering a proportionate service. But not unnaturally he rebels against sitting for hours on end waiting to be called.

The jury system itself has not been given a fair trial. In New York County, for example, of the adult population of nearly 1,000,000, only 6 per cent are called as jurors and only 2 per cent actually serve. As a result we have repeaters, professional jurors, unemployed and an entire absence of those so-called better elements in the community that are the first to point out the inefficacy of the jury system.

Surprisingly enough, the solutions are simple. We should re-examine the exempt and privileged classes. The minister may have overcome his former partialities; the volunteer fireman may visit so few conflagrations that he should now be called upon for jury work; even those thousands who have wheedled the legislatures to give them relief should be put back with the rest of us common folk.

To abolish these privileges will widen the type of jurors, get us nearer to the average voter. The next step might be to look into the method prescribed for the preparation of the jury lists. In New York two panels are prepared, "voters" and "nonvoters," and by mandate of law the "nonvoters" must first be drawn. Here there is a direct insult to all citizenship—an admission of public Bolshevism. The only conclusion to be drawn from such a practice is that jury service is a penalty for "not voting."

And finally, in the large centers we might consider central jury rooms to avoid the terrible waste of time that at present is so objectionable to every decent citizen called.

All this is simple and the reader will ask why nothing has been done about it. The answer is lethargy. The bar associations have been addressed along these lines. Feeble, faint murmurs of interest have trickled from individual members, but the Big Guns—the bosses of the profession—have their own businesses to run. In addition, the lawyers are bred on precedent and a new idea comes with the shock of Bolshevism or is answered by examination not of the merits of the claim but of the background of the proposer.

Until the jury system is re-examined and revamped it is fair to say it has not been tried out. Until it is given a fair trial, until the people of the community are all conscripted for the service, until we discard the present decimated, intellectually corrupt system, all pleas for trial by Judges alone should be rejected.

"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

One of the Great Stories

XENOPHON, SOLDIER OF FORTUNE. By Leo V. Jacks. (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. $2).

TO GIVE an adequate account of Xenophon's life is to tell one of the greatest stories in the annals of the Indo-European peoples. This is not an exaggeration, as it might seem to be at first glance. The fact is due not so much to the personal greatness of Xenophon, but rather to the times in which he lived and his eagerness for adventure in both the mental and physical realms.

One who sets out to tell Xenophon's story is obliged to consider in a great measure the life of his old friend, Socrates—and after 25 centuries that is one of the most precious stories in the world. In addition to this, the story of Xenophon includes the all but incredible adventure of those 10,000 young Greeks who marched against ancient Babylon with the younger Cyrus, won a terrific battle by their valor on the plain of Cunaxa, lost the fruits of their victory through the defection of their allies, their leader through the treachery of their foes, and with Xenophon at their head set forth upon what is conceded to have been one of the most remarkable retreats in military history.

It seems clear that Mr. Jacks decided to tell this story first of all because it meant very much to him. Nowhere in the book is a self-conscious "literary" mood to be felt. The author seems to have had no thought of making an "artistic" impression upon the reader. His language is as direct and unadorned as that which Xenophon himself employed in the "Anabasis." He seems to have been lost in his story—so much so that his language is often of the campfire sort, and the more intense the interest in the yarn, the more colloquial is the languages used.

The book is divided into three sections, corresponding to the three widely different phases of Xenophon's career. First is the life in Athens of the golden age, the time of scholarly interests when, as boy and man, Xenophon sat at the feet of Socrates. This portion of the biography might well have been enlarged to include more about the famous Athenians of the day and especially much more about Socrates. But it is clear, as the title of the book suggests, that Mr. Jacks is more deeply interested in the military than in the mental adventures of his subject.

There is little or no fault to find with the second section, which deals with the Babylonian adventure, the long running fight with the barbarian tribes and the blizzards of the Armenian mountains, the reaching of the Black Sea after unsurpassed hardships and heroisms, the long trek homeward, the later fighting in the Asiatic wars.

The last section concerns Xenophon in retirement, educating his children, the fruit of a late marriage, remembering in writing his "Anabasis," the adventures of his youth, setting down for remote posterity in his "Memorabilia" the doings and sayings of his dead friend, Socrates.

It is to be hoped that this life of Xenophon may serve to send an occasional reader to the "Memorabilia" and the "Anabasis," which seem to be little read at present. Perhaps many who have neglected to read them are under the more or less vague impression that they are dull. Let them try, and enjoy a fine surprise. Happily, both are easy to procure in excellent translations.

Chotzinoff traces four influences in the life of the musician—the cultural interest of Madame von Bruening when Beethoven was a boy at Bonn; his passion for the Immortal Beloved at a time when he was the proud dictator at Vienna; his deafness which was a peculiar element of his genius; his love for a nephew, Carl, on whom he lavished a starved affection.

A WORLD COMMUNITY. By John Herman Randall. (Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York. $2.50.)

This is the initial volume in the World Unit Library, a series of works on present-day social and economic problems. "A World Community" is intended to serve as an introduction to the series. Here Mr. Randall deals with the forces at work in bringing about a world-consciousness, the obstacles in the way of world unity and the possibilities for world peace or the ruin of civilization that he sees in twentieth century conditions.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 10.

ONCE an aristocratic driveway connecting Central Park with Riverside drive, West Seventy-second street has become publicized as The Street of Scandals. Fifteen years ago it sheltered the Nathan Strauses, the Huylers, the Dunlaps and others of wealth, known for their philanthropies.

While here and there it retains touches of former opulence, the character of its four-block length has greatly changed. Among its fading glories the fashionable Dakota apartment house remains—the only one in town with an expansive sweep of lawn and a tunneled arcade of private shops underneath.

Innumerable brown stone fronts and grilled mansions have been torn away to make room for towering and ornate apartment hotels. Seven have arisen in one block in four years. Table d'hote cafes, quick lunches, beauty salons, tea rooms and such are in profusion.

One apartment building on West Seventy-second street — which changed its name since the murder—was owned by the late Arnold Rothstein and was his home before the assassin's bullet laid him low. Another apartment house was the scene of the Frank Tinney-Imogene Wilson episode, which spread the first pages.

E. W. Browning, the gray-haired millionaire Romeo, had his real estate offices on Seventy-second and lived there during the exciting tabloid exposures of his various marital difficulties with the now famous "Peaches." Browning owns several buildings along the strip.

A private house on the thoroughfare is reputed the location of one of the most select from beer to cointreau speak-easies in all the town. Not even the bona-fide "members" are permitted to pass through its portals unless in formal dress.

DRUG addicts, driven to desperation by craving, often execute what the underworld calls "wing dings." That is, they simulate epileptic seizures along the street in hope that arriving ambulance doctors will administer hypodermic injections as first aid. Some of the "wing ding" artists are able to portray pain so convincingly they fool experts.

THE late Harry Tammen, newspaper publisher and circus man of Denver, and not Texas Guinan, invented the salutation "Hello Sucker." Tammen was greeting cronies in this fashion long before New York had a night club.

MARY DERIEUX, one of the best known woman fiction editors, has resigned a magazine post to write. Miss Derieux won unusual distinction in the editing field as an expert "blue penciller." She could cut fiction to suit any space requirement without sacrificing its rhythm.

THOSE pale piano pounders who sat all day cross-legged and with a drooping cigarette sagging from a corner of the mouth have almost been mechanized out of existence in the cubicle song sheet shops dotting Broadway. The radio now squawks the sidewalk ballyhoo.

SONG plugging, too, is dying of slow strangulation. The talkie is blamed. Big song hits are now talkie theme songs, and when they are released all over the land do their own plugging.

"IT OCCURS to me," writes R. D. S., "that you column lads are afflicted with an egoistic malady that breaks out in rash of I's. After reading so many of you for so long I am unable to talk about anybody but myself. What do you take for it?"

What are you offering?

800 VATICAN CITY TELEPHONES

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, April 10.—The Pope's small state of 500 inhabitants soon will have what is probably the greatest proportion of telephones to population in the world. With the installation of a new system there will be 800 numbers, of which 600 will shortly be in use.

Pope Pius' personal telephone will be of massive gold, bearing the pontifical seal and ornamented with mother-of-pearl. He will be able to telephone anywhere without his call passing through the exchange.

neen and Grundy precipitated prompt action. Both Deneen and Grundy have been loyal members of the Senate Old Guard, and the committee's prompt response to their appeals seemed to indicate a fraternal desire on the part of their colleagues to help them out. With Deneen already defeated, and Grundy apparently facing almost certain defeat, both are in desperate straits.

It has been an open secret in Washington for weeks that Senator Deneen, anticipating defeat in the primary, was planning a course of reprisal. Not only is he reported to have refused to accept large campaign contributions, but he was extremely penurious in his campaign expenditures, and has kept the most meticulous record of them. At the same time, his supporters charged that approximately $1,000,000 was spent to nominate Mrs. McCormick.

Large expenditures in the Pennsylvania campaign have been accepted as inevitable. Both Grundy and Davis are multi-millionaires, and Grundy has the support of the Mellon organization, while Davis is supported by the Vare machine in Philadelphia. In the 1926 struggle between the two organizations, a Senate investigation disclosed that more than $3,000,000 had been spent. Grundy himself raising more than $250,000 for the election of Gov. Fisher, who subsequently appointed Grundy to a seat in the Senate.

Before the committee yesterday Grundy denounced his opposition, particularly W. W. Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad, so violently that Chairman Shortridge admonished him to modify his language. Observers seemed considerably entertained by the spectacle of "Old Joe" denouncing political corruption in Pennsylvania, especially when they recalled his famous remarks on the "backward states" of the West and South.

The Norris resolution, as reported, provides for the appointment of a special committee of five Senators, none of whom shall be a candidate himself. It would authorize a full investigation of expenditures and campaign methods, and would require a report to the Senate at the opening of Congress in December.

More London-Paris Airliners.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 10.—The London Daily Mail says that eight air liners, each capable of carrying 40 passengers besides the crew, are being built for the London-Paris service by the Handley-Page Co. The planes are to embody all the latest inventions, including means of silencing the engines and propellers. Each will have four motors and a speed exceeding 100 miles an hour.

Sultan's Heirs Lose in France.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 9.—Sulnat Abdul Hamid's 70 descendants who have been seeking restitution in Great Britain, France, Italy and Greece of the Sultan's private property estimated at $500,000,000 have lost so far as their claims against France are concerned. The Turco-French tribunal here declared itself incompetent to handle the case.

Half Sick for Days!

Excess Acid is Poisoning Your System

Excess acid is a menace to health. It curdles the food we eat into insoluble lumps, forms gas in the stomach and intestines; attacks the delicate linings of the digestive organs, makes them inflamed, and often, if allowed to go uncorrected, produces constipation, ulcers, chronic indigestion and other serious disorders.

You can correct stomach distress almost at once. The surest and quickest way is Milnesia Wafers—which are pure milk of magnesia in a pleasantly flavored wafer. By chewing Milnesia Wafers or allowing them to dissolve in the mouth the moment symptoms appear, a fine alkaline film is at once deposited over the mouth, stomach and intestinal linings, correcting and protecting them from acid attack. Excess acids are immediately neutralized.

Thousands of physicians and dentists are daily recommending Milnesia Wafers in preference to the old-fashioned liquid form of milk of magnesia, because they are more effective, more convenient and less expensive.

Milnesia Wafers are also rapidly taking the place of obsolete stomach remedies such as soda, indigestion powders and dyspepsia tablets.

Ask your druggist today for the home package of Milnesia at 60c and 35c or the convenient "carry" package for vest pocket or purse at 20c.

MILNESIA WAFERS
(Milk of Magnesia Wafers)

NOTE TO USERS OF LIQUID MAGNESIA: We guarantee each Milnesia Wafer to contain magnesium hydroxide corresponding to one tablespoonful of U. S. P. (U. S. Pharmacopoeia) Milk of Magnesia. It is the only tablet containing the genuine hydroxide of magnesia. Try pleasant-tasting Milnesia Wafers just once and you will never go back to the old-fashioned liquid with its chalky taste. Your druggist will gladly refund your money if you are not entirely satisfied.

5 Days after Feeding
. . . the grass needed cutting!

DO YOU KNOW why so many lawns look scraggly, thin and patchy? It's because the tiny grass roots are starved—hungry! Remember, grass is a living thing—you must feed it, if you expect it to grow strong and healthy. And how it will reward you for your kindness!

Just try it—and see. Feed your lawn now with Lōma, and, in a week or ten days, the results will amaze you. Your grass will be high and thick and green.

The picture tells the story of what Lōma does. It shows the lawn of Mrs. Lloyd P. Hepburn, Philipse Manor, N. Y., five days after Lōma was applied. "Actually, in less than a week's time, there was a marked difference in the thickness and growth of the grass on the Lōma-treated section," says Mrs. Hepburn. "Ordinarily, the grass wouldn't need cutting for 10 days. But at the end of the fifth day the grass on the Lōma-fed section was ready to be mowed. The Lōma-fed grass, too, was very rich in color, a fine, vivid green."

Make this test. Put Lōma on half your lawn. Wet it down thoroughly. After 10 days you will be amazed at the difference between the fed and unfed parts.

Lōma is quick-acting

Lōma produces the same amazing results on plants and vegetables as it does on lawns. For it is a complete plant food, a scientific diet for plants. It supplies the roots with nourishment that stimulates rapid, sturdy growth. They take it up at once. You don't have to wait and wait to see the benefits. Your flowers will bloom earlier—be bigger and brighter. Your grass will be thicker and hardier. And your vegetable crop will surprise you and delight you.

This week-end would be a good time to try Lōma on your own lawn. Apply to just half of it, if you like. Water it down well. In about ten days, when you see the results, you will, immediately, decide to put Lōma on the rest of it.

On sale at all stores that sell lawn, garden and florists' supplies. In six sizes—from one-hundred-pound sacks down to one-pound cartons for potted plants. Tennessee Copper & Chemical Corporation, 61 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

KOSHER BUTCHERS SEEK WRIT AGAINST BOYCOTT

Market Proprietor Would Enjoin Citizens' Committee of Orthodox Jews.

A suit to enjoin a citizens' committee of orthodox Jews, known as the Vaad Hoeir, from boycotting the Spasser Kosher Market, 932 North Fourteenth street, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by its proprietor, Abraham Spasser, and Benjamin Rosenfeld and Abraham Bernstein, described as schaechters or ritualistic butchers employed by the market.

It is alleged the citizens' committee exercise a monopoly on the ceremonial of slaying kosher beef in this city and that as a result Jews are required to pay approximately $150,000 a year in fees.

Defendant snamed in the petition are the Jewish Record of St. Louis and its owner, Leon Gellman; the Vaad Hoeir Corporation, Louis Goodman, Harry W. Hoffman, Barnett Gordon, Mike Novak, Noah W. Saltz and Frank Lipman, identified as officers and directors of the corporation; Rabbi S. Klibansky, Rabbi A. B. Doldeson, Nathan Olshansky, I. Fink, J. L. Mendelson, Aaron Moses and L. Fisher, referred to as schaechters.

The suit charges that defendants select certain schaechters to the exclusion of others and that the organization has fixed an arbitrary charge of 2 cents a pound on all kosher meat killed for use here. It is further alleged that by the time the meat reaches the consumer, who absorbs the levy, it has been increased to as high as 6 cents a pound in excess of the ordinary price.

The petitioners aver that they refused to pay the two-cent charge to the committee and as a result defendants caused Rabbis Golderson and Klibansky to issue a proclamation which "falsely accused Rosenfeld and Bernstein of not being authorized schaechters, so that the meat slaughtered by them is unceremoniously unclean according to Jewish laws." The proclamation, the petition states, was published in the Jewish Record April 5 and circulars and handbills containing the same announcement also were issued. The plaintiffs claim that these statements and the alleged boycott have damaged their business $25,000.

Louis Goodman, president of the Vaad Hoeir, denied the organization made any profits. He declared that all fees received were used in paying salaries of various schachters, rabbis and others employed. He declared the organization received a fee of one-half cent a pound, which was just sufficient to cover expenses. Other allegations in the petition, he said, were without foundation. A similar suit against the Vaad Heir about three years ago was decided in its favor, Goodman declared.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS BEAT ADULTS IN HISTORY TEST

Shaw's Garden, the Zoo in Forest Park and the Municipal Opera have carried the name of St. Louis farther than any other St. Louis institution, McCune Gill, authority on the old French and Spanish village, said yesterday in a history examination, broadcast by KMOX, to which four adults were challenged by four high school students.

The students had become interested through an essay contest sponsored by the Industrial Club and St. Louis News Service, and they won the decision by R. Fullerton Place. They were Ralph Johnson of Beaumont, Robert Ecoff of Central, Hermione Hamel and Robert Mueller of Roosevelt. The adults were Gill, Casper S. Yost, Eugene D. Nims and Miss Stella Drumm of Missouri Historical Society.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS AFRAID TO VISIT BOOTLEGGERS' ISLES

Supervisor Offers Them Double Pay to Make Count on Island in Mississippi.

By the Associated Press.

MARTIN, Tenn., April 10.—Census enumerators in Tipton County who know that strange lights which flicker on the little islands in the Mississippi River near here may be liquor runners' signals will be pleased to tell any interested parties why they are afraid to count the inhabitants.

None of the enumerators cares to be quoted on why it would be dangerous for a Federal employe to visit the islands on such a mission, but folks in these parts know that whisky was made on the islands before prohibition and "there are men on those islands who had rather not be questioned."

M. H. Biggs, census supervisor, has been unable to find a single one of his 135 enumerators who would take the assignment. He offered double pay and boat fare to the islands. There were no volunteers so he will appeal to census officials at Washington. There are about 1000 persons on the little islands off Tipton County.

When you have a very young son and heir most every day is wash day; but wash day need not be the bugbear it has been heretofor. What if Junior's rompers are always dirty, and all baby's clothes must be done too... put them in the Whirldry and forget them.

The stubborn spots and ground-in grime need no rubbing... this little machine cleanses them like magic... and more gently than you could yourself. It rinses thoroughly... you know how hard that is ...and spins the clothes around till the heavy drops of moisture are forced out and you can hang everything up for a few minutes before ironing.

And the kitchen doesn't have that Monday morning look... for Whirldry fits in any corner where you might put a wastebasket... all of which counts in the modern kitchen. And its dainty colors will harmonize with your decorations.

Can you really afford to be without this small but efficient helper ... especially when it now costs only $49.50? (formerly $64.50). Don't scrub your youth and disposition away ... get a Whirldry.

LIBERAL CREDIT TERMS

TWO GET 3 YEARS AND $5000 FINE UNDER JONES LAW

In sentencing two confessed violators of the Jones law to three years in the penitentiary and fining them $5000 apiece today, Federal Judge Davis assessed the heaviest punishments that have been imposed against liquor law violators in this district since prohibition became effective 10 years ago.

In so doing he indicated a policy of distinguishing between bootleggers, as casual violators of the law, and moonshiners as persistent violators on a large scale, by imposing heavier punishments on the latter in accordance with his interpretation of the amendment.

Recently Davis has sentenced bootleggers to from 60 to 90 days in jail and fining them $250 to $500. The maximum penalty under the Jones law is imprisonment of five years or fine of $10,000 or both.

The two men, who pleaded guilty of manufacturing whisky on the old O'Fallon farm, Manchester and Barrett Station roads, St. Louis County, are Gus Vitale, 1428 North Seventh street, and Joe Bementi, 3492 Greer avenue. They were arrested Dec. 26 after Federal prohibition agents had found a 300-gallon still in operation on the farm. Federal agents had destroyed a still in the farmhouse Dec. 14 when they raided the place but found no one present.

Sam and Vito Ventimiglia of 1010 North Ninth street, arrested with the others, were discharged when it was stated they were merely employes.

JULIUS BARNES SUGGESTS WAY TO RELIEVE UNEMPLOYMENT

NEW YORK, April 10.—Expansion of industry's facilities to provide employment and improvement of the function of distribution were two methods suggested last night by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's National Business Survey conference, for attacking the unemployment problem.

Barnes spoke at a meeting of industrial and other leaders. He said seasonal unemployment could not be eliminated entirely, while technological unemployment was growing.

He attributed the unemployment situation to the recent stock market crash, which he described as a "tremendous shock to the industrial and phychological forces of the nation." This "shock," he said, "cost the country $20,000,000,000."

Choosing a Bank

IN CHOOSING a bank, one should bear in mind that there is a degree of permanence about such a relationship that makes it quite different from selecting a store or a brand of merchandise. Therefore, it is important to choose wisely at the outset, bearing in mind such elements as—

SIZE—An institution the size of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company is large enough to take care of the requirements of any customer, yet not so large that the advantage of personal acquaintance with the executive officers is impractical.

AGE—There is a distinct advantage, as well as prestige, in doing business with a firmly established institution. The antecedents of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company extend back seventy-five years.

BREADTH—There is no phase of sound financial service that is not available at the Mississippi Valley Trust Company. In addition, well organized trust, real estate, and safe deposit departments are maintained. The Mississippi Valley Company, a subsidiary, offers complete facilities to investors.

PERSONNEL—The official staff of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company is made up of men who are expert in their various lines of work. The benefit of their experience is available to customers.

On these merits, the Mississippi Valley Trust Company invites conferences with business men and organizations considering new or additional banking connections.

DEAL BOLSTERS STREET'S INNER DEFENSE; GRIMES IS ALSO SOUGHT

Walter Roettger of the Cardinals, who for a few shining months in 1928 looked like one of the greatest outfield prospects in baseball, today was traded to the New York Giants for Outfielder George Fisher and Infielder Eddie Farrell. Whether cash was consideration in the deal President Sam Breadon, who made the announcement, declined to state.

"We needed infield replacements," Breadon commented on the deal, "and Manager Street thought it best to sacrifice Roettger rather than to open the season insufficiently guarded on the inner defense. Farrell, who is the principal figure in the deal for us, will fill in splendidy at shortstop or second and is one of the great defensive players of the game."

President Breadon said the deal had no connection with the club's effort to obtain Pitcher Grimes, which was reported in a press service dispatch today.

Would Like to Get Grimes.

"We need the infield strength and that's why we made the trade. As for obtaining Grimes, of course I would like to get Grimes. As soon as I learned that he might be in the market I talked to McKechnie and made him a proposition. We got absolutely nowhere so far."

Cincinnati and other clubs were reported to be after Grimes, who was traded to the Boston Braves by Pittsburg, yesterday.

This will be Farrell's fifth season in baseball. He joined the Giants in 1926 just after graduating from the University of Pennsylvania. He played in 67 games that year and the next season he had a big year with the Giants and with Boston, after June, when he was traded to the Braves with Greenfield and McMillan in return for Benton, Thomas and Taylor. Farrell had a great year in the field and batted .316.

He fell off in his playing for Boston in 1928 and in 1929 he was traded back to New York for Welsh. His batting average for 1929 was only .210. Farrell is 28 years old and bats and throws right-handed.

Outfielder Fisher was with the Buffalo club last year and is 28 years old. Last season Fisher played in 150 games and his record indicates he was a real slugger. In compiling a batting average of .336, he made 192 safe hits for 352 bases. He had 36 home runs, being second in the league in circuit clouts. He chashed 12 triples and 28 two baggers. He batted in 124 runs, and the pitchers' respect for his batting ability is indicated in the fact that he drew 74 bases on balls. On the other hand, he struck out 71 times. He scored 119 runs.

Fisher Also Good Fielder.

Fielding records also give Fisher favorable support. He had 267 putouts, 25 assists and took part in six double plays, finishing with a defensive mark of .977.

The trading of Roettger can be attributed in part to the falling off in his work following a broken leg which he suffered in July 1928, at the height of a splendid season. Roettger joined the club in 1927 from Houston, Tex., and played five games that year. The next season he won a regular berth and played in 68 games before he was injured. He had a batting average of .341 for that period. Then came his mishap and he was out of the game for many months. Last year he played 79 games for the Cardinals but did not regain the brilliant form he showed in 1928, hitting only .262.

He was improving his hitting this spring in practice. He is also 28 years of age, and is still regarded as a fine prospect.

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 10.—Gabby Street and his Cardinals are through with their spring training and it is fitting and proper to make a final analysis of the team and its chances in the pennant race, which will open April 15 with the Red Birds meeting the league champion Cubs at Sportsman's Park.

There is a great divergence of opinion among baseball writers as to the strength of the Cardinals. A few of the New York experts, after stating in January that the Red Birds would have trouble staying as high as fourth, now have switched, after seeing the team in spring exhibition games, and have predicted that the team will make a strong bid for the title. Others see the Cardinals as a broken-down machine, its pitchers worn out and with no replacements likely to stand out.

Recently the Red Birds played the Tampa Smokers and Chick Hafey hit three home runs and Bill Hallahan and Fred Frankhouse, hurling like champions, allowed only three hits. That looked like a pretty good performance, but the Tampa experts, who had seen several big-league machines this spring, declared in their columns that the Cardinals would finish seventh, and that only the Braves would prevent Street's team from occupying the National League cellar.

Team Has Possibilities.

Those are cruel words, of course, and as foolish as they are cruel. True, the pitching staff may disappoint everybody, and in that case anything could happen. But it is difficult to see how the hurling corps, numerically strong as it is and with such potentialities, can go to the demnition bowwows.

Street's team, as it appears to this writer, after more than a month of observation in the South, has the following points of strength and weakness:

STRENGTH.

Better than fair attacking power.

Better than fair defense, when regulars are in the field.

Unusually strong at second base, if Frisch plays there.

Improved at third, if Frisch is shifted.

New manager, the best since Rogers Hornsby, who commands respect of his men and is aggressive and a tireless worker.

WEAKNESS.

Pitchers who are expected to furnish added strength needed because of departure of Alexander and slump of Sherdel, have NOT YET PROVED themselves through a full campaign.

Manager Street considers his team good enough to win a pennant if it gets the pitching and as far as the reserve strength is concerned the loss of Frisch or Gelbert or Bottomley would ruin any team's pennant chances, regardless of reserves. And it rarely happens that two infielders are put out of commission at the same time.

Gabby Street Expects Johnson and Haines to Prove Consistent Winners

Street, as has been told before, thinks that everything depends on his pitching. He says he has two sure starters and consistent winners in Jess Haines and Sylvester Johnson. They have shown what they can do. Gabby figured he would have three until Sherdel failed to pitch up to expected form and he may still have confidence in Bill's ability to beat back to the ranks of winners. Then Street thinks Bill Hallahan is a cinch.

Out of the other members of the hurling squad, Gabby thinks he surely will find one more regular starter. If Sherdel comes back, that will mean Haines, Johnson, Hallahan, Sherdel and one other as starters.

The field from which the extra starter must come includes Flint Rhem, Al Grabowski, Fred Frankhouse, Jim Lindsey, Carmen Hill and Herman Bell. Clarence Mitchell will be started regularly, but not more than once a week. Harold Haid will be a relief pitcher and Street expects Andy Mesesenger to shine in the rescue role.

Lindsey Has Disappointed.

Lindsey hasn't shown much this spring, but don't quit on him just yet. He had an appendicitis operation last fall and he always has been slow to strike his stride. Rarely has he started to win until several weeks after the opening of the season, but in the leagues in which he has served he always has been in at least 40 games a year. He is big and strong and when he does strike his stride he can work frequently.

Most doubtful: Carmen Hill.

If Rhem, Hallahan and Grabowski should come through and win 15 games each the Cardinals would figure to win the penant.

There is a fine chance that Frankhouse will deliver if one of the three should fail to hurl up to expectations.

If Sherdel could find what caused his trouble and become a winner again, Street could cut three pitchers off his staff and still have an excellent corps.

If Sherdel, Hallahan, Grabowski and Rhem prove flivvers, the Cardinals will have a fight on their hands to stay as high as fifth.

There has been a tendency in many quarters to concede the pennant to the Cubs without question. Joe McCarthy may have his troubles. He needs all his slugging power, and if something should happen to put Hornsby or Cuyler or Wilson or Stephenson on the bench the Cubs wouldn't have such a master ball club. And remember that Hornsby will be playing his sixteenth year in the National League.

Outside of Chicago the competition will not be so hot. John McGraw has to develop a second baseman and better pitching before the Giants can be regarded as dangerous flag contenders. Pittsburg, with Lloyd Waner weakened by his appendicitis operation, and Burleigh Grimes gone, cannot be classed as better than the Cardinals. Burt Shotton has some great sluggers, but he still needs a pitching staff. Dan Howley at Cincinnati has improved a team which certainly needed improvement. Brooklyn and Boston won't be up there.

It looks like a two-club race for first place if the Cardinal pitchers deliver as Street expects them to. Don't complain about those "IFS," because you have to figure them. That's why they play 154 games and IF you win enough of them you get a chance in the world series.

Strict Enforcement of Rules Only Way to Put an End to Fouls in Boxing, Sharpe Says

By Harry S. Sharpe.

There has been almost an epidemic of low, foul punches throughout the country wherever professional boxing is given and it is necessary that drastic measures be taken to stop it. In my opinion, boxers should be held strictly responsible for foul punches, whether accidental or otherwise.

At this time it is well to mention that 20 or more years ago when a boxer fouled another by striking his opponent below the belt he was made to feel the disgrace of his performance—and it seldom occurred. Nowadays when a boxer hits another a low punch apologies are offered, and then in a few days or a week the offender has been matched and is boxing again. So long as this is allowed to continue these blotches upon the sport of boxing will disfigure the records.

SHARPE

It is my opinion there is not sufficient discipline maintained in the ring. Boxers should be obliged to observe the rules, and referees should be made to enforce them.

Should Avoid Foul Tactics.

In declaring for strict enforcement of the rule against low punching there should be taken into consideration procedure and consequences common to professional boxing. First, the boxer should make every effort to avoid foul tactics and if he approaches too close to the danger line and inflicts an injury in a manner not countenanced by the rules, he should be held responsible; second, if he disregards the right of an opponent to expect fair play he must take the consequences and pay a penalty for the infringement of that right.

As a professional boxer, and as one who has associated himself with this sport for more than 30 years, I know there are infringements of the rights referred to that are unseen and unknown to the uninitiated, and the most common one is that which results in low, foul punches. When boxers resort to low body punches (though considered fair because they are above the prescribed waistline) it is a method of intimidation; it is done to prevent an opponent from advancing or countering; it is a warning that if he comes in close he is going to be hurt, and in the most painful manner that injury can be inflicted upon a boxer. Some boxers, either not observing this subtle warning or disdaining such cowardly procedure, refuse to be forced backward or placed at a disadvantage in this manner, and continue to advance and place themselves within range and striking distance to receive the low punch—a punch that would not have been low had it not been leveled at the belt line. The boxer who deals out the low punch takes his chances, and, call it accident, indifference, carelessness, or what you like, he should be made to take the consequences of his misjudgment.

May Be Badly Injured.

Because at the present time there appears to be no strict enforcement of the rule against low punching, a boxer may be badly, painfully injured and, as a result, be obliged to cancel lucrative engagements; all he receives is pay for the bout in which he was injured, and the sympathy of persons who say they are sorry, but feel quite sure there was no one to blame for what happened; his opponent is exonerated, is paid, and likely will be re-engaged to appear again shortly afterwards.

This is not as it should be and, in my opinion, it can be stopped if commissions will insist that rules must be observed and must be enforced. When it is known to a certainty that if a boxer strikes a low punch (and he must be the one to guard against it) he will not be paid and that he will be suspended for such time as the facts may warrant, and that these things will appear in the contract he signs when making a match, then boxers will see to it that they land their punches high enough to avoid injury to an opponent by striking him low.

MARCILLAC AND MOULTON LEAD SIX-DAY BIKE RACE AFTER 64 HOURS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 10.—Marcillac and Mouton, one of eight French teams entered, held the lead in the six-day bicycle race today after 64 hours of pedalling while the American combination of Harry Horan, South Orange, N. J., and Tony Beckman, Secaucus, N. J., brought up the rear, seven laps behind

All of the 15 teams that began the grind were still in the race. The pace was slow, only 800 miles having been covered for an average of a little less than 13 miles an hour.

An Italian team, Girardengo and Linari, was in second place. The favorites, Wambst and Lacquehay of France, were three laps behind the leaders.

BUSHY GRAHAM STOPS SHAW IN ONE ROUND

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., April 10.—Bushy Graham, featherweight of Utica, N. Y., knocked out Billy Shaw, Detroit, in the first round of their 10-round bout here last night with a right to the chin. Graham rushed in at the start and nailed Shaw with a left hook to the midsection and followed this up with a punch to the head. Before Shaw had a chance to recover Graham drove his bruising right to the Detroiter's chin and the fight was over.

In the semi-windup, Jackie Stewart, Louisville featherweight, was disqualified in the third round of his six-round bout with Jackie Cress, Miami. Cress claimed a low blow incapacitated him. Stewart knocked Cress down for a count of nine in the opening stanza.

Customers will pay the freight.

As usual, Primo stopped the show and his opponent in the second round of what was advertised as a 10-round bout. Maybe the customers thought they were being short-changed.

However, fight customers have nothing on the baseball fans. That old booing complex will out.

Summer soccer, played in the ly evening hours, will become actuality here within 10 days a result of the organization of e St. Louis Amateur Twilight ccer League last night. The anagers of four clubs, the Acady A. C., Cook A. C., Dolan F. , and the German Sport Club t at Sherman Park Community nter and agreed to start play once. A championship schedule nning through nine weeks was roposed and will probably be lopted at the league's next eeting, Tuesday.

Sherman Park will be the scene the league's activity. Games ll be played on two evenings ch week, Tuesday and Thursday, y starting at 6:30 p. m. in the rly stage of the season and later the sundown hour grows later. Thomas W. "A Much Needed Step."

Barker was equally enthusiastic r the plan. The professional er league here is planning t soccer, he said.

One of the features of the new nization, which is composed of s made up of 17 and 19 year boys, is a league coaching staff ded by Oscar Mossmann, whose ching had so much to do with ing the Madison club into the ional cup final last year. NED O.

NED O		1st	2nd	3rd	Unp.	Won
	Campfire Flambee (Ajax)	6	2	1	6	$16,000

Owner: G. W. Foreman. Trainer: J. M. Collins.
Stakes: Won Walden Handicap at Pimlico.

THE word has gone around that "the stable is plunging" on Ned O to win the Kentucky Derby. It is a matter of record that Buck Foreman has invested as much as $7000 on the son of Campfire, and there is no way of telling how much more is scattered through the future books.

There must be good reason for this unusual faith of Trainer J. M. Collins and Owner Foreman and it is said the clockers have discovered the secret. Ned O has had some rather astonishing workouts.

One has 15 races from which to judge the merit of this colt. He has won six times, was second twice, third once and out of the money six times. His first two efforts, both at five-eighths, in June and July, seemed to give some indication that he did not like the sprint distance, and subsequently, in two races at a mile and a sixteenth, the manner in which he came from far out of it in the stretch proves that he can go a distance.

A fine illustration of how fast he comes in the stretch after going three-quarters or a full mile is the record of his race in the Endurance Handicap on Nov. 30 at Bowie. He got off very slowly in a field of 15 and he was last at the head of the stretch, just eight and one-quarter lengths behind the leader. When they reached the finish line he had passed up seven horses and he was only three and one-half lengths back of the winner, Snowflake. He did the same thing in the Walden Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth race at Pimlico a month before, coming from fifth at the stretch turn to win the race by a head from Fortunate Youth. The Kentucky Derby distance is a mile and a quarter.

Given early speed with which to shake loose from sluggish beginners and keep out of trouble, Ned O should be a great horse and it is said that he has developed this ability to break fast. A report from Bowie two days ago said that he had stepped five-eighths in 1:01 4-5. And the track was rated "slow."

Ned O.'s only stake victory was the Walden Handicap.

By Harry McKanna.

When Matros Kerilenko was a student at the University of St. Vladimir, Russia, where he says he matriculated, he may have mastered Greek from his textbooks, but he didn't master it on the hoof last night at the Coliseum and Jimmy Londos, son of sunny Greece, added another victim to his string.

After 54 minutes and 28 seconds of grappling, grimacing, running, slapping, et cetera, Londos pinned Matros' shoulders to the canvas mattress, with a flying mare and reverse headlock. The fall came after four successive headlocks on the Russian, which probably had him as dizzy as when he took his quiz on Plato at dear old St. Vladimir at least 15 years ago.

Roy Steele of Seattle didn't win and didn't lose his bout to Fred Grobmeier, the lanky boy from the "tall corn State," but he probably holds the Coliseum record for being thrown out of the ring. Grobmeier tossed his opponent out 19 times, besides trying it numerous other times only to have the ropes thwart his plans. Steele lost as far as throwing out of the ring counts. He only tossed Grobmeier out four times, besides draping him over the ropes once like a dish-rag.

Only Injured Party Is a Spectator.

The grapplers picked the heaviest populated sides of the ring to toss each other out. Steele once deposited Grobmeier on the lap of a State Senator and a local Judge, and in the scramble of the last two gentlemen to retain their dignity by getting away from the perspiring contestants, the Senator's glasses were broken, and he suffered a slight cut on his face.

As in their previous bouts, Grobmeier and Steele, through their rough milling, had the crowd on its feet. The two grappled one hour to a draw. The score in St. Louis now stands: Steele, one victory, one draw; Grobmeier, one defeat, one draw.

The bout was rougher than their previous meeting and Steele was just lifting himself off the Coliseum floor after being hurled out for the nineteenth time when the bell sounded ending the bout, or exhibition, as they now call mat events in New York. Steele looked the worse for the wear and tear of of the evening, but appearances sometimes are as deceiving.

Wrestling Results.

Joe Sanderson, St. Louis, threw Billy Scharbert, East St. Louis, with a body scissors in 15 minutes and 32 seconds.

Tragos Smears the Butter.

Jack Ross of Kansas City butted George Tragos of St. Louis 11 times in a row but didn't win. The Sonnenberg tactics seemingly aroused the grunting George and he pinned Ross to the mat with a body slam in 35 minutes and 49 seconds.

Joe Sanderson of St. Louis and Billy Scharbert of East St. Louis substituted for Carl Pojello of Chicago and Arthur Boganz of New York on the card. Joe won with a body scissors in 15 minutes and 32 seconds.

KIRKWOOD AND UNIVERSITY CITY PLAY FEATURE

With five teams tied for first place the second round of the round robin schedule in the County League will be played, tomorrow, with the Kirkwood-U. City game heading the list. Both teams won their first round game. These two teams, together with Normandy, finished in a tie for first place last season. The winner of this game will be conceded a good chance for the championship.

U. City was hard pressed to win its game last week and seems a little weaker than Kirkwood, which owns a good pitcher in Keil, who turned in a fine game against Jennings, allowing only two hits and one run. He struck out five. Massa did not do so well, allowing six hits and two runs, although striking out nine men. U. City was held to two hits by Hartmann, the Hancock hurler, while Kirkwood gathered six off Kercheval of Jennings.

Normany has a hard-hitting team and a good hurler in Van Hee, who allowed but two hits and one run in four innings. Jennings played a good game against Kirkwood, but did not display a batting punch nor an experienced team. This game should result in a pitching duel between Kercheval for Jennings and Van Hee for Normandy, with the edge in Normandy's favor because of its hitting power. Swacke, substitute second baseman, will probably replace Eichman.

Maplewood and Hancock should put on a good game. Maplewood has a veteran team, while Hancock has a good hurler, Hartmann, woh needs only some support to turn a winning game.

Wellston and Ritenour appear even. Neither team has won a game. Wellston has an advantage in veterans and should overcome the inexperienced Ritenour nine in a game that will decide one of the cellar occupants. Another last-place team will be decided in the Hancock-Maplewood game, as both lost their first-round contests.

Two home runs have been made so far in county games: Short of Ferguson made one against Maplewood, and Schmidt of Hancock made one against U. City.

ROCKNE'S EXAMINATION WILL NOT BE FINISHED FOR ANOTHER WEEK

ROCHESTER, Minn., April 10.—Knute Rockne, famed Notre Dame football coach, in jovial mood after his long journey from the beaches of Florida to Minnesota, entered Mayo clinic yesterday and underwent a number of tests, the first of a complete physical examination. Rockne, tanned by two months contact with the Florida sun, was accompanied to Rochester by Dr. C. J. Barborka of the Mayo clinic.

The Notre Dame mentor has nearly recovered from an acute attack of asthmatic bronchitis, and while here will receive treatment for an ailing right leg as well as a complete examination. In a previous examination in Florida, Dr. Barborka defined the ailment as thrombo phlebitis.

Examination of Rockne will not be completed for perhaps a week, and his départure from here will be determined by the diagnosis, depending upon the length of the treatment.

Coach Rockne said he was prepared to stay for the remainder of the summer if necessary, to effect a complete cure and be in shape to take over the reins of active coaching next fall at his institution.

BEARS OPPOSE WISCONSIN NINE IN GAME TODAY

The Washington University baseball team will open its season this afternoon when the Bears are host to Wisconsin at Liggett Field. There will be no admission charge. The game begins at 3:30 o'clock.

Wisconsin, which is on its spring training trip, before it opens its Big Ten schedule, will be opposed by virtually the same team that succumbed to the Badgers last year. The game with Washington will be the second of the current season for the visitors.

Coach Don White feels that the Bears are in good shape and that with seven lettermen in the starting lineup, Wisconsin will find plenty of opposition. Washington's main threat is Bill Leyhe, who will do the hurling.

Clark "Bumps" Smith at first, Eddie Werner at second and Ed "Moose" Meyer at third, are veteran infielders. "Red Ted" Saussele at short will complete the inner defense. Incidentally, this will be Saussele's third time in a year as a member of an athletic team. "Red" played regularly on the football and basketball teams.

It is probable that White will send in Orville Paul, Washington's one-armed pitcher, and Lou Jordan for relief duty. Paul has been improving steadily and is in top shape. The fourth hurler carried by White is Don Vesper.

The batting order for the Bears will be: Saussele, ss; Werner, 2b; Coover, cf; Friedman, lf; Smith, 1b; Jablonsky, c; Rawdon, rf; Meyer, 3b; Leyhe, Paul or Jordan, p.

Mat Meet Tonight.

Coach Coleman Grossman's Jewish Community Center wrestlers are out to avenge a defeat at the hands of the strong Neighborhood House matmen, when they tackle the same squad in a return match tonight at the Community Gym. The Center boys subdued the Maplewood High grapplers in their last meet. The following boys will represent the Center: Max Slumpsky, Joe Nodiff, Milton Kravitz, Moriss Rudman, Herman Thaller, Max Berman, Dave Shirp, Dave Goldstein and Leonard Gelber.

Mack Says Grove Has More Speed Than Any Other Pitcher—Karlon Official Pinch Runner for Injured Ruth.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—Robert Moses Grove, the Athletics' left-handed speed merchant, is due for a big season this year, in the opinion of Manager Mack. He declares that Lefty's fireball is faster than ever.

"Why, it gives me a sore arm just to see him shoot that fast ball," Mack said. "One of the biggest satisfactions of my baseball life is that I bought Grove for the Athletics. We certainly would be up against it if he was with an opposing team. He has all the stuff any pitcher ever had—more speed than any other moundsman—and he knows how to use it."

Karlon Runs for Ruth.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 10.—The Yankees are putting into practice John Heydler's 10-man team plan but not in the way that the National League president had intended. Instead of a batter taking the place of the pitcher at the plate, the Yanks are sending in a runner for the mighty Babe Ruth. The "homerun king," his right leg still heavily bandaged with tape, appeared in the New York lineup yesterday, hobbling around in the outfield and facing the Nashville pitcher five times. He walked three times and scored two runs that Bill Karlon, a rookie, carried over the plate.

Teams Make 40 Safeties.

RICHMOND, Va., April 10.—Having scalped the Braves in four of their scheduled five-game series, the Senators faced the Boston team today for the final contest. The score of yesterday's game took on football proportions with the Nats on the long end of a 19-13 slugfest. Forty hits were made during the game, including six homers by Goslin, Myer, Moore and Ruel for the Senators, and two for Jimmy Welsh of the Bostonians.

Faber Stops the Giants.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 10.—Old Red Faber has a long lead on the rest of the Chicago White pitching staff for the right to pitch the opening game of the championship season. After holding Little Rock to five hits last week, the veteran yesterday came back and stopped the New York Giants with one hit in seven innings as the Sox won, 8 to 1.

Blair to Play Third.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 10.—Manager Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Cubs, has given Lester Bell up as his third baseman when the National champions open at St. Louis next week. Bell's throwing arm hasn't improved a bit in three weeks, and Clarence Blair is down for the assignment.

To Carry Three Southpaws.

MOBILE, Ala., April 10.—Percy Jones, southpaw pitcher obtained by the Pittsburg Pirates from the Boston Braves in exchange for Burleigh Grimes, spitball holdout, and a bundle of cash, will report to Manager Jewel Ens at New Orleans Friday night or Saturday morning. Ens announced today he plans to carry three southpaws through the season. Jess Petty and Larry French are the other two.

DAWSON BANNED FROM AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEYS BY U. S. RULING

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Johnny Dawson of Chicago apparently has played his last amateur golf in so far as the United States Golf Association is concerned unless he changes his method of making a living.

Called upon to give Dawson's status after the Chicago golfer had been barred from the North and South tournament at Pinehurst yesterday, H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the Rules Committee, said Dawson was not entitled to play in amateur golf according to rules of the U. S. G. A.

Dawson's eligibility was first questioned in the national amateur last year at Pebble Beach after he had decided to change his business from selling bonds to sporting goods. He did not compete for the national championship.

The Chicago player has been well up among the leaders for several years. Last year he competed in the British amateur championships, losing to John Smith after 19 holes of sensational play in the semifinal round.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 10.—Eight players were the championship contenders today in the thirtieth annual North and South amateur golf tournament. Topping the list of quarter-finalists were C. Ross Somerville of London, Ont., co-medalist, and George J. Voigt of New York, defending champion.

HODGE ADVANCES TO SEMIFINALS, WINNING MATCH FROM TIETJEN

By Davison Obear.

Karl Hodge, Triple A star, reached the semifinal round of the men's singles in the fourth annual St. Louis district indoor tennis championship at the Washington University Field House last night by defeating Vernon Tietjen, Washington University player, 6—3, 6—2.

Play reached two-all in games in the opening after which Hodge took three straight love games. Tietjen won the eighth game, but Hodge took the next to win the set, 6—3. In the second set Hodge won the first four games, Tietjen winning only 6 points. Each player then alternated in winning, Hodge taking the set, 6—2, and the match. Hodge exhibited his best game of the tournament, relying almost entirely on base-line play.

		Pts.	G.

KING TUT PUTS UP FORFEIT FOR TITLE BOUT WITH MANDELL

By the Associated Press.

WRAY'S Column

Where We Get Off.

THUS far none of the experts has picked the Cardinals or Browns to win a pennant in 1930. The most recent odds quoted in St. Louis against their respective chances was 10 to 1 Cards and 12 to 1 Browns.

And the odds seem fair enough, all things considered. It is an old story that the Browns haven't located their missing punch and an equally trite guess that the Cardinals' pitching veterans will not pull a comeback, such as seems necessary to insure success.

It is on the unexpected that fans must rely to put either club or both in the running. The fan brave enough today to pick the Browns to beat out the Athletics apparently has not been born. The Cubs are practically the unanimous choice in the National.

Same Thing Over Again?

IN fact, there are very few expert pickers of pennant winners who see anything but a repetition of last year's races, with the Athletics and Cubs meeting in the finals.

Pittsburg is too crippled by the loss of Grimes and the incapacity of L. Waner, Traynor and Bartell to be credited with its normal good chance in the National. The Yankees will have to show a great deal of "comeback" in pitching to overhaul the Athletics in the American.

Both leagues, however, are all but praying that they will not be cursed with two runaway races again this season. Only a ding-dong finish in both organizations can keep up public interest and keep second division clubs off the financial rocks.

Put Up or Shut Up.

THE Londos vs. Pesek match is making progress like a sick snail. The managers of both men profess to be willing, but the flesh seems to be a bit weak about getting together.

Reading Al Haft's broadcast about Pesek, in this column, Ed White, who does all the noodle work for Jim Londos, gave off the following today: "Londos would meet Pesek any time or place but for one thing—we can't corner Pesek. If Haft wants this match he can have it and St. Louis can promote it, if that's desirable. But before we get on the mat Haft and Pesek will have to put up $10,000 or more to guarantee the appearance of his man. He has run out on me more than once. I will not waste Jim's time training and preparing for an event that may be abandoned at the whim of Pesek.

"If we do wrestle and Londos wins, Jim will claim the National Boxing Association title.

"Londos really has a grievance, for the articles of agreement in connection with the appearance money specify that half of the $5000 was to go to the opponent of the many failing to appear, and no mention was made of any alteration of this condition due to accident or sickness.

"He lost many dollars, in matches cancelled owing to Pesek, who, by the way, they would not submit to medical examination by my own physician."

Al Fresco Boxing Fails.

WHETHER boxing will continue in this city during the summer months is being debated here by promoters. It is probable that few if any important attempts at al fresco shows will be made. In the past practically all outdoor events, both boxing and wrestling, have been failures. Weather uncertainty, heat and lack of sufficiently large arenas have handicapped promoters. Ball parks in years past also proved unsatisfactory.

There is a chance that The Arena can be equipped with a cooling system which would supply an outlet for continuance of midsummer boxing. The Chicago Stadium has such a cooling plant and as a result will operate all through the summer. The chilled indoor arena is far more comfortable than outdoor temperatures in summer time and overcomes the hazard of the weather.

Chance for St. Louis.

ADMITTING that something must be done to build up St. Louis soccer, officials of the local league are promising to import some players from Eastern or foreign clubs. We have heard that before, but nothing has ever come of it. The game will go nowhere very rapidly, until new players and coaches are brought here and the players educated to the fact that only practice makes perfect.

The great Bethlehem team is about to be disbanded after many years in the field. On this team are some of the country's greatest stars. If local clubs fail to land some of these men they will be missing the finest opportunity afforded in years to strengthen.

Headed Right.

THE new twilight soccer league now in progress of forming here, is a step ahead in local soccer. Some of the features in its favor are:

It will operate during the summer months, the proper season for soccer.

It will be under a capable professional coach — Oscar Mossmann.

The men will practice regularly to develop technique.

It will be strictly an amateur affair.

It will have no backers who are using the club for the mere purpose of displaying a firm name's advertising.

WISCONSIN NINE BEATS BRADLEY COLLEGE, 8-3

PEORIA, Ill., April 10.—The University of Wisconsin baseball team opened its 1930 season with an 8-to-3 victory over Bradley College, yesterday.

Somerfield, Badger sophomore pitcher, held Bradley to three hits during his six innings of work, and Maurey Farber gave two in the final three sessions. Captain Furry of Bradley was hit hard in six innings and was charged with his first defeat in collegiate competition.

Pitcher Rhem Married.

By the Associated Press.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 10.—Flint Rhem, pitcher on the St. Louis Cardinal staff and former Clemson College star, and Miss Lula Dillard, were quietly married at Sumter last night at 6:30 o'clock, according to word received by Mrs. W. L. Dillard of Greer, mother of the bride. The couple left immediately for St. Louis.

Mrs. Rhem was graduated from Anderson College, Anderson, S. C., last year, and has been teaching at Union High School in Williamsburg County, near the home of the Car-

MARRE TO MEET MILES TONIGHT FOR 7TH TIME

An inter-city flyweight battle between Frank Doxey, representing the Olympian A. C. of St. Louis, and Joe Daly, boxing under the colors of the East Side A. C. of Springfield, Ill., is the premier attraction of four special bouts featuring an amateur fistic program to be presented tonight at the South Broadway A. C., 2300 South Seventh boulevard. In a match at Springfield three weeks ago Daly was awarded the decision over Doxey after an extra round of boxing.

Steve Marre, Sherman Park middleweight and Mississippi Valley A. A. champion, faces Johnny Miles of the South Broadway Club for the seventh time this season, in an inter-club special. Marre owns three decisions over Miles, one of which he scored in the Valley title finals, while the South Broadway puncher has chalked up one knockout and two point victories on the series to date.

Another return attraction brings together Harold ("Spider") Kaderabek of the South Broadway team, and Earl ("Tiny") Kehr of the Olympian squad, in a flyweight debate. Kaderabek shaded Kehr in both of their previous encounters, the last match requiring an extra round to determine the victor.

Thirty-two boxers are slated to draw for pairings in the preliminary events.

National Track Carnival May Be Held in August

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Soldier Field, scene of nationally important football games and a heavyweight championship fight, may be the arena for a Great Britain-United States track and field meet next August.

Avery Brundage, president of the National A. A. U., has asked his group to postpone its national outdoor championships, set for July 4, to Aug. 15. Track and field athletes of Great Britain will compete at Hamilton, Ont., the third week in August, and Brundage, with favorable action on the postponement request, hopes to bring the English stars here to meet America's best.

Brundage also hopes to make it a night affair, if the proposition goes through, and is having Soldier Field surveyed for proper lighting for an after-dark meet.

The Electric-Starting SEA-HORSE

Challenges All Inboard Motors

These new outboard motors by Johnson start at the touch of a button. They weigh only half as much as inboard motors of equal power, hence give higher speeds.

Steering by power-driven propeller increases maneuverability—automatically tilting propellers open even shallowest waters to fishing, cruising, etc., with utmost safety. Battery charges itself—stores power for lights. Vacturi carburetor throttles like a motor car and increases r.p.m. 200 to 300.

Johnson Electric-Starting Sea Horses bring added speed and added comfort to ANY boat. But in Johnson Boats to Match—a new-type lightweight, non-leaking, non-bailing hull—they outperform anything in the water.

Johnson Sea-Horses have electric-starter and rope-starter, or rope-starter only. They hold the world speed records for outboard motoring. Their 9 outstanding features (at right) have made them the world's choice—outselling all rival motors combined.

Electric-starting Sea-Horses $315 to $395. Other Sea-Horses as low as $125. All prices f.o.b. factory. Let the nearest dealer listed below demonstrate these new motors. Or write him for color-illustrated catalog of Sea-Horses and Johnson Boats to match.

PROVED USEFUL AT JEFFERSON; 313 HORSES AT THE TRACK NOW

The Waite starting gate, or series of stalls, will be used for the starting of all races at the Fairmount track this summer, it was announced by Racing Secretary Julius Reeder today. One such gate, permanently anchored, will be used at the six furlong chute. A tractor-drawn gate will be shifted to the various other starting points as required.

The Waite gate was used in the recent meeting at Jefferson Park, New Orleans, and will be installed at the Lexington (Ky.) track for the meeting opening April 17. This type of gate was used at Fairmount about two years ago but was not employed last year. All major tracks now use some form of stall barrier.

Today there are 313 horses quartered at the Fairmount barns and more are arriving daily. Applications have been received for more stable room than Secretary Reeder has at his command. With the meeting scheduled to open on May 10, preparations are going forward rapidly toward putting the running strip in shape and perfecting the drainage system.

DOG RACING AT MADISON TRACK OPENS MAY 1

The Greyhound Racing season will open at the Madison Kennel Club track in Madison County, Illinois, on the night of May 1, it was learned today. No date has been set for the meeting's termination.

No changes are contemplated by the management, either in official personnel or in the physical appearance of the racing plant which is situated on the Collinsville road, about six miles from St. Louis.

Work of putting the plant into condition for the reception of the opening night crowd has been going on for a week and dogs are being schooled and exercised every day.

Since the death of Martin J. Hyland, a year ago, the Madison Kennel Club has been directed by Daniel O'Neil. This track is said to be the strongest link in the chain of tracks governed by the International Greyhound Racing Association.

At this time it appears there will be no dog race tracks in operation in St. Louis County this summer.

SUNSET HILL CLUB PLANS TO CHANGE HOLES NOS. 17 AND 18

What has long been regarded by golfers as the toughest par five hole in the St. Louis district will be made considerably easier if the plans of the Sunset Hill Country Club Greens Committee go through for it has been proposed to change No. 17 at Sunset to avoid the steep hill running from the ditch which crosses the fairway some 200 yards from the tee to the green, change the location of the green to the left and place it down the hill toward the ravine. The ditch likely would be filled up.

It also has been proposed to change the location of No. 18 tee to a spot close to the new No. 17 green and to play No. 18 over the ravine instead of over the reservoir as at present which would cut off another long climb. To change No. 18 in such a way would necessitate the removal of many trees to the left of the fairway.

Eberhard Anheuser, chairman of the Greens Committee, stated today that a survey would be made at once to determine just what should be done and after a course was decided upon it would be submitted to the members for their approval.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10. — Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, world's tennis champion, today was on her way to New York on the first lap of her annual invasion of Eastern and European courts.

The noted racket star departed last night earlier than usual in order to attend an exhibit of her drawings in New York City. She will defend her French and all-English titles, and will return to America to seek the national championship again.

Mrs. Moody was not accompanied by her husband, Frederick Moody Jr., as he was detained here on business. However, her mother, Mrs. C. A. Wills will travel with her to Europe.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Winston Guest, America's ranking indoor polo player, ran wild against the Yale University trio last night to give the optimists of New York the Class A championship. The final score was 13 to 6. Guest scored nine of his team's points. Raymond Guest, brother of Winston, played No. 1 for Yale, but was held scoreless.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The first official Eastern intercollegiate baseball season was ushered in yesterday at Baker Field with Columbia trouncing Yale, 8 to 3.

5 EASTERN BOXERS WIN TITLES IN NATIONAL A. A. U. BOXING TOURNEY

TWO CALIFORNIA STARS RETURNED VICTORS; PALLAT SCORES "KAYO"

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 10.—Having battered Sylvan Taylor, New York Negro, to the canvas in less than a minute, Jack Pallat of Cleveland is amateur heavyweight boxing champion. He and seven other national champions were determined in the final rounds of the A. A. U. tournament last night. There were three nights of competition in which 94 boxers from 14 states and Hawaii started.

Besides Pallat, the new rulers of amateur glovedom are George Ostrow of Boston, 112-pound class; Abie Miller of Los Angeles, 118; Ray Meyers of New York, 126; Alex Santora of New York, 135; Charlie Kelley of Boston, 147; Ring Larsen of Boston, 160; Frank Tucker, San Francisco, light heavyweight.

Five finals went the full three round. The officials were jeered when they awarded the welterweight title to Kelley, who appeared beaten by the last minute rally of his opponent, Joe Bernal of San Francisco. Bernal had held the Boston boy even in the first two rounds.

Tucker, the Californian who won the undefended title of Martin Levandowski of Grand Rapids, would also have had a legitimate knockout victory if the referee had not stopped his bout with Frank Mills of Worcester, Mass., in the second round.

Refuses to Continue.

Ostrow won his flyweight crown by tearing the body of Anthony Farentelli of New Orleans, with a hard two-fisted attack. The Southerner was so battered that he was unwilling to appear for the second round.

Little Abie Miller, only Los Angeles entry, used the experience he gained in last year's tourney to send Frankie Wallace of Cleveland, the junior national bantamweight titlist, to defeat with a series of punching right hooks to the head.

Soldan Plays to 1-1 Tie Against University City

In a practice game, stopped after the regulation seven innings by darkness, Soldan High and the University City team battled to a 1-1 tie yesterday afternoon at Heman Park.

The game was drab throughout, the only thrill coming in the fourth inning, when Butts, Soldan first sacker, tripled to score "Red" Jones, who had reached first on a fielder's choice a moment before. The county team tied the count in the next frame when Massa, relief pitcher for University City, singled after Ireland had coaxed a pass.

Coach Thompsons' boys tried hard in the last half of the seventh inning to win the game, but Roth and C. Ochs were left on base after getting singles when Massa struck out.

SOX AND TIGERS MOST IMPROVED AMERICAN CLUBS, BARNARD SAYS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Major league baseball, slightly groggy since the World War depleted its ranks and interrupted its annual supply of young talent, has recovered from its shock and will boom louder than ever during the next five years, President Ernest Barnard of the American League predicted today.

"I'll frankly admit that the class of major league baseball since the World War hasn't been equal to that as displayed in the years between 1905 and 1916," President Barnard said, "but we have caught up now and, despite the attractions on the golf links and football fields, sports lovers will again realize that baseball is the great national game.

"So disastrous was the war and its after effects that major or minor league clubs had difficulty obtaining high-class players at any price. The war took young men's minds off the game and those with natural talent forgot about our great game and we lost at least 100 finished players. But that's all past now. We are getting faster and better players; the game has been speeded up to its former class and we are destined to have tighter pennant races from now on. Baseball will come into its own once more."

Expects Record Attendance.

President Barnard is optimistic over the prospects of a tight flag race in the American League this year and expects the loop to draw over 5,000,000 spectators for the first time since 1925.

"While Philadelphia looks to be the strongest in the league this year, don't think Connie Mack's boys are going to have a walkaway," he prophesied. "The Athletics won last year because all their pitchers went good. But will they all go so good this year?

"The Yankees look to be a vastly improved team and should extend the Athletics to the limit. They have improved their club immensely with Chapman at third base, and they have two young pitchers who may hand the American League a big surprise this year.

"Cleveland, too, looks good. The Indians finished like champions after a bad start in 1929. The odds are they won't have such a poor start and that they will play a more certain, smoother brand of baseball this season.

"The White Sox and Detroit Tigersc have improved themselves more than any other clubs in the league and that means they will help shave off some games from the big lead everyone thinks the Athletics are going to get on the rest of them. St. Louis should be better, too. I don't know much about Washington and Boston, but they should do better than a year ago."

There have been no changes in the playing rules since 1926 in the junior circuit and will be none in 1930, President Barnard said, but a meeting undoubtedly will be called for the spring of 1931 to consider more alterations.

Miss Collett to Take Squad Of 16 Women to England for Golf Test With British Team

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Miss Glenna Collett, captain of the women's golf team from the United States sailing for England, April 22, to play a match with a team of English women, today decided to limit the squad to 16 players, with a line-up enabling all to compete.

The plan for the international competition calls for 10 singles and five foursomes. Miss Collett found that she would at least have 16 players available, so she suggested to Miss Molly Gourlay, captain of the British team, that the number of matches be increased. This suggestion failed to arouse enthusiasm abroad.

Miss Collett's plan now is to have only four of the 10 women who play the singles continue in the foursomes, combining with the remaining six American players.

The captain of the American team will leave New York tomorrow for Pinehurst, N. C., where she will practice until a few days before the sailing date. The other members of the team, most of whom have been playing golf in the South, are practicing over their home courses, the entire membership will assemble in New York about April 20 for a final practice session.

OLD HANDS TO FRONT IN BRITISH GOLF MEET

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 10.—Old hands came to the front at the beginning of match play in the professional invitation golf tournament at Roehampton. Of the young golfers who performed so well in the qualifying rounds, only Henry Cotton survived the first round. Cotton, with superior play to the greens, downed Bert Hodgson, five up and three to play.

Fred Robson put out W. T. Twine, two and one, and Reginald Whitcombe, who scored a sensational 64 yesterday, fell a victim of J. G. Sherlock by the same score. Gus Faulkner, who shared with Twine the honor of scoring 65 yesterday, was eliminated by Len Holland, this match being decided also by a count of two and one.

Stillman Kayos Austin and Gets Coliseum Battle

Al Stillman, hard-hitting St. Louis light-heavyweight, who owns a long list of victories, has been signed to fight in the 10-round semi-windup match on Tuesday night's professional boxing program at the Coliseum, Tommy Sullivan, matchmaker for the Frederick Stockman Post of the American Legion, announced last night.

Stillman and an opponent yet to be signed will take the place of Lonnie Austin, Terre Haute, Ind., light-heavyweight, and Tommy O'Brien of Springfield, Ill.

The reason Sullivan made the change was because Stillman, engaging in a sparring session with Austin yesterday afternoon at the Olympian gymnasium, knocked out the Indiana fighter. Sullivan was among the spectators.

Sullivan announced that Otto von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight, who meets Jack De Mave, in the feature 10-round scrap, will arrive here today. He will engage in a workout with Dave Knost in the afternoon at the National gymnasium.

Kid Roy Wins Bout.

MONTREAL, Quebec, April 10.—"Kid" Roy retained his featherweight boxing championship of Canada last night, winning an unpopular 10-round decision over Sammy Hackett of Toronto.

The Ranger basketball team defeated the Melrose quintet, 35 to 5, in the first of a two-out-of-three game series for the championship of the Sherman Park Junior Basketball League. The next game will be played tomorrow night at Sherman Park Community Center.

A STATEMENT by GILLETTE

about the New Razor and Blade

By Frank J. Fahey
Vice-President

WE had planned to produce 80,000 of the New Razors daily. We have found it necessary to increase this to 100,000 a day.

We have shipped over 3,000,000 New Razors and 65,000,000 New Blades.

Production is still behind the demand.

We made sure of our ground before beginning to manufacture these new products. It was our purpose to produce the greatest shaving improvement in the twenty-eight years of our history.

The public is the final judge of every manufacturer's product. The public has tried the New Razor and the New Blade. Its verdict is even more enthusiastic than we had dared to hope.

We desire to express our grateful appreciation.

BILLS TOTALING $551,346 AGAINST VALENTINO ESTATE

Included in These Is $1800 for Tips to Police at Movie Actor's Funeral.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 10.—S. George Ullman, executor of the $800,000 estate of Rudolph Valentino, presented for approval of Superior Judge Carlos Crail today an accounting in which were bills totaling $551,346.

Included in the bills against the estate of the motion picture star, who died in 1926, were $21,616 advanced to Maria Strada Guglielmi, sister, and $36,949 advanced to Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the actor. Other items were $15,000 for W. I. Gilbert, Valentino's attorney; $1800 for "tips to police" at the actor's funeral and $50,000 for salary for the executor.

Ullman said that as business manager for Valentino during his life he drew $750 a month, and he believed his services were worth that to the estate, but he would reduce the $70,000 due him under this arrangement and ask for $50,000.

WE know how you feel about baking your own cake

IT IS a very nice feeling to know that, with your own hands, you have made a fine big cake for your family—you have put a lot of care and devotion into it. That pleases them and it pleases you, too, to see how they enjoy it.

Every once in a while you give yourself this pleasure, even though it means the fuss and bother of mixing and measuring, long hours in the kitchen, and the tedious task of cleaning up afterwards.

And don't you remember how long that big cake lasted and how you all got a bit tired of it? Don't you think your family would really like it better if they could have a cake just about right for one meal—and then have a different cake next time?

Ward's Fine Cake, you, as a cake maker, will recognize immediately as wonderfully good cake. The ingredients are just as fine as you would use yourself. And the bakers who make them are experts at baking.

Ward's Fine Cake costs a great deal less than home-made. We make many hundreds of them at one time, while you make only one or two. And of course we can buy those fine ingredients for much less than you can.

Just think over this matter of having us bake your cake for you and saving you the trouble and cost. Thousands of very good home cake makers are finding it a real economy of time and money to have us do their baking for them.

At your dealer's are a great many varieties of Ward's Fine Cakes. Start in by trying the kind you particularly pride yourself on making so well. Why not do it today!

WARD BAKING COMPANY

PLEDGE OF FRESHNESS: If by any chance you should happen to buy a Ward's cake that is not fresh or that is unsatisfactory in any way, simply take it back to your grocer in the original wrapper or package. He will give you a fresh cake or refund your money.

Don't Let Those Little Bald Spots Become Big Ones

See Thomas' at Once

Almost before you know it, those little bald spots on the (1) frontal, (2) crown or (3) temple may become large bare areas—unless you do something NOW to stop your abnormal hair fall at these points, and promote natural hair growth. The Thomas' scalp treatment presents a dependable method of helping to keep those little bald spots from becoming big ones. Thomas' treatment not only helps stop falling hair, but it aids in promoting a healthy scalp condition, conducive to the growth of hair.

Twenty or thirty years ago it was almost impossible to prevent baldness. Today, the modern, scientific Thomas' treatment has replaced old-fashioned, haphazard methods with modern, scientific precision. This reliable, proved treatment actually goes to the basic source of your own specific scalp trouble—and by overcoming the cause, results in restoring the scalp to a normal, healthy condition. In this manner Thomas' scalp treatment acts as Nature's assistant and makes it possible for hair to grow naturally where it has been hindered by some abnormal scalp condition. Dandruff infection and consequent hairfall are relieved.

The Thomas' are reliable scalp specialists. They will tell you frankly if your trouble does not come within their scope of treatment—and they accept for treatment only those for whom they conscientiously feel they can produce the anticipated results. This code of ethics has resulted in their growth to a chain of more than 45 offices, from coast to coast, in fifteen years.

No charge is made for a complete Thomas' scalp examination at any time. Come into the nearest office today and learn the truth about your hair and scalp.

Call at Thomas' office for a free scalp examination or write to The Thomas' General Offices, 844 Rush Street, Chicago, for booklet, "How Science Conquers Baldness."

IN MEMORIAM

CORDELL—John W., in loving memory, who departed this life April 10, 1924.
I often sit and think of him
When I am all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak
When all other things decay,
My love for him will still keep green
And never fade away. WIFE.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged early today at 3.30 for spots duty paid with no sales reported.

Raw futures opened at advances of 1 to 3 points on covering and renewed outside buying and later showed net advances of 3 to 4 points. The steadiness was attributed to the increased demand in the spot market, but business on the whole was not very active and after the early buying subsided, there was a partial setback under liquidation or realizing and some selling which was believed to be for Cuban account. Prices at midday were 2 to 3 points net higher.

Refined was unchanged at 4.90 for fine granulated with second hands available at 4.75. Aside from moderate withdrawals against old contracts, business was light.

New York Coffee.

HEAT CLOSES IRREGULAR ON CHICAGO MARKET

the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Bulges, breaks and llies followed each other rapidly in the heat market today, bullish crop figures om Washington being displaced by rapy shifting weather influences. The outme of the day's trading was virtually a awn battle between bulls and bears. te rallies were associated with Kansas rts of high winds.

Bullish aspects of the Government crop port, upturns in Liverpool quotations, continued dry weather over domestic heat territory were incentives to buyers. o however encountered heavy selling indications of showers Southwest. Openg ⅛-2¼c up, wheat fluctuated nervously within the initial range. Corn and oats so had an upward trend, with corn holdg around ½-1c up. Provisions declined. Prospects of some moisture relief tot in sections of the southwest turned r traders to the selling side of the arket. It was noted also that aside this selling of new crop months, farm ard allies appeared to be disposing of y wheat. Failure of the Liverpool marto hold early advances counted as a ight on wheat values here, especially overnight export business in North merican wheat was of negligence volume.

U. S. STEEL UNFILLED ORDERS UP 90,905 TONS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Unfilled tonnage orders of the United States Steel Corporation on March 31 showed an increase of 90,905 tons over the Feb. 28 total.

Unfilled orders at the end of last month aggregated 4,570,653 tons against 4,479,748 on Feb. 28, and 4,468,710 on Jan. 31. The total for March 31, 1929, was 4,410,718 tons.

This moderate increase in tonnage was a pleasing surprise to Wall street, for, in view of the rather slack demand in the earlier part of March, little change had been expected, and most forecasts indicated that a slight decline was likely.

The Steel Corporation's back log of unfilled orders is now the largest since February of 1926. The total of 4,410,718 tons at the end of March, 1929, set a high record for last year.

The present high tonnage, however, is due in a large measure to curtailed operations. The company's current operations are around 80 per cent of rated capacity, against 98 per cent at this time last year.

THE TRUTH ABOUT RUDOLPH VALENTINO--- By His Widow, Natacha Rambova

By NATACHA RAMBOV..

(Copyright, 1930, by Natacha Rambova. All rights reserved.)

MANY stories have been written about Rudolph Valentino, but few are true. Generally they were written by people who scarcely knew him. Perhaps they knew the screen hero, but not the real man as he was; for this they drew on imagination and hearsay, usually to absurd results. That is why I have been asked to write this story—to tell the truth for once!

Strange as it may seem to the undiscerning, interest in Mr. Valentino still lives. Even now, four years after his death, a revival of one of his pictures brings crowds stampeding the box office for one more glimpse of that romantic actor whose successor has never yet been found, to the great lament of the producers.

Since appreciation of his work has survived the man himself, it is only fair that those who recognized his art should have a true picture of him, not a lot of trash and bosh.

The screen star and Winifred Hudnut photographed just after the announcement of their engagement. She is the step-daughter of a wealthy perfume manufacturer of New York and had taken, as a stage name when a member of a Russian troupe, the name of Natacha Rambova.

Rudolph Valentino photographed a month before his death when he seemed the picture of health.

Unfortunately, the more famous he grew, the more the stories circulated about him were colored by malicious insinuations that cast him in a false light. One of the great penalties the screen star pays for fame is that of having false innuendoes coupled with his name. The public clamors for the intimate life history of its popular idol; rumor and shrewd imagination combine to supply this demand.

Victim of Distorted Image.

The result is a lot of unscrupulous publicity cleverly designed by manager or producer, or whoever profits by his pictures, to build up for the public that image of him that will stimulate cheap interest and increase box office receipts. Often it is a distorted image no more like the man himself than a wooden Indian is like a flesh and blood chief.

In most of the tales told about him his character, motives and ideals were drawn at such twisted angles that the image which finally emerged to be held up before his adoring public, was a mere cartoon of the man, in which all his worst features were exaggerated. We who knew him intimately and were aware of his finer side, could scarcely recognize it.

As for Rudy himself—it revolted him!

Not a Lounge Lizard.

The legendary Rudy who fed on mash notes, the lounge lizard, the pink powder-puff man, the sheik with only a gross, sensory appeal was no more the real Valentino, the Rudy I loved and married, than east is west or black is white. But it was as the "great lover" of the screen he had drawn greatest box office profits. Therefore, the great lover he must remain at the sacrifice of everything else.

Had he been permitted to make the kind of pictures he wanted to do, the fine artistic productions he was worthy of, far different stories would have been associated with his name.

In reality he was a great artist, one of the few the screen has produced. If he had not been his fame would have died with him; he would be forgotten now. But he supplied to his public a particular need which no one else ever filled—a spirit of chivalry and romance associated with a by-gone age, but the desire for which is eternal. It is something glamorous and fanciful, suggestive of the adventurous romance which every woman secretly craves, whether she admits it or not.

But he wasn't given credit for the real art he had. His unusual abilities were neglected to emphasize the grosser side—sex appeal, women, night life, flirtations—anything that would create a wider shopgirl public and a few thousand more fans.

This forced him into a role he hated to play, a role in which he was wretchedly unhappy. But Hollywood gossip accomplished its aim. Rudy was too young to realize how stupid public criticism is. He was too young for the fame that came to him. In his forties or fifties, perhaps, he might have stood up against that tidal wave of adulation and flattery, but in his twenties—it wasn't human not to be broken by it.

The culmination of it all warped his entire personality until, eventually, it made him ashamed of that finer side of his nature, not seen or understood.

People who knew him on the screen were invariably surprised when they met him in private life to discover what the real man was like: If they expected to find the sheik they were disappointed. Recently I met in London a well-born Englishwoman whose hero he had been for years. She said she had dreamed of him; she was crazy over him. This woman said to me:

The Two Valentinos.

"When I met Valentino himself I was amazed to find not my romantic hero, but just a boy, quite frank and sincere. Why, he is only a child: At first I was disillusioned, but in another way I liked him the more."

There were two distinct Valentinos—Rudy the artist and Rudy the man. The one was the swashbuckling cavalier who flashed across the screen into the hearts of millions. The other was a simple boy with a childish sensitiveness often mistaken for weakness by the undiscerning and the prejudiced. American men, particularly, had no use for him. They looked down on him and criticised him, which hurt him terribly, for he was pitifully anxious to be liked; he wanted their friendship and respect. Had they taken pains to know him, they would have given him both; but he couldn't talk business, politics or the stock exchange. He had no mentality for such things. They lay beyond his grasp because he had utterly no interest in them.

If I, myself, tried to talk business with him I couldn't get his attention. He would be thinking how handsome his horse would look in its new silver trappings from Mexico, or how much speed he could get from his new motor car. He had a mania for motors.

He would rather lie under an automobile in a pair of greasy overalls, tinkering with the engine than go dancing at a night club with the most attractive woman in the world.

A Dashing Crusader.

Cultured, cosmopolitan men liked Rudy; they appreciated his finer side; but the self-styled, hundred per cent American with his lack of culture and his one-track mind wrote him down as a weakling and looked to find nothing good in him. All the romance and attraction associated with Rudy's name, and which men of this type so resented, lay only in his acting. In reality they resented it because it was a charm they so sadly lacked.

The trouble with Rudy was, he lived a few hundred years too late. He should have been born in the Middle Ages, when men wore armor and carried swords, fought duels and won their spurs by riding a horse into battle to fight for a principle—or a beautiful lady. He would have made a dashing Crusader. He would have upheld his cause, however idealistic and lost it was, until carried bleeding from the field. There was nothing of the coward in Rudy, in the physical sense of the word.

Yes, there were two distinct Rudys: First, the artist, very intense, who took himself all too seriously, with no sense of humor in his work. He had a sense of fun, but no humor. He couldn't stand flippant criticism of his acting.

He welcomed the serious constructive kind, but the mash notes —how he despised them! I have seen him pitch them all into the fire, swearing vociferously the while. Later, when they came in tons, his secretary took charge of them and showed him only the intelligent ones, which he answered personally.

When he was making a picture, nothing else existed. He didn't act the part, he lived it. The character he was portraying was a personality with which he identified himself, until he became its living entity. It was as though he made of that character a shell into which he stepped, with all its mental workings and physical habits. This transfiguration began when he started studying the script and continued until the last camera shot was finished. Then he discarded the shell and became Rudolph Valentino again.

When in "Blood and Sand" he was playing the role of Gallardo, the toreador of the peasant class, he discarded all his fine manners to assume those of the peasant. He ate like a peasant, walked like a peasant, thought and behaved like one; actually seemed ill at ease in his own well-groomed clothes. While doing the early part of the picture where Gallardo is a young boy, Rudy was impish and prankish about the house. His laughter and sense of fun, even his mental reactions were those of a boy of 13. It was useless to discuss any questions that must be answered by Rudolph Valentino. It was as though I had an adopted child in the house. This would have been very trying if it had not been so interesting.

Emotions Come First.

He was not a great actor in the sense that Sarah Bernhart or Edwin Booth were. Sarah Bernhart intelligently studied a role until her brain dictated the emotions. Rudy couldn't get anything to his brain until he had first felt it emotionally.

He had no imitative quality but startling dramatic ability that absorbed everything about a role to the most detailed mannerisms. In "Monsieur Beaucaire" he knew just the proper gesture with which to shake out a lace handkerchief or take a pinch of snuff. He was never told these things; he knew them intuitively. But Rudy was really a psychic, as he later discovered. His extreme sensitiveness enabled him to tune in on a personality or a phase of life and so interpret it faultlessly. Herein lay his genius.

This, then, was Rudy, the artist, the dashing romanticist. Outside of his acting he was a combination of a very ordinary young man who loved to tinker with automobiles, or take every clock in the house apart, just to see how the wheels went round, and never put it together again—a young man inordinately fond of mechanics, like thousands of other young men —and a little boy who would never grow up, hence needed someone to look after him. Outwardly, an aggressive, swagger little boy, always looking for a fight; but inwardly, a pathetic, lonely little boy, always being hurt, infinitely grateful to anyone who was kind to him.

This last was the Rudy I learned to know and love, for, it should be remembered, at the time we became engaged he was not Valentino, the great lover, almost smothered by adulation and fame, but a lonely foreigner on the Metro lot, unknown, snubbed and ridiculed.

Rudy had made the picture, "The Four Horsemen," but it had not yet been released. No one knew he was an artist, though it was rumored he was good. But picture people are all from Missouri; they have to be shown—by box office receipts.

At that time I was art director for Metro, taking myself and my work very seriously. Now I am amused as I look back on my flat-heeled shoes and art-y clothes. I was known as cold and unapproachable—but what did I care what people thought? I wasn't interested in personalities, particularly such futile personalities as screen actors. To me they were so many puppets to be placed wherever they looked best, mere detail of the composition. Least of all was I interested in the aggressive, affable young man called "The Wop," who, with his friend Paul, a young Serbian cameraman, was always under foot, determined to be seen.

Later Rudy told me he had a bet with Paul that he could make me notice him; that he used to pray I would trip and fall, or, at least, drop my handkerchief, so he could leap to pick it up, or rescue me from danger. It appealed to his romantic sense to attract the attention of someone so obviously chilly, remote and disinterested.

The introduction finally came while Mme. Nazimova, whose art director I was, was searching for a leading man. For weeks she had been combing Hollywood for the proper Armand for her "Camilla." Dozens of aspirants had applied but something was wrong with each of them, until we had well nigh despaired of a hero. Then June Mathis, who had written the script of "Four Horsemen," told us of the young Italian who had played Julio in that picture and whom she considered a genuine find. She suggested we give him a trial. Without much hope, we agreed to look him over.

How They Met.

One day, in Hollywood, the door of my office opened to admit Nazimova, followed by a bulky figure dressed in fur from head to foot. I had a glimpse of dark, slanting eyes between brows and lashes white with mica, the artificial snow of the camera world. Down his face perspiration was streaming in rivers, to complete the ruin of the make-up. The effect was not impressive. Here, I thought, is the very worst yet.

"Natacha," said Madame, "I want to present Rudolph Valentino. June Mathis says he can act."

The polar bear advanced and shook hands. At least, the handshake was firm—a little too firm for comfort. Then nervously, with a foreign accent, he apologized for his appearance. He explained he was working with Alice Lake in "Uncharted Seas" and for two hours had been standing in the sun making close-ups of an Arctic scene. He must go right back to continue them, but——

"Please say a good word for me to Madame," he said.

I was aware of a dazzling smile, a click of the heels, a bow and he was gone.

So this was the patent leather haired young man whom June Mathis hailed as a find! Well, he didn't look it. But something about him had caught the fancy of Nazimova and — well, Madame usually had her way.

The Rudy I knew in those early days was a fresh, annoying kid who got on my nerves. He was aggressive, always telling jokes, the point of which he invariably forgot. Later I discovered this pugnacious swagger was only a veneer to protect an inner sensitiveness that was too easily hurt, a pathos, a loneliness, a pitiful eagerness to be liked. As I worked with him I discovered many likable things about him—an almost childish sincerity, a love of history and art and an imagination wherein he was always picturing himself in some romantic situation.

He and Paul shared a bleak apartment on upper Hollywood boulevard and I took to inviting the two of them for dinner at my own bungalow on Sunset boulevard which then, like myself and my clothes, was particularly art-y and of which I was very proud. They always prepared the meal themselves and Rudy was in his element when concocting a dish of spaghetti.

He was very Italian then, later he became more Americanized, but he had many inbred Italian characteristics which he never lost. One of them was a craving for home atmosphere; another, loyalty to family. Whatever any member of his family did was all right, in spite of flagrant proof to the contrary.

Worshiped His Mother.

He particularly worshiped his mother; his love for her amounted to idolatry. He talked to her when in trouble, almost said his prayers to her. Later he actually did talk with her through automatic writing—but that is a later story.

His mother epitomized for him everything a woman should be: it was his craving for this maternal love that first brought us together. When I was kind and understanding with him, he attributed to me all the virtues of his "sainted mother"—though for months the thing between us was only comradeship. Of course he flirted a little—what Italian can help it?

But he was so hopelessly impracticable some one had to look after him, particularly in business matters. He had utterly no sense of finance; business lay beyond his radius of thought; you couldn't focus his attention upon it. Money existed for him only in terms of what it would buy. If he saw something he wanted, whether it was a new vest or an old castle, have it he would. It made no difference if it cost $10 or $10,000: While there was a check in his check book he would sign it, regardless of the balance in the bank.

If a producer offered him a role he liked, he forgot to inquire his salary. His mind refused to function on practical matters. The only things within his world were his motor, his horse, his dogs, the character he was portraying, his costumes, his armor, his sword and the romance of historical novels and places. As a result he was always involved in hopeless litigation.

When I would say to him, "Rudy, if you go on like this you'll be sleeping in the park!" he would reply:

"Well, I've slept in the park before. Anyway, I did the best I could."

No material disaster could dent this cheerful philosophy. He had gone through dire poverty since he came to America; he had gone hungry and shared wretched attic rooms, but it made no impression on him. Besides, hadn't his "sainted mother" endured the siege of Paris?

Start of Their Happiness.

One of the things that drew Rudy and me together was the attraction of opposites. I was intensely practical; he, as impractical as posible. There are two kinds of people in the world; those who take responsibility and those who don't. And you couldn't pass a worry on to Rudy, however acute it was. As well try to make a flying squirrel come down and talk brass tacks. I, on the other hand, took worries seriously—not only my own but every one else's —and just naturally I assumed Rudy's.

He was such a likeable young man and he needed looking after, So I began to look after him until—well, he just became my job. His faith in me and his dependence o me were the finest things in our relationship.

Rudy and I were very happy together until Hollywood interfered.

Joys and Sorrows of Life Told to Census Takers

THE lights and shadows of many lives are reflected in the answers to the prosaic questions of the enumerators now engaged in taking the decennial census in St. Louis. Even a "yes" or "no" may be fraught with tragedy or farce when it penetrates part of the warp and woof of life itself.

And back of the individual returns runs the story of a city, compounded of just such persons, high and low, rich and poor, that has grown apace during the decade since the last census.

Many residential districts did not exist 10 years ago. Prosperous homes have supplanted vacant lots; projected subdivisions have become realities; thriving communities have fulfilled the promise of the blueprints of 1920.

A prosperous retired grocer on the South Side chuckled when the enumerator asked about his occupation.

"I'm a bum now," he replied, "and that's something I've wanted to be ever since I was a boy in the old country. But I never had time until last year."

An old pair, was seated alone in a big house, on the wall the picture of a soldier in uniform. They answered the questions briefly impersonally. Then:

The old man cleared his throat.

"Not now," he said, "we had a son—," his voice trailed off into silence.

One room will be immaculate, bearing the hallmark of the shabby genteel or the thrifty habits of the housewife, forced by circumstance to live in one room.

An adjoining room may run to the opposite extreme, unkempt, dirty, reflecting the habits of the family whose home is confined within its walls. It is not uncommon to find a family of four living and eating in a single room.

Some radio manufacturers would be shocked were they to hear the unsolicited remarks volunteered in answer to the question, "Have you a radio?"

On the other hand, some census takers are treated to a discourse on the "wonderful tone" and "perfect reception" of the family receiving set.

"I'm from County Kerry, and proud of it," exclaimed one man. The enumerator wrote down "Ireland" without further ado.

Women are not so coy about their ages as they were 10 years ago; besides, there is a growing realization that the census represents an impersonal set of statistics, even though they be based on personal questions.

One woman yesterday, however, said:

"Oh, just put me down as 16."

"May I double that?" the enumerator asked.

"You win; go ahead," she laughed.

Synopsis of the Three Preceding Chapters

If people ever wondered why the employes of the Eaton Advertising Agency, nine stories above Park avenue, were so fiercely loyal to their chief, they would have been answered if they could have heard him laugh. Occasionally women said that Lawrence Eaton was the most attractive man of their acquaintance. His friend, Jameson, hearing that magnetic laughter, did not doubt it.

"Well, what's the joke?" he asked, grinning in sympathy.

*"It's the dickens the way a man gets to depend on his secretary, isn't it?" said Eaton. "Miss Andrews has been—splendid—but it looks as if she had outlived her usefulness here * * * Nerves." Latterly Janet Andrews had fussed over him so. She had been far worse than a wife—than his wife at any rate. But with characteristic finality Eaton settled the question by giving Miss Andrews an extended leave of absence to recover her health, meanwhile borrowing from Timothy Sanders, the firm's vice president, his secretary, Anne Murdock.*

And Anne had dreams of her own—dreams of landing a big job for herself. If she got this job, she declared, she'd hold it. Anne had been three years at the Eaton Agency. To work with a man of Eaton's breadth and power was something to dream of, for she had ambitions beyond a suburban home with Ted O'Hara, who was on her own rung of the ladder. What Anne had seen of marriage had not endeared it to her. There was her mother working her life out in their home. Instinctively she understood her sister Kathleen's ambition to go into the chorus of "The Sky Girl," and she helped bring around their dad to reluctant acquiescence in her young sister's ambition.

Ted pressed his suit determinedly, but Anne could not help wondering what would happen if a girl wanted to climb unhindered to the top. And if—if she wanted her man—would it be one who had already made his way unaided, a man with strength and tremendous driving power?

Janet went on talking, telling Anne of things that must be done for "the chief." Anne thought amused: "I suppose he has to be coddled like all the others." But somehow it didn't fit in with the mental picture she had of the man.

CHAPTER FOUR.

A DAY or so later Anne telephoned Janet Andrews and finding she was still in town made an engagement with her for that evening.

Janet, as trimly utilitarian at home as she was in the office, went with her around the corner to one of those dimply lighted basements which provide music and a plate dinner.

"I want to consult you," Anne told her, over coffee. "Oh, just office routine. Every man has his own way of wanting things run. I hate to make more mistakes than I can help."

She asked her questions and Janet answered, grudgingly at first, and then, as she looked at Anne's friendly face, more openly.

"Is—is he well?" was what Janet wished to know in her turn as they walked back to her home.

"The chief?" Anne looked at her, astonished. "Why, I suppose so. He seems fine."

"He gets overtired," Janet explained, "and then he sometimes takes cold. When he works in the office at night I generally get one of the porters to go out and bring in malted milk or something. He doesn't know where it comes from half the time, but he drinks it just the same."

"I see," said Anne, and made a mental note. Surely, she thought, the chief could take care of himself! But, of course, if he were used to these extra attentions she'd certainly see to it that they were forthcoming.

Janet went on talking, warning Anne against certain importunate callers who had a way of trying to get past the desk, telling her, a little feverishly, of Eaton's likes and dislikes.

Anne thought, amused: "I suppose he has to be coddled like all the others. I wonder if he really likes it."

Somehow it didn't fit in with the mental picture she had of the man—a picture which she had carried about with her for three years; which she often looked at with admiration and by which she made, unconsciously, many comparisons.

Janet's flat was well furnished, but wholly lacking in charm. Anne talked as they sat there together, while Janet indulged in her solitary relaxation of incessant cigarette smoking.

Janet lighted another cigarette. "Funny to see her smoke so much, thought Anne. "She doesn't seem to be the type."

"Yes, in a day or so. I've a cousin who has a farm up near Albany. I've planned to go to her," Janet answered. Suddenly her eyes filled. She crushed out the just-lighted cigarette on a standing ashtray. "I won't be coming back — to the agency," she said slowly. "He doesn't want me."

"But Janet," argued Anne, trying to make her words and tone carry conviction, "of course you'll come back. You'll get well up there and—— Why, the chief can't get along without you!"

JANET tried to smile. "Yes, he can," she contradicted. "He'll forget to miss me, after a little. And you"—she looked directly at the younger girl—"you'll get the position, Anne. That's one reason why I've been trying to give you little hints about things it would take you a long time to learn, but which mean a lot to his comfort."

Anne asked, with clever directness: "If you should not return would you be angry if—if I did get the job?"

"No, not angry." Janet laid one steady hot hand on Anne's. "Take care of him," was all she said.

Then they talked of other things until Anne rose to go. Janet went to the door with her.

"I shan't wait for my dismissal," she said. "I shall send in my resignation before my leave is up. I'll try for something else after a while. Meantime I've something saved."

She did not tell Anne that she had already spoken to a friend of hers, the head of a large employment agency, and that Miss Mackie had told her: "You won't be easy to place, Janet. You've given so much to this last job. My advice is, go out and learn to play before you look for a new one. Get outside interests—and if you can—fall in love."

Fall in love!

Janet turned back to the empty room and started straightening chairs and cushions. Anne—Anne would get the job.

He wouldn't look at Anne, of course; not as a person, that is. He wasn't that kind. And yet—Anne, with her ardent red lips and her round slim body and pretty hands! He wouldn't be a man if he didn't look at h— sometimes.

She went into her bedroom and stared about it dully. She must plan her packing, must formulate mentally the phrases of her dignified resignation, every word of which would be a knife in her heart.

Over the daily contact, the work that was all for him, the tense waiting for his word of approbation, the shrinking from his reception of an error, the lightness in her breast when he smiled—all over.

Suddenly she picked up a tall glass vase and flung it violently against the wall. As it shattered to the floor in a hundred tinkling pieces the tension broke within her and she flung herself across her bed, sobbing. • • •

SHE knew Freud and Ellis no better than did Janet. But she needed no books to tell her what was the matter with the older woman.

"Poor thing," she thought, disturbed and with an aching pity tempered with the wholesome scorn of a youngster who has not yet been deeply stirred by life. "Poor thing. Why are women such fools?"

Couldn't they keep sex out of it save as a useful weapon? She wondered if they couldn't realize that the man was only the symbol of the earned income. Couldn't they see him as merely a means to an end?

During the following week in Eaton's office Anne worked hard, marked much and caught one intimate glimpse of the caliber of the man. She was in her own room when Joe Brown, one of the copywriters and a friend of O'Hara's, came into the chief's office, papers in his hand and his face haggard with strain. Through the half-open door Anne heard the conversation between the two men.

"Sit down, Joe," invited Eaton. "I want to talk to you about your copy for the Garden Silk people. Are you satisfied with it yourself?"

Brown's answer followed after a perceptible hesitation. "No, I'm not, Mr. Eaton," he said.

"What do you think is the matter with it?" asked Eaton. "To my mind, it's good-enough routine work—solid stuff—but it hasn't any vitality. Not an atom of punch. It hasn't the quality which lifted your work for the Dayton crowd so far above average.

"You've wonderful hunches, Joe. You've a good command of the written language. You know what the public wants to read, and you can sock 'em in the eye—arrest their attention. You know people. Your dealer work in the Dayton instance was great.

"You've a big future. You've proved it again and again. But something has been wrong for the last month. What is it? Don't you like the work—or what?"

"I do," Brown told him. "I'm crazy about it, but—I'm shot, Mr. Eaton. My mind isn't on the job. I'm mechanical; I haven't any pep. I—oh, I know what's the matter, all right," he said, boyish and ill at ease and unhappy.

"What, then?" asked Eaton.

"It—it's a personal matter," Brown burst out despairingly. "Just one of those intimate things that play the deuce with a man's job. I'm—I'm nearly off my head, Mr. Eaton. I can't eat. I can't sleep. I can't work." He added dully: "But I can't tell you about it. If it means the loss of my job I can't tell you. And I deserve to be fired. I've let you down badly."

ANNE'S heart was beating furiously. She knew something of the canker that gnawed into young Brown's brain. Ted had told her. Brown, a decent boy, had fallen in love with a woman some years his senior and married.

It was useless for his intimates to tell him he'd get over it, to point out the error of his ways. He loved her with all the depth of a boy's passionate attachment. And he was taking it hard, as only a nice boy can take it. He hated himself; he was torn and ashamed—and he loved her, hopelessly and with an edged desperation.

"You needn't tell me. I understand enough to know whatever it is it's giving you a bad time. You're a good man and we don't want to lose you. We cannot see your future—and our own future depends the work of men like yourself—wrecked because of some emotional unbalance.

"I suggest that you take six months' vacation, Joe, with full pay. Go abroad, go West, go anywhere, and fight your battle. Then come back to us and tell me if you think you can go on again, giving us the best that is in you."

A moment later Brown passed through Anne's office without seeing her, so dimmed were his eyes. But his face was lighted with a new hope, with returning confidence in himself and in his star. And Anne's eyes were equally misty. She thought, "He's more than a great business man—after all, he's a man."

This was his human side, the side which made him beloved, not for his business capabilities but for himself, his understanding of his associates, and a side of him which showed a response to emotional appeal.

In his office Eaton sat thinking of the boy who had just left him. He had heard rumors, vague, but enough to give him something to go on. Sex, the primal hunger, the impetus to progress and sometimes the obstacle. Sex and a man's needs. First passion and its demands.

HE sighed, his face suddenly lined and altered. Well, if he'd needed—excitement, the thrill of pursuit, the aventuring chase, he'd sublimated it in his work—almost—but not quite.

When some weeks had passed Eaton spoke to Anne.

"Miss Andrews has sent me her resignation," he told her. "Would you care to carry on with me, Miss Murdock? There'll be an advance in salary. You've done excellent work and even in this short time I've grown to depend on you. I'll speak to Mr. Sanders, if it's a bargain. Is it?"

Then, feeling that she had been a trifle informal in her acceptance of the advancement, she managed a brief speech of gratitude and a promise to work hard and well. But Eaton cut her short, reluctantly, for he enjoyed watching her expressive face, her lovely eyes.

"It's all right, then. I warn you, I'm a slave driver," he said, and laughed.

As she went into her office he thought how pleasant it was to have a secretary so soothing to the eyes. He had not missed beauty in Janet Andrews, but he appreciated it in Anne Murdock. He liked the way she walked, the way she carried her shining head; he liked watching her hands, capable, well-cared-for, prettily modeled. He liked her voice and her manner and her way of anticipating his needs before he himself was aware of them. He liked her. And he found himself looking forward to seeing her every day.

Anne sat down at the desk—her desk now—and tried to control the rapid pulsing of her heart. Another step up the ladder. An office of her own. Fifty a week, perhaps, in her pay envelope, and her name in gilt letters on the glass door.

But as exhilarating as office and salary and title was the thought of her working permanently with Eaton in intimate daily contact with him.

She saw that her hands were shaking. She felt an impulse toward laughter or tears. She shook herself mentally, pulled herself together. Such hysteria wasn't like her. Even a better job was no excuse, she told herself severely.

OF COURSE, it was the thought of the job which excited her, the job which was a sign and seal of success. The job and not the man, after all. The man was a symbol, also. Yet, as she sat there and heard him moving about the inner room with his light sure step, and felt her heart thud heavily, she was aware of a sudden misgiving, a creeping doubt, a frail but frightening wonder, a warning admission of his growing physical attraction for her.

She turned to her work again, setting her full lips firmly. This was dangerous nonsense, she admitted to herself. Of course, she admired Mr. Eaton, admired him greatly, but that was all.

But as her pulses steadied, she was aware of an ironic hoot of laughter somewhere in the back of her brain. Had Janet Andrews once reasoned in the same manner—"but that was all?"

Poor Janet, whom she had thought so sexless, had permitted her sex to run away with her sanity. Anne felt an unspoken challenge in that diagnosis of Janet's failure. Was it not possible for a woman to work with a man, with a dangerously attractive man, even, and still find herself more worker than woman?

She thought it was and went back to her typing and did not know that Lawrence Eaton, listening, half-consciously, to the rapid staccato to which business is tuned, sighed a little and smiled a little and wondered why he was suddenly so restless and yet so unwontedly content.

Flavoring With Herbs

(NATIONAL GARDEN BUREAU)

FLAVORING with sweet herbs depends for its success to a large extent on the freshness of the herbs. They should be grown and dried annually, for the dried herbs bought in boxes at stores are of uncertain vintage. This is particularly true of sage, the universal flavoring for poultry stuffing. Fresh sage is much more spicy and aromatic than sage that has stood for several seasons. It carries its flavor well dried for one season. A few bushes of sage from which the leaves may be picked and dried in the fall will give an ample supply. They may be grown in the flower garden as the foliage is a handsome corrugated gray green and the blue flowers are ornamental. It is a hardy perennial.

One sometimes encounters a stuffing for roast goose that has a "different" flavor, especially in the hands of a German cook. Inquiry usually brings the answer that the seasoning is "meiron." This does not give much information as a rule unless it is explained that meiron is the German word for sweet marjoram. This is an excellent and neglected seasoning.

Thyme is sometimes used but it is too pungent for some tastes. Marjoram is not so strong and is much liked. It is often hard to find it in stores, but a packet of seeds will give an ample supply.

The leaves and dried ends of the branches are the parts of the plant to use. They are as easily harvested and dried as sage. The main care is to see that these herbs are thoroughly dried and stored in thoroughly dry containers or they are likely to mold and spoil.

Sweet basil is another excellent herb for flavoring, approaching the marjoram and thyme in pungency but with a different flavor. It, too, can be raised with little trouble from seed. A corner of the cupboard with a few cans of fresh dried herbs will work wonders in the production of savory stews, soups and other dishes.

The tops of celery should be dried and used as sweet herbs as they impart a much stronger flavor of celery to a dish than does fresh celery. They may be used as a substitute for celery seed, which is much used in cooking.

WELL I LEARNED SOMETHING VERY INTERESTING TODAY ABOUT THE KINGS OF ANCIENT EGYPT. DID YOU KNOW THAT IN THOSE DAYS A KING WASN'T ALLOWED TO EAT FISH ON—?
THE LANDLORD WAS HERE TODAY. WHEN I STARTED TO TELL HIM WE MIGHT MOVE HE SNAPPED ME UP BY SAYING. OH, THAT WILL BE PERFECTLY ALL RIGHT. LEAVE ANY TIME. IMAGINE THAT!
WHAT! LISTEN DOES THAT WISEHEIMER REALIZE THAT THE LAW PROTECTS US UNTIL—?
OH WHO CARES ABOUT THE LAW IN A SITUATION LIKE THIS? THE HALL WAS JUST FULL OF SNIPPY NEIGHBORS WHO HEARD EVERY WORD THE LANDLORD SAID
WELL WHY WORRY ABOUT NEIGHBORS. THEIR OPINION MEANS NO MORE TO ME THAN CHILBLAINS DO TO A FISH AND—
OH GEORGE BUNGLE, DON'T TALK SO FOOLISHLY DO YOU IMAGINE I'D GIVE THESE CATTY WOMEN THE OPPORTUNITY OF SAYING WE WANT TO STAY HERE.
I BLAME THE LANDLORD. HE KNEW WE SAID SOMETHING ABOUT MOVING—IN A SORT OF KIDDING WAY—EVERY MONTH OR SO.
UGH, IT JUST GIVES ME THE CREEPS TO EVEN THINK OF REALLY LEAVING HERE. SUCH A BUSINESS! FORCED TO MOVE SIMPLY BECAUSE I SAID WE MIGHT GO. HA! OH I KNOW THE OTHER NEIGHBORS HERE ARE JUST JUMPING WITH HAPPINESS.
